

Lucey, Nelson sweep to easy victories

By DENNIS KOIS

Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey captured the greatest gubernatorial plurality in 22 years, and U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson swamped his opponent, leading Wisconsin Democrats to a powerful showing in Tuesday's election. Lucey crushed Republican William Dyke, becoming the first Democratic governor to win re-election in Wisconsin since Nelson did it in 1960.

And Nelson easily captured his third term in the Senate, burying freshman state Sen. Thomas Petri.

Democrats swept other top state offices, took control of the Senate for the first time this century, and widened their margin in the Assembly.

With 94 per cent of the vote tabulated, Lucey had 592,732 to 466,037 for Dyke, while Nelson led Petri 695,085-404,330.

Lucey's 56 to 44 per cent margin over Dyke represented the greatest gubernatorial election edge since Walter Kohler collected 62 per cent in defeating William Proxmire, now a U.S. senator, in 1952.

The governor called it a mandate for "the continuation of the policies I've been for during the past four years."

"I want to assure the people of this state that not for one moment during this renewed lease will we ever take any citizen for granted," Lucey said at a Milwaukee victory party with re-elected Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber.

"I feel this is a mandate to hold down taxes, to meet the challenges of transportation, education, social services and the environment."

Dyke, the former Madison mayor who harped on decentralization of state government during his campaign, said his effort "was short of money and faced many frustrations."

"There was a reasonable amount of frustration during the campaign, but we feel we did the best we could with what we were given," he said. "If we didn't prove it to the fat cats, experts or big-money boys, we proved some things to ourselves."

Dyke had complained that GOP funding of his campaign fell short of needs. Party officials responded that they gave what was available, and Dyke said early today he "was not in any position to speculate about support from the party."

Dyke won 28 of Wisconsin's 72 counties, but fell far behind in urban Democratic strongholds. Lucey outpolled him by nearly 2-1 margins in Milwaukee and Dane counties.

With 66 per cent of the wards tabulated, American party contender William Upham led five other candidates for governor with 21,372.

Independent Crazy Jim of Milwaukee had 9,477; Socialist William O. Hart 4,498; Communist Fred Blair 1,791, and Socialist-Labor Georgia Cozzini 1,156.

Nelson lost only seven counties to Petri, 34, a Harvard lawyer and former Peace Corps worker who figured to gain stature in the state GOP for his effort.

Petri, who walked across much of the state in his campaign, ran independently of the White House to avoid the taint of Watergate, and blamed deficit government spending for encouraging inflation.

"I would especially like to congratulate my worthy opponent on a fine victory," he said in an election-night appearance at the Democrat's victory party. "I look forward, as I'm sure all citizens do, to their doing the job of running the country during the next two, four and six years."

Nelson, a senator for 12 years, made his support of legislation to protect land resources a major item in his campaign.

The senator, 58, said the nation has been getting warnings that abuse of environment and resources would lead to energy shortages and inflation.

He tried to avoid any campaign criticisms that might have linked his voting record to that of excessive spending, and pointed to the Senate records on spending measures of he and Democratic Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin.

With 54 per cent of the wards tabulated, Gerald McFarren, the American party contender for the Senate, had 11,054 votes and independent Roman Blenski 800.

Cornell ousts Froehlich from 8th District seat

BY CLIFF MILLER

Post-Crescent staff writer

The same political upheaval that was sweeping Democrats in and Republicans out nationwide reached into the 8th Congressional District of Wisconsin Tuesday, sending to Congress a Catholic priest who wore a blue donkey pin on his clerical suit.

The Rev. Robert Cornell of De Pere, making his third consecutive bid for the House seat, defeated Rep. Harold V. Froehlich of Appleton, one of the Republicans who voted for impeachment of his party's President, Richard Nixon, on the House Judiciary Committee.

The outcome was evident within less than two hours of the 8 p.m. closing of the polls Tuesday. But a grim-faced Froehlich never made a concession statement and put off until today the traditional phone call of congratulations to the victor. Cornell didn't climb on a chair to make his victory speech until the night had slipped more than halfway into the first hour of morning.

Unofficial returns this morning from the district's 13 courthouses showed the Democratic priest with 74,070 votes to Froehlich's 67,007, a 52.5 per cent edge for Cornell.

Both candidates described the district — which Froehlich carried by less than 51 per cent two years ago — as marginal in its party alignment under normal circumstances, implying the results Tuesday reflected the peculiarities of 1974. In short, Cornell has two years of hard work ahead of him if he is to hold onto the district as its first Democratic representative since 1942.

The results in Wisconsin and elsewhere in the nation were reminiscent of 1964 when Democrats rode into Congress on Lyndon Johnson's coattails. Two years later, some of the same Democrats who had captured formerly Republican districts lost them to the other side.

One of those was Wisconsin's 6th District, which was represented from 1964 to 1966 by John Race of Fond du Lac. An ironic twist of Tuesday's voting, which replaced two of the state's four House Republicans with Democrats, was the election of Race as Fond du Lac county treasurer, his first public office since losing his House seat to Republican Rep. William Steiger eight years ago. He again unseated a GOP incumbent.

Cornell carried all but the most heavily Republican counties in the district, Shawano, Vilas and Waupaca. He even added Froehlich's home county, Outagamie, to the string of nine that he carried. Unofficial returns showed a 525-525 tie in Florence County.

Cornell also cut into Froehlich's margin, compared with the returns two years ago, in those counties and precincts where Froehlich led. Froehlich's home-town margin in Appleton was down by four percentage points from 1972, from 59 per cent to 55. He outpolled Cornell this year 8,988 to 8,906.

Two years ago, Cornell carried his home Brown County by a wide margin and repeated that performance Tuesday. He had carried Kewaunee, Langlade and Menominee counties two years ago. This year he added Door, Forest, Marinette, Oconto and Outagamie. The rural Town of Enterprise in Oneida County is also in the district. Froehlich carried the tiny community again but by 53-41 compared with 93-46 over Cornell two years ago.

Though small, the little town is typical of the rural returns throughout the district, with Froehlich losing support heavily.

He attributed the rural losses to current farm problems and said he had not expected farmers to turn against him. Neither he nor Cornell had placed much emphasis on farm problems except in a general way. The rural vote was never openly mentioned as a possibly significant factor in the election.

Froehlich saw organized labor as a major factor in his urban losses. He claimed professional labor representatives toured the district in the late days of the election, giving assistance to Cor-

Democrats make big gains nationwide

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nation unsettled by Republican scandal and burgeoning prices handed Democrats a much tighter grip on Congress and a near-record total of governorships in the mid-term election of 1974.

The majority party picked up at least four Senate seats, for a total of 62, and captured two-thirds control of the House.

As of midday, the Democrats had 291 Representatives — one vote more than the so-called veto-proof margin — and were leading in several other races that were still to close to call.

Tabulations were also incomplete in some governors' races, but the likely outcome would give the Democrats four more state mansions for a total of 36 — the greatest number since their 1958 landslide.

But the GOP scored a major upset in populous Ohio, with 65-year-old James A. Rhodes barely squeaking by incumbent Gov. John J. Gilligan — who was regarded as many as a rising national star for the Democrats.

Rhodes, a former governor, had conceded defeat during the night, and the final margin was so tight that a recount was almost certain.

At the White House, press secretary Ron Nessen declared today that "No one thinks this was a referendum on the President... It will not affect the President's decision that he probably will run for election in 1976."

The Democrats got several new faces to watch as potential candidates in the presidential campaign two years away: Gov.-elect Hugh L. Carey of New York and Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, and Sens.-elect John H. Glenn Jr. of Ohio and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas.

And the losers included a half-dozen Republicans who had been among the loudest and longest defenders of former President Richard M. Nixon: four members of the House Judiciary Committee who stood by Nixon during last summer's hearings and Reps. Dan H. Quayle of Tennessee and Earl F. Landgrebe of Indiana.

Though the Democratic gains Tuesday were a bit below some pre-election forecasts and in line with the normal off-year pattern of opposition party success, Democratic spokesmen hailed their victory as a signal to supplant

Ford's economic policies with measures of their own.

"This is not just a victory, this is a mandate," declared Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, scheduled to preside over the first House in a decade with a two-thirds Democratic margin, theoretically the "veto-proof" body Ford warned might block his programs.

Other Democrats cocked their eyes towards 1976 and the presidential contest they hope will restore them to White House control.

If Ford doesn't change his economic programs "we will win the White House in 1976," declared Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas, a likely Democratic presidential contender. And Sen. Henry M.

Jackson of Washington said he might unveil his White House bid before year's end.

"We're seeing the rebuilding of the old Democratic coalition which served the Democratic party and the nation so well for so many years," declared Democratic Chairman Robert S. Strauss, adding that the result was more than a victory, but also an opportunity to tackle "break and butter" issues.

At the White House, President Ford watched the returns on television and conceded his party had lost.

"I have accepted the verdict," he said. "Those who lose often come back to win another day."

Lopsided Congress doesn't bode well for Ford

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — That good marriage President Ford proposed to Congress may be headed for a quick divorce. The election returns point to incompatibility as the likely grounds.

The voters have confronted the Republican President with the most heavily Democratic Congress since Lyndon B. Johnson's landslide election a decade ago.

And while Ford said he is confident he can work with the new Congress to deal with inflation and the economic slump,

An AP News Analysis

all the signs signal a heightened struggle over economic measures.

Against the background of Tuesday's election outcome, it is likely to begin almost immediately, when the current 93rd Congress returns for its lame duck session beginning Nov. 18.

For one thing, any slim prospect that Congress would act this year to give Ford the middle and upper income tax surcharge he proposed as an anti-inflation measure appears to be gone now. And given the shape of the new Congress that will convene in January, if Ford ever gets the surtax through, it likely will be altered so as to apply only to high income brackets.

The new Congress will be more aggressively liberal, more likely to challenge Ford on foreign and defense spending, more attuned to domestic programs.

House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, an old friend of Ford's, but a Democrat first, said his party had a mandate, not just a victory.

Albert said the Democrats now can move with more confidence on such programs as national health insurance, tax reform and public service employment.

He also said the White House had focused on inflation while neglecting the problem of recession. "We believe we can meet both problems simultaneously," Albert said.

Ford said there was no argument that inflation was the No. 1 issue.

"The mandate of the electorate places upon the next Congress a full measure of responsibility for resolving this problem," he said. "I will work with them wholeheartedly in this urgent task which is certainly beyond partisanship."

But other politicians put inflation squarely in the partisan arena. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who is virtually certain to seek the White House in 1976, and who said the election outcome will push up his timetable for an announcement, argued that the voters are fed up and want action now.

"We're all going to have to move sooner and faster and much more effectively," Jackson said. "They're fed up with high prices, obscene profits. They want something more than WIN buttons."

Another Democratic prospect, Sen.

Undoubtedly assisted by the magic of the family name, Bronson C. La Follette Tuesday engineered a return to the Wisconsin attorney general's office with an easy victory over State Sen. Gerald D. Lorge of Bear Creek.

La Follette, 38, two-term attorney general in the 1960s then an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1968, carried most of the urban areas and cut deep into rural votes that Lorge had counted on.

Incomplete and unofficial returns show La Follette with 571,796 votes and Lorge with 407,308.

Two of four Fox Valley area counties gave Lorge the vote edge. Outagamie County went for Lorge 17,251 to 14,360, and Lorge outdistanced La Follette 6,539 to 3,269 in Waupaca County. Calumet County gave La Follette the edge 4,211 to 3,912 and incomplete returns from Winnebago County showed La Follette with 8,766 and Lorge with 7,729.

Lorge's home town of Bear Creek lies in Outagamie and Waupaca counties.

Victories by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, Bronson La Follette and his shuttling relative, Douglas LaFollette of Keshewa, who had no trouble defeating two opponents for secretary of state, helped propel Wisconsin Democrats to their most resounding election triumph in this century.

State Senate Democrats captured control of the upper chamber for the first time since 1893.

Lorge, 52, has spent 23 years in the Senate and the Assembly, but he conceded during his vigorous personal contact campaign for the state's top law enforcement job that he faced difficulty because of the familiarity of the La Follette name.

"I'm running against a ghost," Lorge once commented.

Bronson, a Madison attorney, is the grandson of Robert (Fighting Bob) La Follette Sr., the son of Robert (Young Bob) La Follette, a former governor and senator, and a nephew of Phil, also a governor.

Lorge urged voters not to ballot for a name. At the same time, he had to make his name more familiar across the state.

He repeatedly tried to publicly debate La Follette but rarely succeeded.

Lorge capitalized on comments by La Follette at a La Crosse news conference, where the Democrat said he was inaccurately quoted as favoring legalized prostitution. Other remarks by La Follette were interpreted to mean he wanted less severe penalties for some drug offenses. La Follette later clarified his statements, stating that he would be

Steiger heartens GOP in strong victory for fifth term

Rep. William A. Steiger shrugged off the effects of Watergate, inflation and a host of other problems that faced Republican candidates Tuesday to roll to an impressive fifth term win over Nancy Simenz of Sheboygan.

Unofficial returns from the 12 counties that make up the 6th Congressional District give Steiger 83,479 votes to 46,077 for Miss Simenz, the district's Democratic Party chairman. Harvey Leroy, the American party candidate, polled approximately 7,200 votes with more than half that total coming from his home county of Manitowoc.

Steiger polled about 61 per cent of the votes cast, fewer than he had received in previous elections, but more than he personally had anticipated.

His victory was the one bright note for the Republicans in the state who watched Harold Froehlich and Vernon Thompson go down to defeat, leaving the party with only two representatives in Congress. Besides Steiger there is newly elected Robert W. Kasten Jr.

Steiger carried every county in the district, including Sheboygan and the normally Democratic Manitowoc County.

He carried Winnebago County 2-1, 22,563 to 11,922 and took the Democratic stronghold of Menasha.

Steiger, who had not supported impeachment of former President Richard Nixon until after Nixon admitted being involved in a coverup of Watergate, conceded "we were very lucky" in the election.

He said he had expected to drop a minimum of 10 percentage points when he went into the campaign. He actually lost about 7 percentage points from his victory two years ago over former Menasha Mayor James Adams.

"We really had an extraordinary commitment by hundreds of people who did a lot of work in the campaign," Steiger said. He added that he worked harder than at any time since he defeated John Race for his first term in Congress in 1966.

He said he hasn't given any thought at this point as to the role he will play in shaping Republican philosophy in the next term of Congress, but admitted the party was "hurt and hurt badly" in the House. "It's going to be a tough two years," he said. "I don't know the answer to rebuilding the party."

One of the key things, he felt, would be President Ford's approach to government and his proposals during the next two years. "He will have to do well in his approach to re-establish the people's confidence in a Republican administration," Steiger said.

He also said the party would have to do "a better job in rebuilding its state organization and start building candidates for 1976 at all levels and do it early."

A breakdown of vote totals in Winnebago County shows Steiger carrying the City of Neenah 4,283 to 1,761 for Simenz; the City of Menasha, 2,060 to 1,592, and the City of Oshkosh, 9,156 to 5,247.

The closest margins were in the small counties of Adams and Monroe. In Manitowoc County, which traditionally has voted Democratic, Steiger had 11,437 to 8,697 for Simenz. Leroy had 3,952 in Manitowoc County.

Alvin Baldus, assistant Democratic majority leader in the state Assembly, eliminated Thomson. The Rev. Robert J. Cornell, a Roman Catholic priest, was the Democratic victor over Froehlich.

The state's five Democratic incumbents had little difficulty disposing of GOP challengers. They include Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, a House Judiciary Committee member who voted solidly for impeachment and against Nixon's selection of Gerald Ford as vice president.

"The big thing was the pocketbook issue," Cornell said.

Thomson, 69, a former governor who said he had counted on his western Wisconsin district's farm vote to carry him to an eighth House term, accused Baldus of stressing Watergate excessively.

"I leave office with disappointment, but not with bitterness," Thomson said.

Baldus, 48, of Menomonee, is a farm equipment manufacturer's agent who has served in the Assembly since 1966.

"I was cautiously optimistic about the farm vote," Baldus said. His district was the scene of a National Farm Organization calf-shipping protest against faltering farm prices last month.

His victory, Baldus quipped, "was arranged for me by Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz."

"Vernon voted with the administration, and that hurt him," Baldus added.

Democrats had also hoped to capture the 9th District, a Republican flagship containing Milwaukee suburbs.

But Kasten, 32, having eliminated Rep. Glenn R. Davis in the GOP primary, overcame Democratic newcomer Lynn S. Adelman, who said Kasten's economic philosophies are as conservative as those of Davis.

"One of the problems we have in the Republican party," Kasten said, "is that very often we fall into the trap of voting 'no' without developing alternatives."

"As we get into a minority position in Congress," he continued, "it is harder to develop alternatives. That is the challenge."

Kastenmeier, 50, carried 64 per cent of the vote in his 8th District, defeating its GOP chairman, Elizabeth Miller, a

Democrat Les Aspin, 36, won a third term in southeastern Wisconsin's formerly Republican 1st District, taking 71 per cent of the vote against Leonard W. Smith, a Whitewater executive with AT&T.

Democrat David R. Obey, 36, won a fourth term in his northern Wisconsin district, capturing 71 per cent of the vote in a contest with Republican political science professor Josef Burger of Wausau.

Democrats Clement J. Zablocki and Henry S. Reuss won 14th and 11th consecutive terms respectively in their Milwaukee districts.

Kasten got 55 per cent of his district's vote, leading in all six counties.

Even so, Adelman, 34, a Shorewood attorney making his first bid for public office, made a good showing, Kasten said.

"We didn't anticipate the strong Democratic vote," Kasten said.

Cornell got 54 per cent and Baldus 52 per cent.

Goyke defeats Guiles as control of state Senate goes to Democrats

Gary Goyke, a 27-year-old pizza parlor manager, rode the Democratic tide Tuesday to win the 19th District state Senate seat, defeating Republican Jon Guiles by slightly more than 1,000 votes.

Goyke received 18,648 votes, Guiles had 17,263 and American party candidate Eugene Lind had 1,511.

Goyke's victory was part of an upset-riddled election card for the state Senate. Democrats captured outright control of the upper chamber for the first time since 1893.

Goyke and Guiles, both of Oshkosh, were competing for the seat formerly occupied by Jack Steinhilber, Oshkosh, a prominent GOP figure.

The breakdown by counties showed Goyke with 17,818 in Winnebago and 830 in Fond du Lac, while Guiles had 16,713 and 550, respectively. Lind received 1,445 votes in Winnebago and 66 in Fond du Lac.

In another battle for a seat formerly occupied by a prominent Republican, Raymond Johnson of Eau Claire, who retired, Democrat Thomas Harnisch, 27, a Neillsville lawyer, defeated Wood County Dist. Atty. Harold La Chapelle.

Voters also elected a woman to the state Senate for the first time.

The biggest surprise was pulled off by Kathryn Morrison of Platteville, who ousted veteran Republican Gordon Roseleip of Darlington, an outspoken foe of an equal rights bill for women.

The senator-elect, a feminist who prefers to be addressed as "Ms. Morrison," attributed part of her victory to Roseleip's Senate voting record.

"I think there is a general distrust of politicians, especially him," the 32-year-old Ms. Morrison said.

In another eyebrow raiser, Democrat Timothy Cullen of Janesville toppled Sen. James Swan, R-Elkhorn, who has served in the Senate since 1967.

The triumphs gave Democrats and the administration of Gov. Patrick J. Lucey a commanding 19-14 margin in the Senate to go with their nearly two-thirds advantage in the Assembly.

"It looks like some of our boys have had their last hurrah," said a disappointed Statehouse Republican.

"Perhaps there's something significant in the fact that our two weakest candidates—Theno and Chilsen—scored victories," he said. "Maybe moderates are what the people want."

His reference was to Sens. Daniel Theno of Ashland and Walter Chilsen of Wausau, who occasionally steered a less conservative political course than some of their Republican colleagues.

The election-capped years of struggle by the Democrats to gain control of the 33-member Senate.

In 1931, a year before the Franklin Roosevelt landslide, Democrats had only one senator in the Upper Chamber. There were two Socialists and 30 Republicans.

The standing joke for years was that Senate Democrats could hold their party caucuses in a phone booth.

Democrats elected the Senate's president pro tem in 1935, but only because they formed a coalition with Progressives. The last Democratic pro tem to preside over a solid Democratic majority was Sen. Robert J. MacBride of Neillsville in 1893.

Ms. Morrison, an economics professor at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville, said she had no qualms about assuming a seat in the all-male Senate.

"I work mostly with men now anyway," she said. "I think it will be fun."

Her victory caught most political observers by surprise because Roseleip, 62, is perhaps the best known state senator in Wisconsin and his district is considered one of the most Republican.

"We won because we put on a better campaign," Ms. Morrison said. "Then, too, I think a lot of people questioned his voting record, and his comments about women."

Roseleip was instrumental in helping kill an equal rights bill for women during the past legislative session.

Democratic Sen. Henry Dorman of Racine turned back an election challenge by Bill Gowins, 34, who sought to become the second black elected to the Senate.

The senate's first black, Democrat Monroe Swan of Milwaukee, was elected two years ago.

Although Democrats will hold a 19-14 vote edge, it will be only temporary as two senators, Republican Robert Rastven of Brown Deer and Democrat Douglas La Follette of Kenosha, will resign.

Kasten was elected to the U. S. House Tuesday to succeed Republican Glenn R. Davis, and La Follette won election as Secretary of State.

Lucey is expected to call a special session to fill the vacancies.

GOP assemblymen in area buck state trend

Incumbent assemblymen in the Fox Cities area were all returned to Madison by voters Tuesday and the Republicans bucked a statewide trend by picking up a seat in Shawano County that was being vacated by a Democrat.

The only incumbent to run into trouble was Michael Ellis in Dist. 55 (Neenah-Menasha) who turned back a challenge by Democratic newcomer Gary Weyenberg, 6,230 to 5,728. This was the closest the Democrats have come in a number of years to capturing the district which is comprised of the City and Town of Menasha and the City of Neenah.

In Dist. 87, composed of Menominee, most of Shawano and parts of Oconto and Langlade counties, Shawano, Republican Earl Schmidt, defeated former assemblyman Joseph Jones, Antigo, 7,560 to 5,539 for the seat being vacated by Democrat Herbert Grover. Theresa Jacobs polled 229 votes on the American Party ticket.

In other area contests, incumbents re-elected, all with relative ease, include Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, Dist. 6; Gordon Bradley, R-Omro, Dist. 57; Richard Flintrop, D-Oshkosh, Dist. 56, and Tobias Roth, R-Appleton, Dist. 42.

State Rep. Francis Byers, R-Marion, won re-election in Dist. 40 with only token opposition from American Party candidate Alfred Knitt. The district, composed of all of Outagamie and small parts of Outagamie and Shawano counties, gave Byers 8,370 votes to 824 for Knitt.

Hephner, winning his fifth term, defeated Donald Schnell, 8,911 to 4,605 in the district made up of most of Calumet County and parts of Fond du Lac, Washington and Sheboygan counties.

Bradley defeated Herman Brandt, a Winnebago County Board member, 6,753 to 5,463. American Party candidate Nelson Haase had 584. The district is composed of rural Winnebago County and a small portion of Fond du Lac County.

Flintrop won his second term in the City of Oshkosh, defeating Peter Kohlhoff by a surprisingly large margin, 6,973 to 5,372.

In two uncontested assembly districts, William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, polled 9,296 votes in Dist. 5 (Outagamie, Brown and Calumet counties), and Ervin Conrad, D-Shiocton, polled 7,452 votes in Dist. 41 (Outagamie and Shawano counties).

Barring any last minute changes in the projected winners when the final ballots are counted in close races, the Democrats will maintain their 62-37 control of the chamber.

Among the incumbents who were defeated were Rep. Lawrence Gibson, R-La Crosse, by Democrat Paul Offner, and Rep. Jerome Quinn, 64, the Republican with the second most seniority in the Assembly.

Democrats now control the Assembly 62-37. With one or two close races up in the air, they are unlikely to lose more than one seat.

Among the incumbents who were defeated was veteran State Rep. Jerome Quinn, 64, the Republican with the second most seniority in the Assembly.

He lost to Sharon K. Metz, 40, whose Green Bay home is on the same block as Quinn's. Mrs. Metz is a senior at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Other Republicans whose bids for re-election were spurned were John Niebler of Menomonee Falls, Henry Rohner of Racine and Mel J. Cyrak of Lake Mills, all freshmen.

Democrats who lost their jobs included Everett E. Bolle of Francis Creek and Janet Mielke of Milton Junction. Bolle lost to Alan J. Lasee of De Pere and Mielke to Lyman F. Anderson of Oregon.

Millionaire doesn't regret gifts to Nixon

MEMPHIS (AP) — Chicago millionaire W. Clement Stone, 72, says he believes the $6 million he gave to two of Richard M. Nixon's presidential campaign was money well spent.

"I think my goal was achieved — to change the course of history for the better," the insurance man and philanthropist said at a convention of hotel executives.

nell in various ways.

Cornell said the economy was the major factor contributing to his victory. Both candidates downplayed Watergate and Froehlich's role in the impeachment proceedings as a member of the House Judiciary Committee, as having an impact on the outcome.

"I really believe it was the pocketbook issues," said Cornell.

Voters in the district went against widespread predictions of light turnouts as a result of apathy. Froehlich suggested that voters who did stay home were Republicans who might have voted for him. It is a common belief that Republicans gain in years of light voting and Democrats in heavy turnouts.

Cornell, who thought he had won until late returns reversed the trend in 1972, waited until past 12:30 a.m. to climb onto a folding chair in his Green Bay campaign headquarters and accept victory cheers.

Wearing the black uniform of a priest with a blue donkey emblem pinned to his chest, Cornell joked jubilantly, "This is unusual for me, I have a patented concession speech."

He gave the customary thanks to his supporters and asked for "your continued support and your prayers" to do a good job "and eventually pass this seat along to another Democrat."

He said his first task will be to organize a staff. In an interview later, he said that will include three home secretaries, compared with two employed by Froehlich. Many congressmen get by with one.

The statement suggests that, like Froehlich, the new congressman will heavily emphasize service to constituents. Asked about this, Cornell agreed and said it also means he will try harder to learn how his constituents feel about issues and to communicate his views to them.

He said he will use part of his $42,500 House salary to provide the added home secretary. As a priest, living under a vow of poverty, he said he will use only part of his salary for his own support. Other uses he mentioned for the income are expenses of student interns in his Washington office, and to help St. Norbert College pay the salary of his replacement on the faculty.

As professor of history and political science, Cornell has required no salary because he is a priest.

He said his first effort toward maintaining his hold on the district must be to "carry out my campaign promises" and work in the House for the changes he advocated. Among the promises also is to make the extra home secretary a farmer. He said he already has a person in mind for that and one of the other two district jobs. Like Froehlich, he will have a secretary headquartered in each of the two major cities of the district, Green Bay and Appleton, he said.

Cornell and Froehlich describe the political makeup of the district in different phrases that mean much the same thing. Cornell said that since he ran a strong race against former Republican Rep. John Byrnes of Green Bay in 1970 and nearly outpolled Froehlich in 1972, it has been evident that "there has been a changing pattern in the district."

"You can no longer consider it a safe, Republican district."

Froehlich said today, "This has been a marginally Republican district." Looking toward 1976, Froehlich said it is too early to think about whether he will run again. "I have a young family and I don't know if I want to go through this again," he said.

He left the county Republican election night party at The Left Guard on W. College Avenue about 1:30 a.m. without making a concession speech or phoning Cornell, even though television networks had long since declared Cornell the winner. He said he would call Cornell this morning.

Froehlich said, "There was nothing I could do. The party was in shatters." It was the first year in a long time that the Outagamie County Republicans did not have a campaign headquarters on College Avenue. Froehlich had his own campaign offices in the Conway Motor Inn. The party relied more on him than he on the party for help during the campaign.

"There has got to be a lot of organizational work done," he said.

He said he has not given any thought to what he will do after his term ends and Cornell takes office in January. "I hadn't expected to be in this position," he said, managing an ironic smile.

Cornell, smiling down on his supporters from the chair he stood on early this morning, promised them "a real victory party" before he leaves for Washington.

As for himself, he said, "I'm going to go celebrate in typical fashion for me — and have a hot fudge sundae with nuts."

Schoen was attempting to win his fifth term office but lost most of the rural areas and had major strength only in the City and Town of Brillion.

He carried the City of Brillion by a vote of 621-321 and the Town of Brillion by 280-128.

In addition he was favored in the Town of Woodville by a vote of 167-151 and in the Town of Rantoul by 208-160. He won the Hilbert contest by two votes, 170-16.

backs in the agency, but he said it warranted a long, hard look. La Follette, who has been out of the Wisconsin political arena since his gubernatorial defeat by Warren P. Knowles in 1968, is expected to move back into his old office before the new term officially begins in January. Warren, who was elected attorney general in 1968 and re-elected in 1970, recently became a federal judge. Lucey then named Democrat Victor A. Miller as interim attorney general, pending the outcome of Tuesday's race.

In other state contests Tuesday:

- Democratic Treasurer Charles P. Smith had no trouble winning re-election. With 60 per cent of the precincts counted, Smith polled 435,220 votes to 278,848 for Nina Weir, a Republican from Whitefish Bay, and 18,329 for Grace Mattison, an American party candidate from Marshfield.

- Douglas LaFollette, a freshman state senator and a former chemistry professor at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside, counted 420,465 votes with 60 per cent of the precincts reporting and his nearest challenger for secretary of state, Republican Kent C. Jones, a Marquette University law student, had 233,874. American party candidate Eugene R. Zimmerman had 25,811.

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than half of the Republican candidates for whom President Ford personally campaigned were defeated in Tuesday's elections.

During his campaign speeches in 20 states, Ford specifically endorsed 97 gubernatorial, Senate and congressional candidates. Of these, 56 lost and 33 won with 8 races undecided.

From the White House, where he watched the returns on three color television sets, Ford acknowledged his party had been trounced. But he declared, "Those who lose often come back to win another day."

"I am not dismayed," Ford was quoted as telling GOP National Chairman Mary Louise Smith in a telephone conversation. "Parties have come back before, and we will, too."

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford's spirits "don't reflect any gloom or pessimism." In fact, Nessen reported, Ford was "laughing a lot" while watching televised returns.

Of the 17 Senate candidates receiving personal campaign aid from Ford, a dozen went down to defeat. Four won and a fifth was clinging to a narrow lead.

Ford endorsed 13 GOP gubernatorial contenders. Seven lost, four won and two races were too close to call early today.

During his travels, he also singled out for endorsement 67 Republican congressional candidates. Thirty-seven of these lost, 25 won and five races were undecided.

An analysis of the returns showed mixed results from the presidential politicking.

For example, on his last campaign swing, Ford made a special stop in Sioux City, Iowa, to help Republican Rep. Wiley Mayne in his bid for a new term. Mayne lost.

A few days later, he stopped over in Salt Lake City to aid Jake Garn in his Senate bid, then rated too close to call. Garn won.

That same day, he also campaigned for Sen. Peter Dominick in Colorado and Sen. Robert Dole in Kansas. Dominick lost, but Dole won.

Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken received large doses of support from Ford, and barely won re-election. But Paul Goebel, bidding to oust a Democrat from Ford's old House seat in Grand Rapids, was unable to ride Ford's personal help to victory.

Public works okays lone fuel bid at Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works has instructed Mayor Robert La Plante to accept the bid of Brooks Oil Co. on gasoline and fuel oil to be stored in tanks at the new city garage and municipal building.

Earlier, the board had authorized La Plante to seek bids. After checking with three local dealers, only Brooks Oil submitted a proposal. La Plante and the board met to discuss the submitted bid, after which the mayor was instructed to accept.

Prices quoted were 29.5 cents per gallon for No. 2 fuel oil and diesel fuel, 35 cents per gallon for regular gasoline and 36 cents per gallon for unleaded gasoline.

The board said the accepted bid was less than what is being paid by the electric and water utility under terms of its contract with a supplier. The underground tanks at the new garage and municipal building have been empty and the board was told by Donald Schaefer, street department foreman, that tanks must be filled with either water or fuel to prevent heaving. Schaefer said his crews could fill the tanks with water and pump it out when fuel was received, but the board thought such an action would be a duplication of work and decided to seek bids immediately.

Police & fire beat

A $1,200 oboe was reported stolen from Appleton High School-West Monday. Police said the oboe was taken from the locker of its user, Roberto L. Kangas, 1726 E. Marquette St.

Richard Janssen, 209 Helen St., Kimberly, told police someone took a case and 12 tapes valued together at $76 from his car in the 500 block of W. College Avenue, Appleton, late Monday.

Two persons were taken to Green Bay St. Mary's Hospital for treatment of injuries they received in a two-car accident at Outagamie County Trunk U and Fish Creek Road, Town of Oneida, about 5:10 p.m. Tuesday.

One driver, David J. Williams, 19, rural Green Bay, complained of hip, shoulder and chest pains, while the other driver, Angeline C. Janz, 54, route 4, De Pere, sustained a cut lip and possible internal injuries.

Police said Williams pulled out from a stop sign and into the eastbound lane of Fish Creek Road, entering the path of Janz, driving south on U.

Two fire extinguishers valued together at $80 were reported stolen Monday or Tuesday from Appleton Specialty Products, 228 N. Island St. Police said entry to the storage building was gained by breaking a board covering a northeast side window.

A company spokesman told police it was the first time anything has been taken from the building, although during the past youths have been in the building and have discharged extinguishers there.

Aluminum prices may revive town

MILFORD, Utah (AP) — Increasing world prices of aluminum and fertilizer may soon combine to revive this southwest Utah town of 1,400, once the hub of a silver production area in the last century.

If the new mining boom comes to Milford, 200 miles southwest of Salt Lake City, it could triple the town's population, expand its economy and dump in its lap some of the social and environmental problems faced by other modern western boom towns.

Earth Sciences Inc., a Colorado-based company, says it is considering a mine and mill at Milford to produce alunite, a low grade aluminum ore. The United States must import most of its bauxite, the prime aluminum ore, and the price of bauxite has risen as rapidly on world markets as that of petroleum.

The company also says it is considering a mining venture in southwest Idaho to produce phosphate to mix with alunite byproducts in fertilizer manufacturing.

The projected Milford mine would be an open pit a mile long and a quarter-mile wide, dug at 8,000 feet in the rugged, barren Wah Wah Mountains south of Utah 21. The mine site is 30 miles southwest of Milford and about the same distance from the Nevada border, a spokesman for the Bureau of Land Management said.

He said the company will have to slice off the top of a mountain containing the alunite, then dig about 400 feet below the level of the desert peaks to exhaust the main deposit of one million tons.

The company says it will go ahead with the mine if metallurgical testing in its suburban Denver pilot plant indicates the deposit can be mined profitably.

Company vice president William Walker said the outlook for the project is "favorable," but he said final testing and feasibility studies in the pilot plant will not be completed until the middle of next year.

The mine and mill would be the only large-scale alunite operation in the United States, Walker said. He said the mill could handle about 12,000 tons of ore a day at peak production, or 500,000 tons a year.

Milford officials are going ahead with plans to enlarge the town's water and sewer capacities. City fathers say they have one eye on already-existing need and one eye on needs that might be generated by an influx of mine workers.

At the same time, real estate speculators have already boosted land values from about $400 to about $1,500 an acre in the past few months, said one Utah developer who owns land in the area.

Milford and Beaver County officials met here recently with mining company officers, developers and the public to discuss the scope of the project and its effects on housing, education, public safety, roads and sanitation.

A research firm, Cris Lewis and Associates, of Logan, is studying the impact of bringing several hundred construction and permanent workers into Milford.

Between 1,200 and 1,800 construction workers would be employed to build the mine and mill, with about 900 permanent employees when planned production begins in about two years. Total cost of the Utah and Idaho facilities would be about $250 million, most of which would be spent in Utah, Walker said.

Lewis said he didn't expect Milford to have workers living in tents as they do in some boom towns.

"The real estate people are ready to build apartments and houses for the permanent workers," said Lewis, whose report won't be ready until next month. But there will be problems.

"The large majority of workers with special construction and engineering skills will have to come from outside the area," he said. "If you bring all these people in here, making a lot of money, crime rates will soar and divorce rates go up."

Estimates of population growth by various company and local officials range from tripling, which would boost the town's population to about 4,000, to a high estimate of 6,000 to 7,000.

Mayor Roy Young said he is "just hoping it happens."

"We'll upgrade the present water and sewer systems right to the town limits," said Young. "Then if this new development comes through, we can extend the pipes right on out."

Young says his community is practically debt-free and he doesn't anticipate any great financial troubles. Nevertheless, he said "It's going to be a burden — all growing pains hurt."

The alunite mine seems to have elicited little environmentalist opposition.

"Our only concern is that their ore roasting process might give off sulfur gas," said Lloyd Gordon of Cedar City, executive director of ISSUE (Interested in Saving Southern Utah's Environment).

Gordon said he was pleased the company was planning to collect the sulfur gases.

After the sulfur gas is removed in the heating process, the ore is soaked in water. When only silicates and alumina remain, the raw material is bathed in sodium hydroxide, where the silicates are precipitated out as a fine sand. The alumina is heated to drive out remaining water and the silicates are discarded in tailing ponds.

Ken Satterfield of the Bureau of Land Management's district office said he is concerned with rehabilitation of the mine site after the company pulls out.

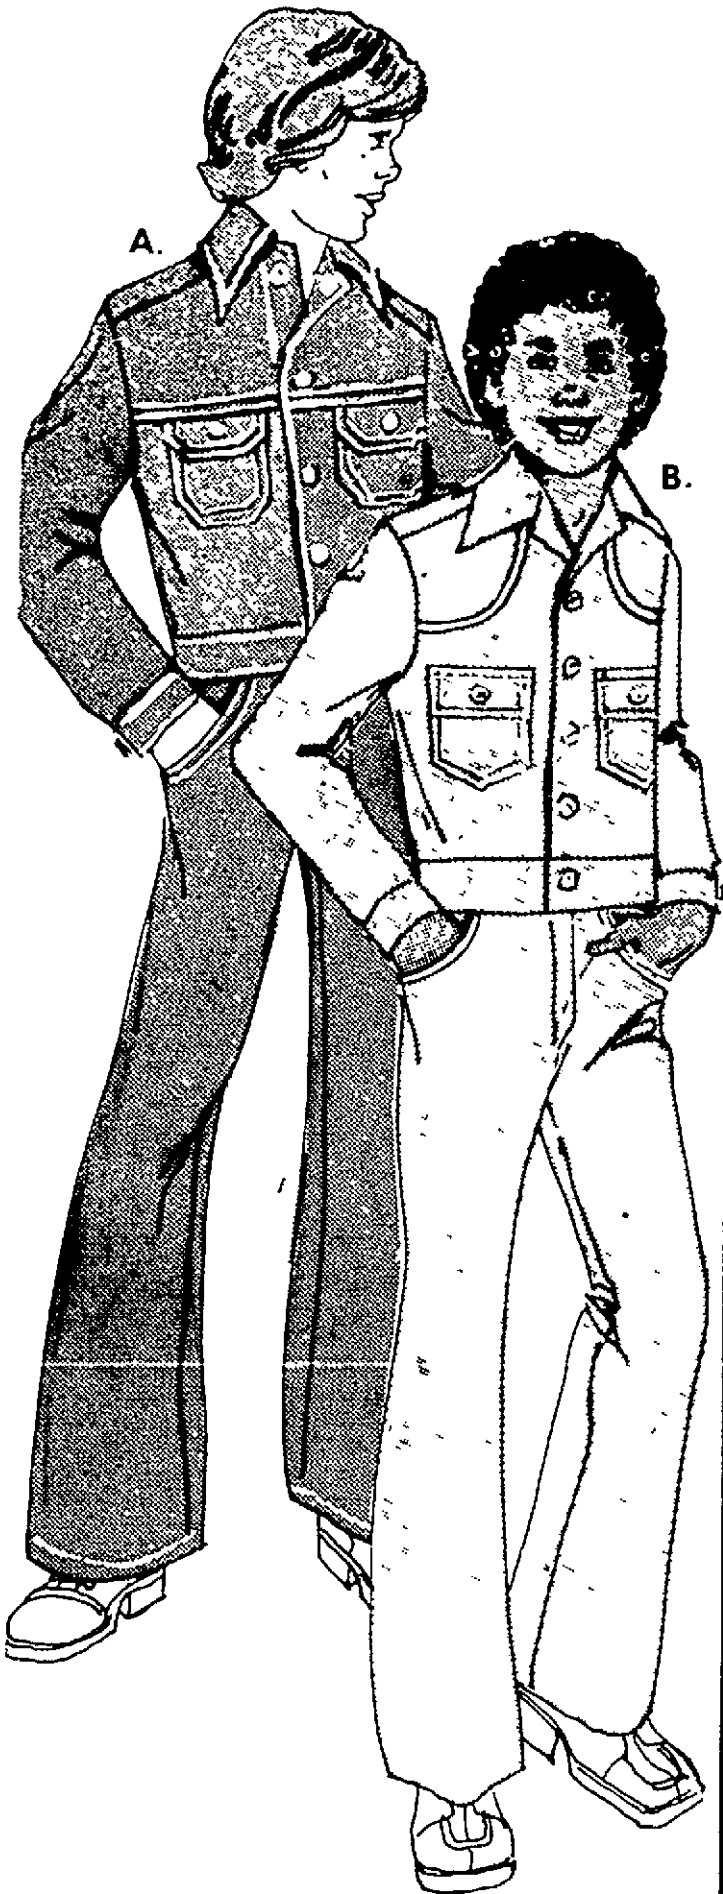

"And the impact from the tailings and the milling plant may be greater than the effect of the mine," he said.

The company's environmental engineer, Gary Malin, said the company is looking for impermeable rock strata on which to place the tailings ponds.

"We'll line the ponds with an impermeable membrane if we can't find the right kind of rock," he said.

Economic woes traced to corporate losses

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent staff writer

The nation's economic woes can be traced to a long-term decline in profits within corporations, and until this is recognized and reversed, the troubles will get much worse, Charles H. Smith Jr., president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, warned Tuesday night.

Speaking to about 470 people at the 100th anniversary banquet of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, Smith attributed the misunderstanding of the need for profits on some politicians who "will increase the barrage of economic nonsense designed to obscure the realities of the world we live in . . . (and) help them avoid responsibility for the economic chaos" that is largely the result of government action.

If America is ever to break away from the "spend and spend, elect and elect" syndrome, its electors will have to start recognizing and rejecting such half-truths and misleading promises, he said.

Smith said America has worked itself into a dangerous economic situation which profits and subsequent massive investment in expansion can change.

"As a nation, we are now in the same position as the playboy who has inherited a fortune from his father and is living high off the principal," he said. "If this playboy continues to spend principal, he will exhaust it and wind up with nothing. If he changes his ways, lives within his income and makes new investments, he will be better off in the long run."

Smith said "it is time for the political leadership of America to recognize that profit is a key ingredient in achieving progress and prosperity.

The remedy is not easy or likeable, he said, and in today's political climate, it may be impossible.

America must encourage consumer saving and discourage spending, probably through tax law changes, and simultaneously create incentives to stimulate capital spending by industry.

Smith was the main speaker at the 100th anniversary commemorating dinner which also served as the delayed annual meeting. The meeting was delayed until the new chamber building was expected to be completed, as the chamber employees moved into the new building recently.

At the banquet, Robert Buchanan took over officially as president, with outgoing president Howard Crabb being honored for his year as chamber leader. And the Appleton chamber was honored as a charter member of the 45-year-old state chamber.

Clyde Schluter, Wausau, past state chamber president, praised the local chamber as among the best in the state. Smith had the same praise for the chamber on a nationwide basis.

Smith, also chairman of SIFCO Industries, Cleveland, Ohio, sought to warn the gathering that the nation was heading into a serious economic decline, and that a misunderstanding of "profits" was one of the key reasons for it. He pointed to the energy shortage and the shortage of raw materials, and said they are threatening the nation's standard of living.

The reasons for the shortages, he said, were the wage-price controls over the short term and the sudden worldwide demand for products that has outpaced the supply over the long term. He attributed the latter mainly to the new affluence of other nations.

He blamed America's failure to increase its productive capacity for its declining position in relation to other nations.

"The real need in America today is to find ways to increase the production of goods and services, ways to create more materials and supplies, ways to find more sources of energy, ways to open up new and more productive factories, ways to find new sources of raw mate-

Area planning on wastewater gains support

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

Staff members are going to propose that the East-Central Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission join with two Brown County regional planning units to study areawide wastewater treatment planning and management.

Some of the details of the proposal the staff will make to the commission on Nov. 14 were revealed by staff planner James Penfold Tuesday, at the first meeting of the city wastewater study committee.

For example, Penfold said the planning area could run from Green Bay to Oshkosh or Fond du Lac.

Cost for the study could range from $250,000 to $3 million, according to a report passed out to committee members by Penfold.

The end result of an areawide sewer planning study would be regional management of sewage treatment operations by a combination of already existing local agencies designated in the planning program.

East-Central would be joined by the Brown County and Bay Lakes planning commissions. All would have to approve it before it could be carried out.

About 25 per cent of the funding for the study would have to be provided by member communities of the three planning commissions. There would be a need for three to four new, full-time staff members to carry out the many phases of what is known as federal 208 planning project.

Penfold said federal and state resource agencies are encouraging such a wide study to cope with what is considered areawide pollution abatement encompassing the urban and rural areas between Fond du Lac and Green Bay.

The study would examine water quality, population, economic development and more. Information picked up in the study could later be used by East-Central in other areawide planning efforts.

Mayor James Sutherland, in a talk to the new, nine-member committee before it began deliberations, said a decision to go ahead with the 208 planning effort could lead to a "super government" sewage management that will make creation of a separate Appleton sewage commission unnecessary.

One of the committee's assignments is to consider the feasibility of a separate sewerage commission to handle wastewater treatment matters.

The 208 planning effort would take into consideration agricultural runoff and other rural pollution factors as well as inadequately treated effluent from major urban sewage plants like Appleton's.

Penfold called it a "complex pollution area," and said it might be the only solution to sewage treatment problems being faced through the Valley.

The only alternative is for the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to continue "prodding" each unit of government separately to get the Fox River cleaned up. Neither agency wants to do that, said Penfold.

EPA wants "a more detailed analysis of this area." That could be provided by areawide planning under the 208 program, he said.

East-Central began its involvement with the federal program created in 1972 about 18 months ago, when it asked Gov. Patrick Lucey to designate East-Central as the planning agency for a 208 effort in the Fox Valley. The request was premature, said Penfold.

Since then, East-Central has joined with the two Green Bay planning commissions to draw up a plan for a 208 program. Green Bay and the Appleton area are both part of a sewage treatment area that federal and state agencies wanted included in the same program, he said.

Penfold said the agency's staff hopes

Rottier triumphs

Outagamie County's district attorney-elect, Kenneth Rottier, was jubilant Tuesday night at a victory party in Little Chute. Rottier de-

Rottier whips Ensley for DA

Armed with public endorsements from most police agencies, Democrat Kenneth Rottier, in his first bid for elected public office, easily unseated Outagamie County Dist. Atty. John Ensley Tuesday.

Rottier, 30, who last June was fired as assistant district attorney after he told Ensley he intended to run against him, carried all but three precincts in whipping Ensley 20,230 to 11,800.

Ensley carried only the towns of Dale and Maine and tied Rottier in the Town of Maple Creek.

In the only other county contest, Republican County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan, 60, had little trouble winning a fourth two-year term by turning back Democrat John M. Dollevoet, 27, of Kaukauna, and George Schroeder, 55, a county board member from Freedom, who ran a distant third as an independent.

Unofficial totals showed Hoolihan

with 16,789 votes, Dollevoet with 11,805 and Schroeder with 2,983.

Dollevoet outdistanced his opponents in Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Combined Locks and the towns of Buchanan, Vandenbroek and Oneida. Dollevoet works at a Combined Locks paper firm.

Schroeder carried only the Town of Freedom, where he farmed for about 25 years.

Rottier will be the first Democratic district attorney in recent Outagamie County history.

He has lived in the county less than two years, having come here in April 1973 to become Ensley's top assistant. Rottier had been an assistant district attorney in Racine County.

He had staunch support from policemen in all parts of the county. Police, for much of Ensley's two years in office, have voiced loud dissatisfaction with his performance. They have charged that Ensley has overdone plea bargaining and has generally been soft on crime.

About a year ago some of his harshest critics were instrumental in getting the state Department of Justice to investigate Ensley's office. Gov. Patrick Lucey and former Atty. Gen. Robert Warren reported that state agents had found nothing to warrant taking action against Ensley. However, the investigation report was not made public.

Rottier emphasized his court conviction record as assistant district attorney and his police backing during his campaign. Ensley countered that he did not want police support during the campaign. Everyone should be treated equally, with no preference shown policemen, he said.

It was the first time police departments had openly endorsed a candidate for public office.

Ensley, 59, lasted only one term as

City can't fill river for sewer plant

The state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) says Appleton cannot fill in part of the Fox River to make more room for its proposed sewage plant addition, a decision that could mean a substantial hike in the cost of that project.

Public Works Director Robert Miller revealed the troubles the city is having with DNR at the first meeting of the newlyformed wastewater study committee.

Without permission for the 15- by 200-foot fill, Miller told a reporter after the meeting, the city would be faced with one of two alternatives: excavating part of the bluff behind the present plant or installing a wall along the present river shoreline, both of which would provide the necessary additional space for the expansion project.

Both alternatives would cost substantially more than extending the present bulkhead line with fill, he said.

Also at Tuesday's first meeting, the new study committee heard East-Central Wisconsin Regional Plan Commission planner James Penfold say he was certain the city would have to extend sewer service to the portion of the Town of Grand Chute requesting it or lose federal and state aids for the plant expansion project.

The statement, which Penfold has made before but in a more qualified tone, left several members inclined to furnish the service rather than risk the loss of a projected $19 million in aids.

"For $19 million, you could almost fall in love with Grand Chute," said committee chairman Robert Graef.

Ald. Edward Malohey (9th) said if the city didn't extend service, "I don't think we can build."

Penfold said previous planning decisions — including the 1969 regional sewage plan — point to Appleton's responsibility for furnishing some of the surrounding area with sewer service. The town has requested that the city provide sewer service along French and Ballard roads to 92 single family and mobile homes and three industries.

The town and city have gone halves on a $3,250 state Department of Local Af-

Martens elected sheriff in Calumet County race

CHILTON — Newly appointed Calumet County Sheriff Garnett Peterson, running on a Democratic ticket, was defeated, 4,660 to 3,772, here in Tuesday's election by Fredrick Martens, a former Calumet County traffic patrolman.

Peterson had been appointed Oct. 1 by

Town of New Holstein, a traditionally Democratic area, voters selected him by a 229-189 margin.

Martens piled up 594 votes in the City of Brillion to carry the area. Peterson had 347 votes. Town of Brillion voters favored Martens, 311-105. In the Town of Charlestown he received 260 votes to Peterson's 152 and in the Town of Harrison he had 436 to Peterson's 366 tally. Rantoul voters favored him by 276-83. He carried Stockbridge by a vote of 163-140.

Martens carried 11 of the 19 precincts in Calumet County, according to County Clerk Donald Schwobe.

Peterson's major strength was in the City of Chilton and the City of Appleton. He received 534 votes to Martens's 344 in Appleton polling and at Chilton had a margin of 790 over Martens's 459. Peterson also solidly carried Brothertown by a vote of 228-194.

Martens, 54, served for seven years with the New Holstein Police Department as a policeman and radio operator before becoming a county traffic officer in 1955.

He is a veteran of World War II. He has conducted safety schools and bicycle programs in Calumet County and has attended seminars on alcoholism and drugs.

A majority of the estimated 203,850 voters eligible to take part in Tuesday's voting in four Fox Valley counties didn't.

According to a Commerce Department study of local population statistics, Outagamie County has 73,450 eligible voters, Winnebago has 88,250, Calumet has 16,600 and Waupaca has 25,530.

The totals of votes cast in the races attracting the highest participation in each of the four counties came to about 87,010, or 42.7 per cent of the estimated number who could have voted.

That leaves 116,840 potential voters who sat out the election. The number is higher than in a presidential election year, a normal condition — but the drop-off may be somewhat greater than in most off-year elections.

On the other hand, it is about the same as the statewide turnout. A 45 per cent participation rate had been predicted, and the approximately 1.2 million voters counted Tuesday is about the number expected.

The number of eligible voters is calculated simply by taking the percentage of the total population estimated to be 18 years old or older and applying it to the current population estimates for each county.

☛ The turnout roughly bears out predictions made by local municipal clerks, who had generally forecast a turnout of about 70 per cent of registered voters. The number of voters who register is smaller than the number who are eligible.

For example, Outagamie County has an estimated 59.1 per cent of its total population old enough to vote. If that same percentage applied in Appleton, it would mean roughly 35,000 voters are eligible in the city.

But City Clerk Elden Broehm listed 26,122 registered voters on the poll lists Tuesday or a little more than three-fourths of the number who could register and vote if they chose.

Broehm was the first local clerk to forecast a 70 per cent turnout of registered voters, and he was not far off. Ap-leton's turnout was 17,635, or 68 per cent.

Comparable figures for communities that require voters to register in advance of elections — not a requirement in less populous villages and rural towns — include 73 per cent in Kimberly, 67 per cent in Kaukauna, 61 per cent in Little Chute and 56 per cent in the Town of Grand Chute.

Roth, despite his happiness about winning re-election against the anti-Republican tide, admitted that Wisconsin Republicans must "get going on a good people-to-people organization" and develop "creative programs" if they hope to rebound from their latest setback.

"I think the GOP already stands for the Great Open Party," he said, however. He declined comment when asked if he thought there was a need for new party leadership at the state level, but did say that the GOP must allow for an open primary selection of statewide candidates before the next election.

Roth said he knew he had the race won about 15 minutes after the polls closed Tuesday night, when he read the returns in the 17th Ward and he had an overwhelming lead there over Errington.

For the second election in a row, Roth won all 16 wards in the city that make up his 42nd district.

The 36-year-old real estate agent got his start in politics with a primary de-suffering one of their biggest electoral setbacks ever.

"I don't know what happened," said Errington today. He cited a small campaign organization and budget as two factors, however.

Errington, an Appleton alderman making his first run for a state office, had expected it to be a close race.

"The margin was a real shock to me," he said.

Tilley admitted he "expected to come nowhere near close to winning," but said his 254 votes have established the American party as something to be reckoned with in Outagamie County in the future.

His real purpose in running, he said, was to build a base of support for the fledgling party.

"I think we did that," he said today. Minutes later, he hopped in his car and took off for Manitowoc, where he has found a new job.

He said he will be back within a year, however, and again work on American party affairs in the county where he has been the spearhead in forming a party

Fredrick Martens

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey after former sheriff Theodore Pagel resigned to take a position as New Holstein chief of police.

Martens had been a county traffic officer for 26 years. Peterson was a former Chilton traffic officer for 4½ years and Winnebago chief of police for 7½ years.

Martens's strength was solidly distributed throughout the county with an especially powerful block in New Holstein, his home town, where voters favored him by a 520-278 margin. In the renewable. Town Clerk Les Woldt said that in the past many developers have held up liquor license applications for up to two years without following through on the construction of the planned facility.

In another action, the board issued a permit to Ray Hieder for the collection and transportation of solid waste in Grand Chute. Hieder will begin collecting refuse and depositing it in the town's landfill site on Dec. 1.

A 35 miles per hour speed limit was set up for Bluemound Drive, south of College Avenue to Prospect Avenue.

A motion was passed to authorize the Outagamie County Highway Department to build another entrance to the Siesta nightclub on State 47.

fares and Development study of the feasibility and possible methods of extending the service.

"I've almost come to the conclusion that it's not worth talking about," said Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th), after hearing Penfold say "Appleton is going to have to serve that area" if it wants federal and state aids.

Miller said the Appleton plant has been designed with a capacity to serve surrounding areas, but it will take a "political" decision by city hall to determine where that service will be extended, and when. The fate of the grant should not be considered, he said.

The study committee will review the JIAD report after it is completed. It is expected in March.

Area plan.

to be able to hold a public hearing on the proposed planning effort in early January, provided the commission goes along with it.

Members of the study committee wondered how disputes between communities in the planning area would be ironed out, if management control would be left in the hands of several designated agencies.

(The federal law creating the program specifically calls for creation of a metropolitan sewage district administered by one, separately created commission, but Penfold said federal and state agencies agreed later that such an interpretation in Wisconsin would make the program unworkable.)

Penfold said he foresaw a plan recommendation calling for multiple agencies to carry out the plan, like the Appleton City Council, Green Bay Metropolitan Sewerage Commission and the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission.

The plan would be developed openly, with strong public participation, he said, and would have to be approved by the governor and the planning commissions before being implemented, he said.

"There is a series of checks and balances," he said, to prevent the formulation of a plan strongly opposed by some part of the study area.

Once the plan is adopted, however, the agencies responsible for implementing it must follow it or risk losing federal and state pollution abatement funding for local projects.

The study committee will probably consider the 208 planning proposal at its next meeting, scheduled Dec. 3. Penfold said it should make its views known after the detailed plan is unveiled Nov. 14.

Penfold told the study committee that if local communities don't unite to do their own areawide planning, the state would probably step in and do it for them.

Information gathered could also be used in other planning efforts in areas like transportation, housing, land use and economic development.

The committee, in a lengthy opening session, heard Mayor James Sutherland explain how the committee can help the City Council reach tough decisions on sewer treatment matters.

Maloney said the committee, which he proposed establishing and the council approved late last year, should study the feasibility of a separate sewerage commission to manage the city's treatment operations. He said Sutherland's charge to the committee — which includes a call to study a broad range of sewer treatment matters on both a local and regional basis — was too broad.

Maloney believes there should be a separate sewerage commission formed, with separate authority to establish sewer user fees and finance its own operation. Rates should be regulated by the Public Service Commission.

Sutherland, however, contended that areawide sewer treatment developments and other factors could influence the city's decision on a separate commission. Discovery that area municipalities are not making progress in cleaning up their sewage effluent, for example, might "influence the speed with which we do it," he said.

The committee can also bring attention to an important subject that has been ignored by residents in the past, he said.

"I don't think the council, in many respects, has really been digging in" on sewer matters, he said. Much of the lack of attention is because residents and aldermen do not fully understand the complex subject.

At its next meeting early in December, the committee will decide if the broad charge given to it by Sutherland should be followed. It will also name subcommittees to dig into specialized areas.

Miller said the DNR originally notified him on Sept. 11 that the city could not extend the bulkhead line at the plant site. A request for re-evaluation of that ruling was turned down by the department on Oct. 18.

primary election, joined a Seymour law firm after being fired by Ensley. Rottier is a native of De Pere. He graduated from St. Norbert College and the University of Wisconsin Law School. He served two years in the Army.

He and his wife and child live at 1009 W. Marquette St. in Appleton.

Joining Rottier as a new office holder was Ruth Janssen, 27, who was unopposed in her Republican bid for clerk of courts to succeed the retiring Elizabeth Davis.

Miss Janssen's unofficial vote total was 21,627.

Incumbents returned to office without opposition and their unofficial vote totals were: Sheriff Calvin L. Spice, 23,326; Treasurer Peter Berg, 20,356; Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, 22,557; and Register of Deeds D. P. Peeters, 21,913. Spice is a Democrat. The others are Republicans.

New landmark

St. John Catholic Church in Little Chute has become an official Wisconsin landmark. The Rev. Theodore Van den Broek, who founded his Indian mission in Little Chute in 1836, is honored on the historical marker for returning to Holland to bring families from his home parish to settle in Little Chute in 1848. The church was built between 1860 and 1868. (Post-Crescent photo) rials, even ways to find completely new materials that can be substituted for those in short supply," he said.

If government leaders are sincere in wanting solutions, they must work to bring about more expansion capital, Smith added.

He said that on the average it takes $25,000 in capital investment to create one job. Using the example of spending $5 million to create 200 jobs, he said there are four ways to create capital, but all four require reasonable profits to be possible.

Quoting a speech by Gerald Ford before he was President, Smith said profit is required because it is needed for research and development, exploring for new raw materials, expanding and rewarding investors.

But, Smith said, still quoting Ford, "profit is pictured as a rip-off. It's denounced as exploitation. It's held up as something the bad guys steal from the good guys."

"In my view," Smith quoted, "the people who are hammering these notions into the national consciousness are playing a dangerous game."

"Amen, Brother Ford, Amen," Smith added.

Smith said there are "imaginary" profits which arouse the public. He cited examples of, in one case, the company which was forced to take funds from profits because the depreciation of equipment didn't keep up with inflated equipment costs and, second, another company which was forced to use profits to buy raw materials because a combination of inflation and corporate income tax on inventory increases ate up raw material capital.

In both cases, the companies are headed for trouble, he said.

Newsboy had relatives in Fox Valley

Larry O. Anstett, the 15-year-old youth killed by a bomb Tuesday in Milwaukee, was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jeske of Manawa.

The youth, a newsboy for the Milwaukee Sentinel, was on his delivery route when he apparently stopped to examine a wrapped package placed on top of a car.

Police had not determined the nature of the bomb, but said it apparently exploded when the youth touched it or picked it up out of curiosity.

Larry

Larry was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anstett of Milwaukee. Mrs. Anstett is the former Jeanine Jeske, originally from Manawa.

Other relatives in the area are Patricia Jeske, Appleton, and Mrs. Ray Watter, Town of Grand Chute.

Larry was one of seven children of the Anstetts. Police believe the bomb may have been intended for the owner of the car, a member of a motorcycle club, who had recently testified at an armed robbery trial involving members of a rival motorcycle club.

feat in the 1968 Assembly race in the old 41st Assembly district.

"The only guy I've got to blame is myself," Errington said today, baffled by the election results. He pointed to the strong running of state and congressional Democrats in Appleton, and said he couldn't understand why he finished so far behind his Republican opponent.

"I still consider myself a winner because of all the friends I made," he added.

Those "friends" could also come in handy should Errington decide to seek the mayor's job in the 1976 election. He has long admitted that he is considering it.

"Right now, I gotta start looking for a job," said the defeated candidate who was laid off from his job of 26 years earlier this year and has just completed a vocational school course in truck driving.

Budget deliberations and the elimination of welfare system waste are the top priorities on Roth's list of things that have to be done when he returns for the opening of the new legislative session in January.

Oshkosh, Green Bay campus projects okayed

Post-Crescent Madison bureau
MADISON — While deliberation over major building projects drew the most attention at the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents meeting here last week, the board gave its approval to a variety of minor projects.

The regents approved a total of eight minor projects at UW-Green Bay at a cost of $713,200 while endorsing eight of 13 projects requested by UW-Oshkosh officials with a price tag of $535,500.

Regent support of these projects means that they will be included in the university's capital budget proposal that will be sent to the governor and eventually voted on by the state legislature.

The largest minor project at Green Bay will be the remodeling of the Library Learning Center, costing an esti-

Lenz named by Kimberly board to post

KIMBERLY — The village board Monday night named Sylvester Lenz, 55, 121 S. Birch St., village clerk-treasurer to replace Mrs. Kathryn Lochschmidt who announced her retirement in June, but who agreed to continue working until a replacement could be found.

Lenz will assume duties Jan. 6, 1975. The new clerk served as village clerk from 1947-55. At that time it was an elective, part-time position. Lenz also served as a village trustee for six years and for the last 13 years has represented the village on the Outagamie County Board.

As a county board member, he has seen duty on the finance, purchasing, public property and parks and personnel committees, currently serving as chairman of the latter. He is a graduate of St. John High School and attended Appleton Business College. He is employed as an accountant with Kimberly-Clark Corp.

The board approved the annexation of approximately nine acres of land from the Town of Buchanan as requested by three property owners and recommended by the planning commission. The land is located along a new access road between Railroad and John streets and the Mount Hope Machinery Co.

Board members also approved installation of street lights on the access road.

In other business, purchase of a new leaf loader at a cost of $4,500 from Paynter Equipment Co., Green Bay, was approved.

A public hearing on the proposed 1975 budget was set for 7 p.m. Nov. 21 in the municipal complex.

It was noted that the law requires a 15-day notice before a budget hearing. Although it will be unable to draft a final budget until figures are received from the state on anticipated state funds in 1975, the hearing should be scheduled in hopes that these figures would become available before the date of the hearing.

mated $220,100. The project includes removing walls on the building's seventh floor to return temporary office space to library use. It also includes remodeling in the Instructional Service Building to provide space for a special computer laboratory to house 10 terminal stations, and to provide offices and support for campus security.

Other UWGB minor projects include:

- $150,200 from self-amortizing user fees to physical education building.

- $101,000 to construct two walkways to connect the academic core with the physical education building, the University Commons and the student apartments. Plantings, lighting and a sitting area are included.

- $97,300 to realign and resurface the service roadway between the Shorewood Parking Lot and the College of Creative Communications.

Oshkosh projects endorsed by the regents include:

- $152,200 to develop an outdoor instructional and recreational open green turf area for marking out into football, soccer, field hockey, softball, etc. The development would take place adjacent to the physical education building and residence hall area.

- $82,200 to remove obsolete structures currently owned by the university or anticipated to be purchased soon. This includes vacated industrial buildings, a filling station, sheds, warehouses and several residences that do not meet code requirements.

Childhood developmental problems focus of series

MENASHA — A series of presentations on the diagnosis and treatment of the less readily identifiable developmental problems of childhood has been scheduled for Tuesday by the Winnebago Association for Mental Health.

The program — "What's the Matter with My Kid?" — will run from 8:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m. and will be at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, except for the last two hours of the evening session.

The keynote speaker will be Dr. Marcel Kinsbourne, a pediatrician, neurologist and psychologist at the University of Toronto, Canada.

He will talk at the 2 p.m. session at St. Thomas and at a public program at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Winnebago Mental Health Institute. Registration is $2 for one person or a couple.

Registrations begin at 8:30 a.m. The workshop on implementation of the resource room concept for children with learning disabilities will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The other two workshops at the same time deal with the structural approach to the hyperactive child and a panel discussion on Neenah's program, "Getting It All Together."

At 10:30 a.m., the workshop will deal with new approaches to children with developmental problems, a demonstration of a program teaching disturbed children, and the Neenah repeat of panel, which will be repeated once more during the 11:30 a.m. sessions.

The other sessions starting at 11:30 a.m. will deal with learning disabilities with a local physician, who works with children, heading the workshop.

There is no fee for the morning sessions but a $2 fee will be required for the 2 p.m. presentation by Kinsbourne.

A message to America's car buyers...

Inflation-weakened America needs common-sense conservation, not empty austerity. Conservation is insulating the attic and saving fuel; austerity is shivering in your living room.

In a similar way, when new cars replace old, the nation's primary means of transportation gains efficiency. Our new 1975 cars conserve gasoline, even as they emit less pollution, provide more safety features, and cost less to operate and maintain than earlier models.

The purchasing of new cars is the common-sense conservation we need. It keeps the wheel of progress rolling. It means growth and investment. This means more jobs for our people, more revenue for our government, more value for our customers, and more dividends for our stockholders.

No growth makes no sense; not for America, not for anyone.

Right now is the time to buy a new car.

Lineup listed for centennial week

A week of concerts and recitals has been scheduled to celebrate the 100th birthday of music at Lawrence University. Between Sunday and Nov. 16, guest artists, faculty, students and alumni of the Conservatory will join voices, instruments and spirits for the occasion.

Area alumni and other friends of Lawrence wishing to attend centennial events will need to make reservations for a Fox Valley Symphony concert featuring Jean Kraft, an Artist Series presentation spotlighting Dale Duesing and a banquet.

Mezzo-soprano Kraft, a Metropolitan opera performer, is a former student at the Lawrence Conservatory and a native of Menasha. She will perform with the Fox Valley Symphony at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Lawrence Memorial Chapel.

Duesing, another alumnus of the Conservatory, has been in Europe for most of the seven years since graduation. He is a member of the Dusseldorf Opera Company and has appeared as guest artist with many European opera companies and symphonies. His Appleton performance will be Nov. 15 in the Lawrence Chapel and will be the third program in this year's Artist Series. Some tickets are still available.

A centennial banquet has been planned for alumni and other friends of the university on the final night of the celebration, Nov. 16. It will be held at Colman Hall on the Lawrence campus beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Events which do not require tickets and which are open to the public without charge include a faculty chamber music recital in Harper Hall at 8 p.m. Monday; an all-student recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Harper Hall; and a concert of compositions by Eric Stokes, a Conservatory graduate who has been composing songs, operas, canons and innovative music since his Lawrence days, at 8 p.m. Nov. 14, in Harper Hall and in the experimental theatre at the Music-Drama Center.

In addition to the banquet, a Saturday full of activities has been planned. At 10:30 a.m. an all-university convocation will be held at the Chapel. Distinguished service awards and an honorary degree will be presented. Charles Leonhard, professor of music at the University of Illinois, will speak about "The Role of the Conservatory in Aesthetic Education: Celebration and Promise."

At 3 p.m. LaVahn Maesch, professor of organ and dean emeritus of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, will present an organ recital at the Memorial Chapel.

After the banquet at 8:30 p.m. a final concert will be presented featuring the Lawrence Symphony Band, Concert Choir and Jazz Ensemble.

People who wish to attend the Kraft or Duesing concerts or the banquet are urged to contact Frank Duchow, manager of public events at Lawrence, for additional information and reservations. He can be reached at 739-3681, ext. 287, or at the Lawrence box office, 734-8695. The box office is open from noon to 6 p.m. daily except Sunday.

At Arena soon

The Royal Lipizzan Stallion Show will appear at 8 p.m. Nov. 14 at Green Bay's Brown County Arena. Considered one of the world's best equestrian extravaganzas, the two-hour program features over 40 magnificent horses, a group of top riders and several acts and production numbers. Charles Skelton is shown above on the majestic Portuguese Andalusian stallion, Cortez. The group is on its fifth American tour.

Entertainment on the rocks

7:30 - 9 - Channels 9-11 - "Movie Of The Week: The Great Ice Rip-Off" is a delightfully entertaining film about a series of diamond heists ranging from Seattle to Los Angeles. Gig Young plays the mastermind who times the robberies to take place as the bus he rides nears each of four towns, where he picks up each accomplice. However, he rides uncomfortably, because retired police detective Lee J. Cobb is on the same bus. Grayson Hall, Robert Walden, Matt Clark and Geoffrey Lewis turn in fine comic performances as Cobb's wife and the three other bad guys.

7:30 - Channels 9-11 - Clifton (Clifton Davis) is on a lucky streak with his gambling until he turns down a request by his church's new reverend (Tim Reid) to lead the Sunday prayer on "That's My Mama." Then, Clifton's luck goes sour and Mama (Theresa Merritt) reads it as a sign from above. Friendly show.

7-8 - Channels 2-7 - Jeff (Gary Frank) and Anita (Glynis O'Connor) decide it's time to extend their relationship all the way to the bedroom, but bad timing and social conscience frustrate their efforts on "Sons And Daughters." Sugary but pleasant. Directed by actor Jeff Corey, it's the last show in the series.

7-8 - Channel 5 - Pa (Michael Landon) has to go on a six-day trip to delive lumber and decides to take Ma (Karen Grassle) with him on "Little House On The Prairie." But baby-sitter problems and parental guilt shorten the trip. Gentle entertainment.

8-9 - Channels 2-7 - The son of a wealthy businessman hires "Cannon" (William Conrad) to find out whether his wife's death was an accident or murder. When Cannon determines it is murder, the son (Peter Strauss) assumes his father (Simon Scott) is responsible and seeks revenge. Oh, these family conflicts!

9-10 - Channels 9-11 - A public relations man (Jared Martin), assigned to do a story on Christie Love (Teresa Graves), seems intimately connected with the deaths of two men involved in stolen securities on "Get Christie Love!" Lots of action, some surprises.

9-10 - Channel 5 - "Petrocelli" (Barry Newman) defends Stephanie Powers against a murder rap despite several eyewitness accounts. When Powers' twin sister shows up, Petrocelli believes he has the case solved but soon doubts set in. Susan Howard stars as Mrs. Petrocelli.

9-10 - Channel 2 - The stabbing murder of his best friend leads "Manhunter" Dave Barrett (Ken Howard) to the theater and a fading star (Celeste Holm) who will do anything to save her career, perhaps even murder. Patty McCormick plays Holm's over-protective assistant on this grizzly show. Too much blood.

PUMPKIN CLASSICS

Nostalgic...and new

Classic Pumpkin Pie

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1-1/2 cups solid pack pumpkin
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1-2/3 cups (13 fl. oz. can) evaporated milk or light cream
- 1 9-inch unbaked pie shell* with high fluted edge

Mix filling ingredients in order given. Pour into pie shell. Bake in pre heated 425° oven for 15 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350° and continue baking for 45 minutes or until knife inserted into center of pie filling comes out clean. Cool. Yields 1 standard 9-inch pie.

*If regular size frozen pie shells are used, this filling recipe will fill two shells. Bake according to pie shell package directions.

Orange-Kist Whipped Cream

- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1/2 teaspoon finely grated orange rind
- 1/4 cup powdered sugar
- 1 tablespoon coarsely grated orange rind for garnish

Combine whipping cream and the finely grated orange rind in mixing bowl several hours before whipping "to marry" the flavors. Whip the cream; add the sugar. Garnish the pie with dollops of cream and sprinkle with the coarsely grated orange rind. Yields approximately 2 cups.

NEW FLAVOR GARNISHES FOR CLASSIC PUMPKIN PIE

1. Fluffy orange flavored cream cheese: Soften 1 8-oz. package cream cheese. Add 1 tablespoon orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and 1/4 cup powdered sugar; beat thoroughly. Refrigerate to chill and allow flavors to blend. Serve on pumpkin pie topped with additional orange rind. Yields 1-1/4 cups.
2. Pour 2-3 tablespoons white Tokay wine or cream sherry evenly over the pumpkin pie filling when it's hot from the oven.
3. Garnish cooled pie with whipped cream and crushed peanut brittle, pecan halves, or chopped walnuts.
4. Top cooled pie wedges with small scoops of vanilla or nut ice cream.

Cool Harvest- Moon Soup

- 1-1/2 cups water
- 2 teaspoons chicken flavor instant bouillon from a 3.5 oz. jar
- 1 can (10-3/4 oz.) cream of chicken soup
- 1/2 cup solid pack pumpkin
- 1/4 cup half and half
- dash celery salt
- sour cream and chopped chives, garnish

Add bouillon granules to water in small saucepan. Heat to dissolve bouillon. Pour into blender, add cream soup, pumpkin, half and half and celery salt. Blend thoroughly (or beat mixture in mixing bowl with rotary beater). Chill. Stir before serving. Garnish with chives or sour cream (thinned with a little half and half so it will float on soup) and a sprinkling of chives. Yields 3-1/2 cups.

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

According to folklore, the heart shaped leaves of the pumpkin vine symbolize a promise of good eating to come! Be this truth or fancy, pumpkin with its natural endowment of vitamin A, is the Cinderella of vegetables. It is easily transformed into delectable foods pleasing tradition lovers and trend setters alike.

Rediscover a harvest time classic with a splendid pumpkin pie, warm from the oven and fragrantly spiced. The "easy as pie" filling is quickly made with canned solid pack pumpkin in convenient can sizes to bake one pie, or two. Or select a canned pumpkin pie mix, already sweetened and spiced to speed your pie baking. If a fancy flourish is your choice, try a new-taste garnish of orange-kist whipped cream or fluffy cream cheese.

Pumpkin provides the subtle flavor mystique in Cool

Harvest-Moon Soup. Reminiscent of a delicate vichyssoise, this is a sophisticated first course to begin a turkey dinner on a festive note.

Since a refrigerator-ready dessert comes to the aid of any party, another trend setter's recipe from the Libby test kitchens is a feathery-light Pumpkin Creme Souffle, studded with walnuts when its collar's removed. This showpiece for buffets marries pumpkin and spices in a creamy melange.

Pumpkin Nut Loaves are a perennial bread classic, and they store well for days, staying tender and moist. A modernized version gets a new flavor boost with the added goodness of sesame seeds or granola with fruit. Nut bread slices, with a favorite spread, add a bonus of nutrition to any breakfast, lunch box or coffee hour.

Pumpkin Souffle

- 4 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup light brown sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 can (30 oz.) pumpkin pie mix
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 envelope (2 oz.) whipped topping mix
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup walnuts, coarsely chopped

Combine gelatin, brown sugar and spice in heavy saucepan. Add milk, pie mix and slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook over medium heat 7 minutes, stirring constantly to prevent spattering. Remove from heat. Chill until cool, but not set, about 45 minutes. Meanwhile, place a 3-inch aluminum foil collar on a 1-quart souffle dish. (For firmness, fold regular foil several times or use heavy duty foil. Wrap around top edge of dish, joining ends together with a strip of tape.) Beat egg whites until stiff. Whip the topping mix with the milk and vanilla as package directs. Fold the egg whites and whipped topping into chilled pumpkin mixture. Turn into souffle dish. Chill until firm. Remove collar and press the walnuts around the raised sides. Yields 6 cups filling for 1-quart souffle with raised collar.

Pumpkin Nut Bread

- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 3 cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 can (16 oz.) solid pack pumpkin
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1-1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1-1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup dark or golden raisins

Preheat oven to 350°. Cream butter and add sugar gradually; beat in eggs and vanilla. Add pumpkin, mixing to combine. Sift together the flour, salt, soda, baking powder and spices; blend with pumpkin mixture. Add nuts and raisins. Place batter in 2 greased and floured 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pans. Bake for approximately 60 to 65 minutes or until bread tests done with wooden pick. Let stand 10 minutes; remove from pans; cool on rack. Wrap and store overnight before slicing. Yields 2 loaves, 9 x 5 x 3 inches each.

Flavor variations. Add any one of these or use one of these for half the raisins in the basic recipe.

1. 1 cup fruit and raisin granola (smaller, fairly even-textured granolas blend into bread recipes better than the large chunk types).
2. 1 cup all bran buds
3. 1/2 cup sesame seeds
4. 1/2 cup diced dates

*"Choose from the classics, or try something quite new,
The flavor is pumpkin, the choice up to you."*

Ecologists, businessmen
think differently

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen are not by instinct ecologists, but neither are they totally insensitive to the arguments of the environmentalists and others who claim industrial society is in deadly conflict with nature.

The distance between the two is seldom bridged, however, because neither speaks the language of the other. David Brower, president of Friends of the Earth, believes the attempt is worthwhile.

Business believes in efficiency, he observes, and so do the ecologists. Both believe in conserving, avoiding waste, recycling where possible. They have a mutual interest in long-range planning.

The radical difference seems to be in emphasis. The industrialist measures efficiency and productivity in terms of the greatest return for the least investment. The ecologist measures efficiency in terms of obtaining the greatest use from the environment with the least amount of damage.

To an ecologist, Brower comments, "inflation is running out of something."

Brower fears the current rate of population growth leads to disaster if unchecked. His fear is great enough, he states, for him to willingly forego the pleasures of being a grandfather, although not without anguish.

Brower believes also, as almost everyone believes today, that energy must be saved, but he isn't convinced the world understands what it means.

The sun, he says, "puts into the earth in a few days as much energy as is contained in our fossil fuels." Nevertheless, architects continue to fight the sun and the wind. "We must learn to live and work with them," he states.

When Brower tells business it must practice staunch conservatism, he seems to reflect the credo of business itself. Efficiency must be paramount, he states. "If you have to waste to stay in business, get out of the business."

He believes the world's economies must learn to develop mass transit because it is energy-efficient. Yes, it would cut auto production and jobs, he agrees, but he foresees a vastly greater number of workers in maintenance.

This would be so, he continues, because we must eliminate planned obsolescence. Cars must be made to last longer. Indeed, all products must be produced with longevity in mind, and then kept in repair — for efficiency's sake.

Transportation isn't the only offender, Brower says. "Slow down the building of housing that becomes quickly obsolescent. Learn from other nations and build houses to last — houses that need little paint or air conditioning."

Brower isn't impressed by the enormous productivity of American farms, arguing they are inefficient in terms of energy usage. He claims we use five times more energy in wet rice agriculture than we get out of it.

Moreover, he observes that intense use of soil eventually depletes it, polluting the water in the process and leading to deserts. Inevitably he claims, it leads to higher food prices.

The food situation would appear to baffle the ecologists as much as it does the technologists who advocate intensive agriculture by means of huge applications of energy, including fossil energy to run tractors.

Brower recognizes the urgent dietary needs of the world and believes the world's people should seek protein from more grains and less meat — relying less on the waste production mechanism of animals. But massive grain production, at least as now understood, would seem to require intensive usage of energy.

Brower asks why the energy producers rely on expensive, depletable liquid propane gas and all but ignore the replenishable methanol fuel — liquid sunshine, he calls it — available from commercial forests.

Our lands must be more intelligently used, he states, explaining that we must cease paving over "class 1" soil for parking lots and building housing on the fertile, renewable flood plains — and then demanding protective dams.

Is the public listening to the ecology argument?

"The audiences are not as large as before," Brower concedes, adding his opinion that such a "frenetic pace" couldn't be maintained anyway.

"But I feel people are voting that way and will support corporate and government leadership that steers forward," he concludes. People recognize, he says, that our management, science and technology can do better.

Sen. Fulbright doing well after surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., underwent minor surgery at nearby Bethesda Naval Medical Center on Monday, his office said today.

A statement issued by Fulbright's office said the senator was hospitalized "for some corrective surgery which had been postponed until the congressional recess. The corrective surgery was performed Monday morning and was successful and uneventful."

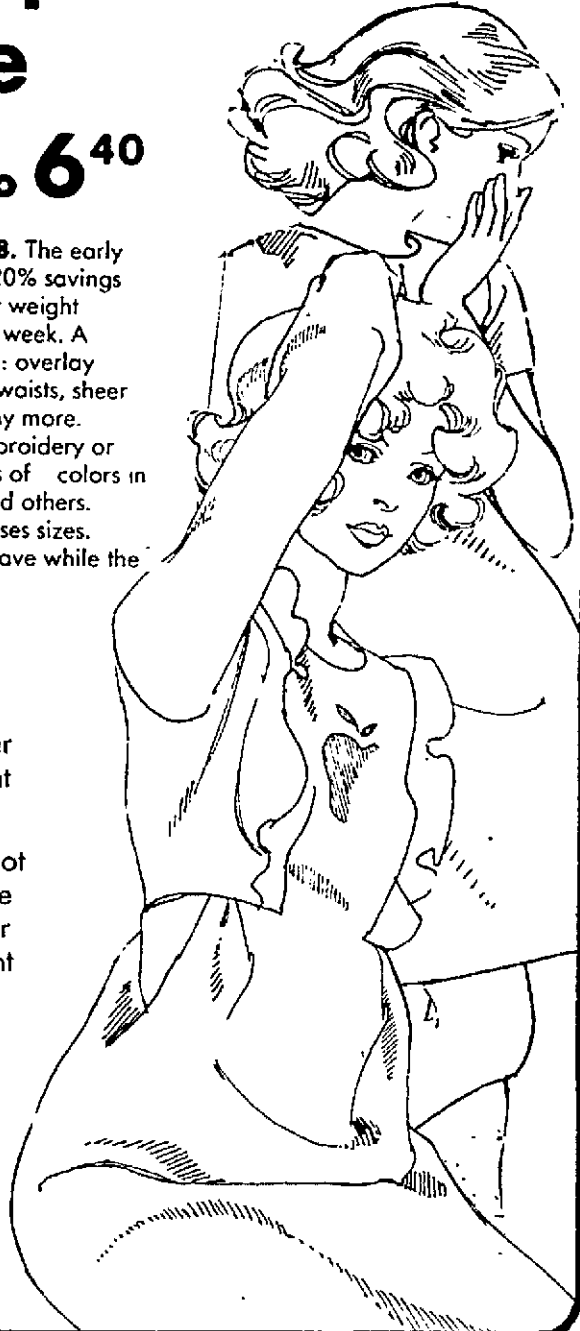

Fulbright was reported in good condition and a spokesman for his office said the senator probably would be out of the hospital within a week.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was defeated earlier this year in his bid for reelection and will end his 30-year Senate career in January.

Mrs. Marcos is 'Kissinger of the East'

BY ARNOLD ZEITLIN

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — She holds no official position, but Imelda Romualdez Marcos, First Lady of the Philippines, is being hailed here as a combination of Henry Kissinger and Eleanor Roosevelt for her growing diplomatic and civic roles.

Her 10-day visit to China as the representative of her husband President Ferdinand E. Marcos at the end of September warmed the process of normalization of relations between mainland China and the Philippines.

Now her public words are sifted carefully for clues to a timetable for the establishment of diplomatic ties between the two countries. Local newspapers praise her as "the Kissinger of the East."

A scheduled visit to North America this month includes a stop in Mexico. Government sources said the trip reflected the interest of the oil-starved Philippines in the new oil fields in Mexico, which was a major Philippines trading partner in the Spanish colonial era. Mrs. Marcos is scheduled to leave for the United States and Mexico the end of this week.

Her American program is to visit Philippine exhibition centers. There are signs she also will attempt to contact exiles who form the overseas opposition to her husband's martial law government.

Her touring and visibility in the government-guided press feeds speculation that she one day will succeed her 57-year-old World War II hero husband who has ruled by decree since September 1972.

Marcos is about to begin his tenth year in office.

Mrs. Marcos is 45 and the mother of three teenaged children. Five-foot-seven with a regal bearing, she once competed for the beauty title of Miss Manila.

Mrs. Marcos devotes a great deal of her time to a broad range of civic and social projects for which government publicists compare her to "that monumental image of civil concern," Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Mrs. Marcos moves more decisively than most Philippine politicians. Hearing that the prestigious Jesuit university, the Ateneo de Manila, had a budget deficit of $130,000, she raised $750,000 in two weeks for the institution.

Her swift action split the Jesuit order in the Philippines; priests opposed to martial law campaigned to force Ateneo to turn down the money. But the school administration accepted it. For one thing, Mrs. Marcos is a tough woman to turn down, according to businessmen who regularly find themselves invited to contribute to her many projects.

Mrs. Marcos has become the master builder of the Philippines. The $7.5 million cultural center on reclaimed land in Manila Bay is a personal monument to her desire to promote art and culture.

When she wanted the $3 million Folk Arts Theater built within four months in time to stage the Miss Universe beauty pageant last July, Mrs. Marcos turned up at 4 a.m. to feed chunks of roast pig, a Philippine delicacy, to laborers on the overnight shift to encourage them to work harder.

She backed the construction of a $2 million population center. Under construction or being planned are a nutrition center, a heart center and a national arts center. Architects estimate that Mrs. Marcos is responsible for nearly $20 million worth of construction.

In her desire to clean up the filthy Pasig River which flows past the back door of her Malacanang palace, she aroused the fears of squatters that their shanties along the river banks would be destroyed. Authorities halted them on their way to demonstrate at the palace by promising they could keep their shacks.

Mrs. Marcos favors expensive Italian clothes and often appears in a tiara or with rings on five fingers. She likes to keep up friendships with such international personalities as Christina Ford, wife of auto maker Henry Ford II, and members of the defunct Italian royalty.

There is back-fence criticism of her jet-setting way in Manila, but little of it surfaces in the subdued Philippine press.

"The acquisition and use of jewelry by Filipino women are typically Asian," a friendly Manila columnist wrote in reply to criticism in the Western press. "What right do the Occidentals have in dictating what Asian women use and not use to enhance their beauty?"

Create rooms in attic

A bounty of space for living expansion sits unused in the attics of many houses. It may have been planned for future finishing when the house was built but in most cases the space has been ignored over the years.

Having an attic or other part of the house unfinished makes it possible for a couple to afford a house that they can expand later as the family grows and the budget allows.

Whether planned in advance or discovered later, an attic offers space for a bedroom, den, sewing room or a combination of uses. Lifting one side of the roof and adding a shed dormer will give needed head space to widen the room.

For a new room accommodating two youngsters in a minimum of space, bunk beds can be built along the gable end wall. Shelves and drawers may fit next to the bunks or can be built into a knee wall on the sloped side.

Study desks and more drawers fit under windows, in the dormer. For a sewing room, this area provides a large work table. The sewing machine folds into a table that rolls away under the work bench.

For the do-it-yourselfer, an important first step is to draw a simple floor plan to locate doors, built-ins and electrical outlets. This will save on materials by avoiding cutting out studs later.

Framing is the key to the finished appearance of the project. If the framing is level and plumb, wall and ceiling material goes on easier and gives the best appearance.

Installing ceiling and floor covering adds another layer of insulating material in the attic, important for energy and money saving reasons. Wood-framed windows with insulating glass also are beneficial.

When remodelings are too complicated for the do-it-yourselfer, information about firms or individuals in the area usually is available from lumber dealers.

DAR announces essay contest

Letters announcing the Wisconsin Daughters of the American Revolution essay contest for students in fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades have been sent to all schools in Appleton and Menasha by the Appleton chapter. Theme for this year's contest is, "A Patriot of the American Revolution" and may be about any man, woman or child who contributed to the cause of American Independence during the years 1775-83. Examples of national prize winning essays which have been published in the DAR magazine and may be of value to students wishing to compete will be placed in both the Appleton and Men-asha public libraries for them to view. Deadline is Jan. 15. Entries will be judged locally with winners going on to state and possibly national competition. Local winners will be notified by the Appleton chapter. The essay contest is being sponsored to coincide nationally with American History month which is February and to build interest among students in history of that period. Each essay must have a frontispiece that gives the title of the essay, name of student, his full home address, his school and grade and the name of the sponsoring DAR chapter. The last page must be a bibliography. Fifth and sixth grade essays may be from 300 to 600 words and seventh and eight grade essays, 600 to 1,000 words. Overlength will cause disqualification. Essays are judged on historical accuracy, adherence to the subject, originality, neatness, spelling and punctuation. They must be hand written. No essays will be returned. While enthusiasm was high among students in our area last year, some of the essays were disqualified because of not adhering to rules. Some guidance and assistance may be given to the students but the work should be mainly their own.

Erma Bombeck
In a spin over record company

My fifteen-year-old son said to me the other day, "Mom, I think I'm in trouble. Mitzi is referring my case to Mr. Weems."
"Who is Mitzi?"
"She's the girl at the record club who has been writing me letters saying I can't get out of the club because I still have to buy two more selections."
"Then who is Mr. Weems?"
"He's Mitzi's boss."
"Let me see the letter," I said.
Mitzi was a sweetheart. I could tell by the way she used phrases like, "You are forcing me to do something I really don't want to do. Mr. Bombeck, but you have left me no choice than to speak to Mr. Weems."

I had visions of Mitzi stamping out her cigarettes in her cottage cheese and letting her coffee get cold as she anguished over my son's case. I called her the next morning at the record club office.
"Hello, Mitzi Green please."
"Who?"
"Mitzi Green. She's the girl who has been corresponding with my son about his account."
"Oh, Mitzi isn't a person. She's a computer."
"So, put her on."
"You don't understand. Mitzi can't talk."
"Nonsense, she has just written us that she will be talking soon with Mr. Weems about the possibility of bringing legal action against my son."
"But Mr. Weems is a computer too."
"Can he listen?"
"Yes, but you have to understand computers. You can speak to them, but they will not answer you back. You can feed information into them, but it doesn't necessarily mean it will come out 100 per cent perfect. They're an important part of the family here at Freako Records, but they are without

Use shade as accent
Decorating tip: The window shades you select should repeat the color of the walls, or accent another color in the room.
Choose from sparkling whites, sunny yellows, crisp grass greens, pretty pinks, or even a gamut of heavenly blues. Add trimming in an accent color — and you will have produced a custom look at the windows that is as practical as it is goodlooking...because most shade cloths today are so no-nonsense sudsable!

emotion and without income."
"You have described my son perfectly," I said. "He's an X-70 model we purchased 15 years ago. Unknown to us, he punched out a membership in your club. According to his print-out, he has already fulfilled his obligation. However, if these two machines want to battle it out, it's all right with me."
"You mean our computer has been corresponding with another computer?" asked the girl on the phone.
It was just a gut feeling, but I had the distinct sensation they were going to kick a few buttons in the Freako Record company. (Copyright, 1974)

Trumps do no ruffing after they've been drawn

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When there's ruffing to be done, always think before you draw trumps. You won't be able to ruff with a trump that you've already drawn.

with the ace of clubs and confidently drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king.

When the trumps failed to break evenly South stopped. He was beginning to feel those going-down blues.

South still had to ruff two diamonds in dummy, and one of those ruffs had to be with dummy's queen. That would set up East's jack of trumps as the setting trick. Simple, but very sad.

LOOK AHEAD

South should look ahead before drawing any trumps at all. It isn't hard to see that he must ruff two diamonds sooner or later. He must leave two low trumps in dummy for the purpose.

South should draw just one round of trumps with the ace. Then South cashes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond in dummy. South ruffs a heart to regain the lead and ruffs his last diamond in dummy. He can then cash the queen of spades and ruff another heart to get back. Only then can he afford to draw the last trump.

South will be safe if East has the length in diamonds or if West has the jack of spades. The odds are high that at least one of these conditions will be in South's favor.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, bids one diamond. Partner doubles, and the next player redoubles. You hold: S-4, H-J 9 4 2, D-J 4 2, C-10 6 5 3 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. If you leave it to your partner to get himself out of the stew, he may bid one spade, bypassing the hearts. Do what you can to prevent him from bidding spades.

Questers plan
first state meet in Madison

MADISON — The first state convention of the Wisconsin State Organization of Questers, Inc., whose members are interested in the restoration and preservation of antiques, will be held Nov. 16 at the Quality Inn from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Special guests will be the national president, Margaret Walker and immediate past national president, Janet Holley.

Attending from Appleton will be Ruth Kneise, recording secretary of the state organization, and Rosemarie De Bruin, president of Sequitna Chapter.

Lillian Mackesy, Post-Crescent historian and food editor, will be guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Sequitna Chapter at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 11 at the home of Rosemarie De Bruin. Photographs and postcards of Appleton from the collections of Betty Wolfgram and De Bruin will be shown.

Keep baking soda
in the refrigerator

Tear off the top of a fresh box of baking soda, and put it in the back of the refrigerator. Stirred every couple of weeks, it will keep your refrigerator sweet-smelling through the New Year.

Coming up is the heavy food consumption season. Baking soda in the 'fridge keeps all the tastes and smells from mingling. It also means less chance of an embarrassing whiff when the door is opened.

Need trailer

Members of Mariner Ship 176 readied their newly-acquired 20-foot fiberglass sailboat for winter storage. The boat, which sleeps four, was a gift to the Fox River Area Girl Scout Council from Dave Hayden, and now the boat needs a new trailer. Future troop plans include the acquisition of a smaller boat and several canoes. The young sailors will not only learn ship maintenance but will compete in boating events throughout the year. Working below are Mary Mancl and Heide Hart-hun. Topside are Janet Mancl, Peggy DeLain and Mary Duba. (Post-Crescent photo)

Ann Landers

Tapes basis for blackmail?

Dear Ann Landers: In 1964 I went to a psychiatrist. After two visits I decided I didn't need any more therapy. My conscience had been bothering me because of something I had done. Two talking sessions gave me the relief and peace of mind I needed. I really spilled my guts, and this is what I am worried about.

Both sessions were taped. The psychiatrist said he likes to refer to "earlier sessions" if necessary. This means a secretary had to transcribe those tapes and they are probably on file in his office.

How can I protect myself against possible blackmail by an unscrupulous person who might get his or her hands on them? I am deeply concerned and need your advice.—Vulnerable

Dear V.: If you saw the psychiatrist only twice, in 1964, the records were probably tossed out long ago. However, since this is preying on your mind, call the doctor and ask for his assurance that your records have been disposed of. Or get his word that he will destroy them at once.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of giving birthday parties for one-year-olds? I've been to a few lately, and there have been as many as 25 guests present.

The babies have no idea what is going on. The mothers open the gifts and "Oo-o-o" and "Ah!" The babies would rather play with the ribbons and wrappings.

I feel these parties are for the parents and are a sheer waste of time and money for everyone else. What do you say?—Turned Off

Dear Turned Off: Of course the parties are for the parents. Who else? The child realizes people are around, but he doesn't know why and couldn't care less.

If parents want to celebrate the baby's birthday, I see nothing wrong with it. Someone usually has a camera. The pictures are nice to have later—so "Baby" can see what he looked like, smearing the frosting all over Aunt Ethel's navy blue dress.

Dear Ann Landers: I disagree with your reply to "Sloppy in Omaha." As a professional home economist, I have these comments:

A kitchen is a workshop. In the best designed workshops, tools are kept where they are most accessible, not out of sight. The pots and pans most frequently used should be hanging from a rack in the open. They can be very attractive and it's an added incentive to keep them bright and shiny.

Now about the "dishrags," as you call them. (I was taught to say "dishcloth" and I teach my students the same. Rags are usually used on floors, but please, not on dishes.) I see nothing wrong with keeping a dishcloth draped over the faucet. It will be sweeter-smelling than if it is stuck in a closed cabinet. And, of course, since it will be "on display," it must be kept clean.

A kitchen with totally "cleared decks" has as much personality as a living room that looks like a furniture-store window.—Efficient In Texas

Dear Tex: You may be right about calling them dishcloths instead of dishrags but as for the "cleared deck," I disagree. To me, the hallmark of a good housekeeper is one whose kitchen has nothing in sight except the appliances and canisters that are being used—and with the dishcloth out of sight. (Copyright 1974)

GASP to form chapter in area

A new chapter of the Group Against Smokers' Pollution (GASP) will be formed at an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday in the First National Bank.

The Wisconsin Lung Association is sponsoring the organization, with Helen Ciske, recently elected Miss Appleton-Appelfest, serving as the chairman for the Heart of the Valley GASP.

GASP is a national organization with state chapters in Milwaukee, Kenosha, and Madison. Among the projects undertaken by the organization are the establishment of nonsmoking sections in restaurants and encouraging of hospitals and public buildings to restrict smoking areas.

Weather forecast

It will be warm in the Midwest and cold in the Northeast, the northern Great Lakes area and in the southern Plains states, according to the National Weather Service. There will be rain or showers in scattered coastal areas. (AP wirephoto map)

Better days to come?

The weatherman repeated his claim that the clouds over the Fox Cities would yield to sunshine and warmer temperatures and said Thursday was the day. According to the U.S. Weather Service in Green Bay, it will be cloudy and cold tonight with a low in the mid 20s. Thursday should be sunny and warmer with a high in the mid 50s. Light and variable winds tonight will move into the southwest at 8-15 miles per hour on Thursday.

The outlook for Friday calls for partly cloudy and mild conditions with a high in the mid 50s.

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. reported that during the last 24-hour period in Appleton, temperatures reached a high of 46 and a low of 29. The barometer this morning stood at 30.32 and rising, winds were from the west at 6 m.p.h., relative humidity was 82 per cent, dew point 31 degrees and skies were clear, although clouds moved in by the middle of the morning. No precipitation had been recorded.

Sunset today at 4:37 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 6:38 a.m. The moon, at Last Quarter tonight, rises at 11:11 p.m.

Prominent stars: Fomalhaut low in south at 7:43 p.m. The Twins rise at 8:23 p.m.

Visible planets: Jupiter well above Fomalhaut. Saturn south of the Twins. Mercury rises at 5:12 a.m.

Is there any hope for this marriage?

WASHINGTON — When Gerry Ford first became President he told Congress he didn't want a honeymoon — he wanted a marriage. Everyone stood up and applauded.

But after being wed to Congress for a couple of months, Ford wants to call it quits. What this country needs more than anything else right now is a good family counselor to see if this marriage can be saved.

"Won't you come in and be seated?" "I'm not going to sit anywhere near the Democrats," Ford said angrily.

"Johnson was right," the Democrats reply. "He did play football without a helmet."

"Now, now," the family counselor says. "We're not going to get anywhere with that attitude. Let's deal with your side first, Mr. Ford. What seems to be the trouble?"

"All they do in this family is spend money. I'm the head of the household and I'm trying to keep expenses down and they keep adding to inflation with a lot of stupid things we don't need."

"He vetoes everything we want to do," the Democrats chime in. "He still thinks he's in Grand Rapids."

"I can't live with them," Ford cries. "They handcuff me at every turn and they don't let me do anything with my neighbors. If we stay married, we'd probably go have a war with somebody."

The family counselor says to Ford, "But you've only been married less than three months. Didn't you know all these things when you first suggested tying the knot?"

"I thought they loved me," Ford mumbles, dabbing away a tear. "They kept saying I was such a nice guy and they flirted with me and made me feel like they wanted me. How did I know they'd be different once the vows were exchanged?"

The counselor turns to the Democrats. "Let's hear your side of it."

The Democrats purse their lips. "We wanted a good marriage. And we thought there would be one. But after he carried us across the threshold, we discovered the house was falling down. All he wanted to do was give it a light coat of paint when what it really needed was a new concrete foundation. He promised us once we were married he'd stop getting in bed with big business. But every time he goes on a trip, he makes love to them."

"He blames us for everything that has gone wrong. He tells all the neighbors we're sloppy and we can't keep a clean house and we don't know how to cook. Everything we serve up to him he sends back. What the heck kind of marriage is that?" "I'm only doing what's best for the family," Ford replies. "Besides, he promised to give up the Dick Nixon crowd he used to hang around with, and he hasn't," the Democrats complain.

The family counselor says, "It seems to me, Mr. Ford, that you're making a serious mistake talking publicly about how unhappy you are. Whether you like it or not, you're going to have to live with the Democrats for another two years. By accusing them of all these terrible things, you're going to make it so much more difficult to have any domestic tranquility."

"What am I supposed to do?" Ford cries.

"I know this may be difficult," the counselor suggests, "but is there any possible way of kissing and making up?"

"You must be out of your mind," the Democrats say.

"Out of the question," Ford says.

"I was afraid of that," the counselor says. "Why don't you all come back Wednesday after the election? Maybe we can talk about it then."

It's dust that causes those brilliant red, yellow sunsets

WASHINGTON — A sunset speaks with silent eloquence. Nature's incomparable work of art can't be duplicated by words, music, or painting, but a good supply of dust can keep the lustrous display glowing for weeks. The blue of the sky and the color spectacles at dusk and dawn stem from the scattering effect of dust particles in the atmosphere upon short-wave sunlight. Spectrum narrows view Viewing the earth with the naked eye, man peers through a narrow slit — the visible-light portion of the electromagnetic spectrum. Most radiant energy travels in wavelengths and frequencies that cannot be seen, the National Geographic Society says. When sunlight comprised of light from various colored wave-lengths bumps into the atmosphere's tiny particles, the component parts are scattered and deflected. The shorter wavelengths, especially the blue, spread more than the longer, such as red and yellow.

At sunset when light passes through a greater thickness of the atmosphere made particularly dusty by the day's activities, the shorter blue rays tend to be absorbed and filtered out, and only the longer red and yellows pass through. The result: the mellow glow that has delighted poets, lovers, and artists for centuries. Wrote poet William Henry Davies: "What glorious sunsets have their birth/ In Cities fouled by smoke!" Nature often heightens the display with a touch of violence. When Krakatoa, the volcano in the Strait of Sunda between Java and Sumatra, erupted in August 1883, it sent vast quantities of pumice hurtling through the air. The ash blacked out areas as far as 275 miles away.

The dust was ejected with such force that it reached the stratosphere and was dispersed over the entire planet, causing spectacular sunrises and sunsets that were widely observed for months. Colors delighted astronaut Sunsets in space are almost as awesome. "Orbital sunset is tremendous ... a truly beautiful, beautiful sight," reported astronaut John Glenn during his 1962 flight in Friendship 7. Even after setting, the sun left behind colorful bands of twilight caused by the scattering and refraction of light rays in the atmosphere. "The speed at which the sun goes down is remarkable," Glenn said. "The white line of the horizon, sandwiched between the black sky and dark earth, is extremely bright as the sun sets. As the sun goes down a little bit more, the bottom layer becomes orange, and it fades into red and finally off into blues and black as you look farther up toward space." Unlike sunsets, northern lights are caused by the interaction of charged particles from the sun with atoms and molecules in the upper atmosphere.

The Democratic sweep

It was a traditional off-year election — only more so. As had been widely predicted, Democrats generally picked up seats in the United States Senate and House of Representatives, in state houses and state legislatures. The causes cannot be pinpointed. Watergate and President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon had to be influential. It seems certain that deep concern over the inflationary spiral and increasing unemployment made the big difference.

The Democratic sweep reflected the unfortunate fact that in a great many areas, including parts of Wisconsin, Republicans failed to put up strong candidates. We believe that a two-thirds Democratic control of Congress and control of most states is not healthy.

But Republicans showed their schizophrenia more than Democrats this time. Too many of their candidates clung to outmoded concepts which the far-right American party exploited, cutting deeper into Republican votes. There were some signs of resurgence by moderate Republicans in strong showings by men like Robert Kasten who won Wisconsin's 9th Congressional District, but the election demonstrated again the minority status of the Republican party in the country. Its reliance upon winning the White House periodically may weaken its position elsewhere.

Many of the races were decided on local issues. But the overall pattern of greater confidence in Democrats, particularly in the Midwest where voting was relatively heavy, cannot be ignored.

Whatever the soundness of some Republican policies it seems clear that Americans do not want a return to laissez faire policies when they are financial trouble. The dearth of economic and ethical leadership in Richard Nixon's White House has had its devastating effect.

Aid for Vietnam vets

Some time ago The Post-Crescent pointed to the inequity between the federal government's help to veterans of World War II and those of the Vietnam era. Congress is trying to narrow the gap. But the problems of inflation are in the way.

The Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act is awaiting the President's signature. It increases payments to veterans for on-the-job training, farm training and other education, as well as vocational rehabilitation. But apparently, because of early threats of a veto, Congress modified the bill so that the tuition grants in addition to subsistence, like those in the post-World War II G.I. Bill, were tossed out and the flat rate, now in effect, was increased. Of course, with today's inflation, a real cost of living boost in the flat rate would amount to too many millions.

Even now, there is no assurance that President Ford will sign the bill and so far he has only expressed the "hope" that he could.

The American distaste for the Vietnamese conflict has been one reason why benefits have not matched those for veterans of World War II. Ironically, however, the Vietnam veteran has had not only an economic handicap but the emotional one.

"I want to emphasize our debt to the Vietnam veterans. They served while some avoided service. They served without the full support that this nation has usually given its fighting forces. . . . I intend to see that they are not forgotten," President Ford said on Veterans Day. If this is not just rhetoric he should sign the assistance act.

Inflation must be fought and an overall decrease would benefit almost all Americans. But the Vietnam vets deserve better, whatever one thinks of the United States involvement in Indochina.

The military goes nuts

The United States military, it seems, must do things in a big way.

Birds—mainly starlings, blackbirds and grackles—have become a large nuisance in Kentucky and Tennessee near Ft. Campbell and the Milan Army ammunition plant. Farmers in the area are also incensed, claiming considerable crop damage.

The birds live and nest in pine groves near the military installations. Last March there was an attempt to spray the birds and get rid of them but it didn't succeed.

Now, however, the military is marshalling forces as if the birds were indeed elements of the Communist peril, or creatures from outer space threatening all earthlings. With helicopters and planes it plans to air drop chemicals which will wash away the birds' protective oil covering. Then the birds will freeze to death as soon as the temperature drops below 45 degrees. Naturally the nation's environmentalists are up in arms.

A few years ago it was careless with the testing of gas and a lot of sheep died while peacefully grazing. Then the military decided that the dangers of poison gases warranted studies on beagles, which naturally would mean that the friendly little dogs would die.

Is it possible that the military, shorn for the moment of an invading army or even a good little war in faraway places, must make dangerous enemies out of other creatures?

Birds are a problem to agriculture, as farmers near Horicon can testify during geese migratory periods. But such massive kills seem unwarranted. The bird population was discouraged in a Maryland area by thinning trees, and the use of firecrackers and loudspeakers. Last spring there were an estimated 1.75 million birds in the area, but this fall's migration has less than 65,000.

Operation Blackbird sounds pretty nutty. If it's an example of the military mind at work, we are all in real trouble.

Did British share Nazi code cracking?

If there is one thing the recent expose of Central Intelligence Agency activities in Chile highlights, it is the spectacular capacity of the British to keep their intelligence exploits not just under the rug, but in a buried time capsule.

It was only last year, for instance, that we learned from John Masterman's "The Double XX System" that MI-5 (British counterintelligence) had "turned around" every Nazi agent in the British Isles (with a couple of exceptions—who were shot) and that these spies were actually working against Germany. Now we learn from F. W. Winterbotham, who headed the Air Department of the British Secret Intelligence Service (SIS), that from 1940 on the top Nazi war code, "Enigma," was as intelligible to the general staff as if they had been sending messages in "clear."

We have long known that American Naval Intelligence successfully cracked the top Japanese code, "Magic," before Pearl Harbor, a feat which—while it did not avert the attack—made possible the stunning American recovery at the Battle of Midway, where the loss of four major Japanese aircraft carriers virtually destroyed Admiral Yamamoto's striking capacity. (Incidentally, the accidental indiscretion of a journalist almost blew the gig. In effect, he suggested it was no accident that we knew what Yamamoto was up to, but the Japanese investigated and decided their code was uncrackable.)

Now, more than 30 years later, we learn that

SIS was reading all the German messages at the top military level; that, for example (in Winterbotham's words), "Montgomery (at El Alamein) knew every detail of Rommel's forces—the number of tanks, amount of fuel, everything." However, while this helps to explain some odd corners of World War II, it also opens up some intriguing questions.

One of the great mysteries to those of us who have perused the literature was the American insistence on a cross-Channel invasion of the continent in 1942 (Operation Sledgehammer) and then 1943 (Roundup). Politics doubtless had something to do with it: The Soviets were screaming for a Second Front, and rumors were spreading that they might make a separate peace if action was not forthcoming. The British kept dragging their heels, although after Gen. George Marshall and Franklin D. Roosevelt's confidant, Harry Hopkins, made a special 1942 trip their chiefs of staff agreed "in principle." It is inconceivable to me that Marshall would have backed such a suicidal notion if he had been aware of enemy strength. Did the British fill him in?

The odds are they didn't. Instead, on Aug. 9, 1942, British and Canadian troops tried to seize the French port of Dieppe. The raid was an unmitigated disaster—more than half the Canadians were killed or captured. A bloody way of getting the message across that the invasion of Europe was not going to be child's play. The Americans tried again in 1943; and one suspects that—in addition to the combat experience gained in North Africa—they were briefed on "Enigma." In any event, 1944 was chosen, and the force levels estimated as necessary for success virtually doubled. (This was a period when the infantry was given top priority and other services told to ship off superfluous men—I recall the great shudder that ran through the Air Force, then part of the Army, as clerk-typists, airplane mechanics and others deemed superfluous were told to pack.)

To take a different case, one which reflects on Churchill's role as a grand strategist, if SIS was on top of the massive Nazi invasion of the Balkans in the spring of 1941, why did the British divide the desert army by shipping 60,000 men off to defend Greece? General Wavell had been doing nicely in North Africa until this depletion. After it, he lost both ways: 48,000 of the 60,000 sent to Greece escaped, leaving their equipment behind; and in the desert the Afrika Corps took the offensive and was shortly at the Egyptian border. Admittedly it was a charming gesture on Churchill's part to demonstrate loyalty to an ally, but in strategic terms it was preposterous.

Finally, in connection with Cornelius Ryan's best-selling book on "Market Garden"—the airborne assault on the Rhine bridges in Holland—why, if SIS had every major Nazi unit pinpointed, were the British "Red Devils" dropped right on top of a crack Panzer division? These are just some of the questions this fascinating revelation raises.

John Wyngaard

Problem of public strikes perplexing

MADISON—Perhaps there is no question regarded with more doubt and uncertainty and even dread by the typical legislative politician than the issue of strikes in the public services. It has become so notorious that it is increasingly difficult to ignore.

"Hortonville" has become a euphemism for management-labor conflict in governmental services since the protracted strike there that dramatized more effectively than any other incident of its kind that there is a serious problem and there is no ready solution.

During the gubernatorial campaign the nominees of the major parties repeatedly were asked for their views of the scope of the problem and possible methods of resolving it. With surprising candor they conceded that no acceptable formula has yet been offered.

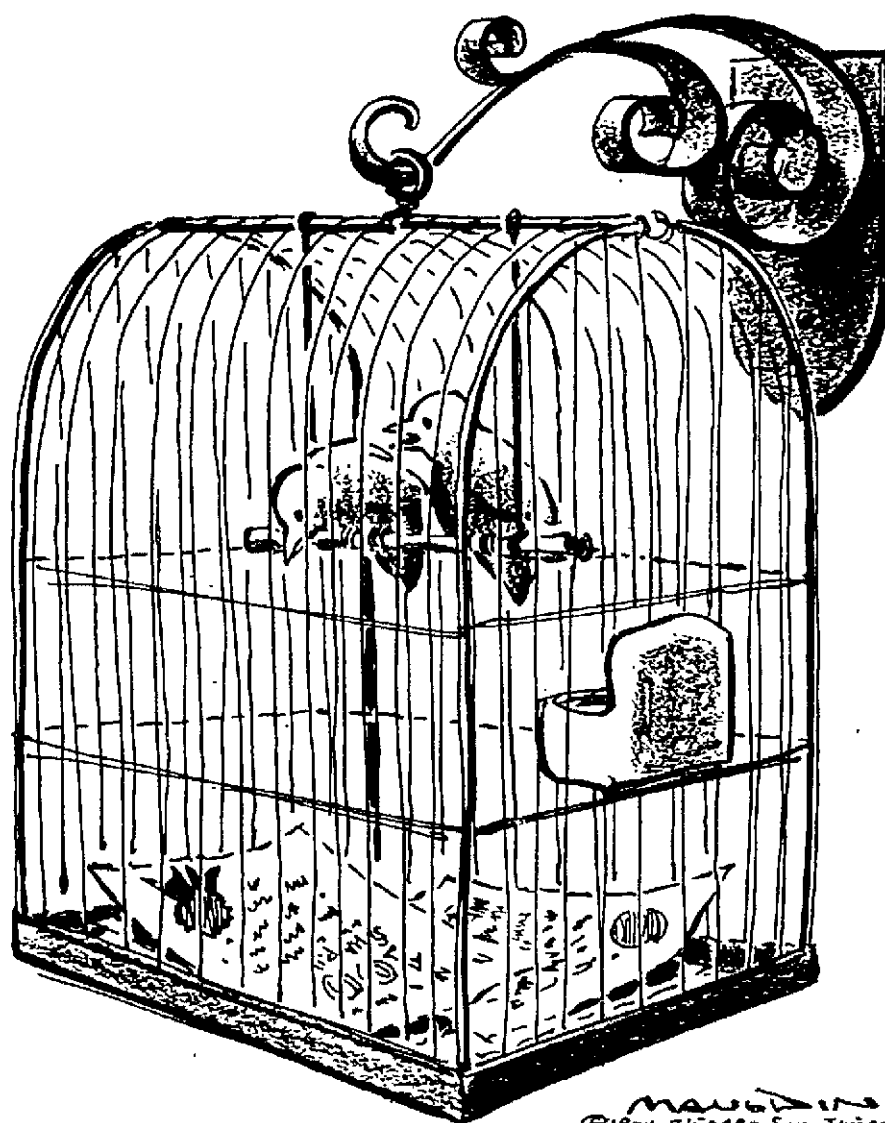

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey tentatively suggested that a "cooling off period" might be helpful when an impasse impends that is likely to lead to a walkout by civil servants. But he clearly indicated that such a measure would be more token than solution. Candidate William Dyke, who had intimate experience in labor-management relations from the Madison City Hall perspective, acknowledged that he was equally perplexed.

The mechanical response of the politician when challenged tends to support the idea of compulsory and binding arbitration by an outside functionary which the legislature already has decreed for labor disputes in the police and fire departments, but which has not yet been thoroughly demonstrated there. Moreover, municipal officers in the state never will be persuaded to accept such an alternative, regarding it as an obvious "cop-out."

The spokesmen for the civil service labor unions who have claimed that public administrators fear the mandatory arbitration idea more than the risk of a strike may be right. There is probably no way that the League of Wisconsin Municipalities and other principal legislative lobbying groups for public service management can be persuaded to accept a plan that would permit "outsiders," not responsible to the electorate, to intervene and to replace the legitimate authority of an elected local administration.

Yet the problem exists. Strikes have come with increasing frequency. Present law purports to prohibit them in the public services. Defiance of law is probably as regrettable from the viewpoint of the responsible citizen as is the proposal for the abdication of legitimate elected officers.

Reflective citizens wonder whether there is a middle ground. The question arises: Are all of the infinite number and variety of public services truly essential in the sense that the public health or safety are endangered when they are halted? It may be presumed that an interruption of street cleaning, lawn mowing in the parks or even trash collection would not be disastrous.

"OH, OH—THEY'VE STARTED USING STOCK CERTIFICATES."

Getting there isn't any fun in jet travel today

Except for specialized travel from big city to big city, the airplane has been a calamity to American transportation. I have said this before, and I shall say it again.

Another horror story. A man living in Chicago has to give a 40-minute lecture in Boyne, Mich., just a little more than 300 miles away. If he doesn't care to make a 600-mile round trip by car, this 40-minute talk takes 36 hours to consummate.

There is no plane to Boyne, so the man must fly to Traverse City and take a car from there nearly 50 miles. Moreover, there are only two flights a day from Chicago to Traverse City—the second one, at night, gets him there too late for his talk, so he must take the first one, at 10 a.m., which means he starts his journey around 8 a.m.

Now he has nearly 24 hours before he gives his talk. Only 50 minutes is spent on the plane; the other 23 hours are devoted to ground travel and pure waiting.

Now for the return. There are only two planes going back to Chicago from Traverse City. The first one leaves so early that he would have to get up at 5 a.m. in order to make it. The second leaves in the late afternoon.

This involves 20 hours more of waiting—from 8 p.m. at which time the talk is ended, until 4 p.m. the next day, when he drives the 50 miles back to Traverse City to board the plane that will get him home in time for dinner—having left the previous day at breakfast time.

From breakfast Monday to dinner Tuesday all of which to give a 40-minute talk a few hundred miles away. And, believe me, this is no isolated case, but more the rule than the exception. I could fly from Chicago to London, have lunch, see a play, and come back in less time.

As I have remarked before, to the point of tedium, except for a few large American cities, it is harder and often longer to travel from one town to another in our country now than it was 50 years ago. Then, the railroad went through, or near, most towns of any consequence, and a lot of no consequence at all. The airplane has isolated these towns as they have not been since the days of the buckboard.

The stupidest thing we ever did was let the railroads go to ruin before we had any assurance that airplanes would take up the slack. Not only have they not taken up the slack, they are actually abandoning every route they can get out of between smaller towns, because the "load factor" is unprofitable. Little wonder—with such rotten schedules, most people prefer to drive their cars, which is about the only way to get most places expeditiously in "modern" transportation.

Let President tighten belt

Editor, The Post-Crescent: I've read so much about this NFO calf kill. It seems as if the people have forgotten something.

Now it seems the Democrats feel hurt by what Ford said in some speech out West about their spending program. Well, back in the 30s when FDR came in with his New Deal, the people sure got one. Closed the banks and then Henry Wallace came in with his corn hog program. The city folks didn't mind when the farmers then were ordered to kill the little pigs—that was fine.

And in order to start the economy going, FDR began his pump priming and our national debt started to climb up and up, and where has the Democratic Congress got it now? And no one knows the answer.

And when Nixon impounded some of their money and didn't want to spend it, they made a big fuss.

And if the millionaires would pay their share of income taxes, I believe the present inflation could be wiped out and the little fellow with the time card could go tax free. But they keep taxing the little fellow and when he asks for a raise in pay, right away we have to have a wage and price control.

The Congress and President tell us to tighten our belts; it should start in Washington, D.C.

It is difficult to argue — aside from the circumstance of the present prohibition in the law — that such employees shall not have rights that have been acknowledged for their fellows in private employment for many years.

But probably no thoughtful person would dispute that the emergency room of the public hospital, the water utility, the fire department, health services and the police, among others, are essential to the public safety and cannot be permitted to be interrupted in a civilized community.

Yet such a classification leaves others in a debatable category, probably including the schools.

Maybe the timid, evasive or silent politicians are right and there is no acceptable solution. But as most of them know and fear, it is almost certain that the issue will be fought to a showdown in the new legislature starting in January.

Looking back Post report on election in county

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Post, Nov. 5, 1874.

Returns have come in rather slowly from the back towns in the county but enough have been returned to enable us to count upon the result with reasonable safety. So far as heard from, it seems that a meagre vote was polled in many of the towns. The day was very fine and many of the farmers chose to follow the daily routine of their duties rather than devote any portion of their time in the success of their candidates.

While the People's Ticket did not meet with a complete triumph, yet the success of some of the candidates is very gratifying. The election of W.H. Lanphear as County Clerk is a result upon which we can earnestly congratulate the people. The majority in his favor shows the immense popularity of Mr. Lanphear with the people of all parties; which is accounted, in a great extent, by the efficiency with which he has served them.

In the election of John Brill for Sheriff, the people have secured a competent officer, and the Germans of the county a reliable representative.

We had hoped for the election of our candidates, Sam'l Boyd and John Goodland, but circumstances over which we had no control prevent it. However, it is the duty of every good citizen to accept this result and thus acknowledge that there is no higher power than the vote of the people.

25 YEARS AGO

Arlon Jahnke was installed as mayor of McKinley Junior High School by Appleton High School student Mary Jelek, former mayor. McKinley Student Council members also included Donna Murphy, Leah Tank, Carol Zimmerman, Donald Sonkowsky and Ronald Fairchild.

Mrs. Louis Vanevenhoven was installed as president of the Kaukauna Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. John Fourness and Alvin Blinder became Wisconsin bridge champions after winning the state tournament in a field of 56 pairs.

Mexican dancing memorable

Editor, The Post-Crescent: The "Fiesta Folklorico" program of Oct. 29 was a refreshing glimpse of sight and sound into a bit of traditional Mexican dance art. The vivacious and talented troupe overcame the inadequacies of Seims Synnasium at Appleton High School West, and gave an enchanting performance.

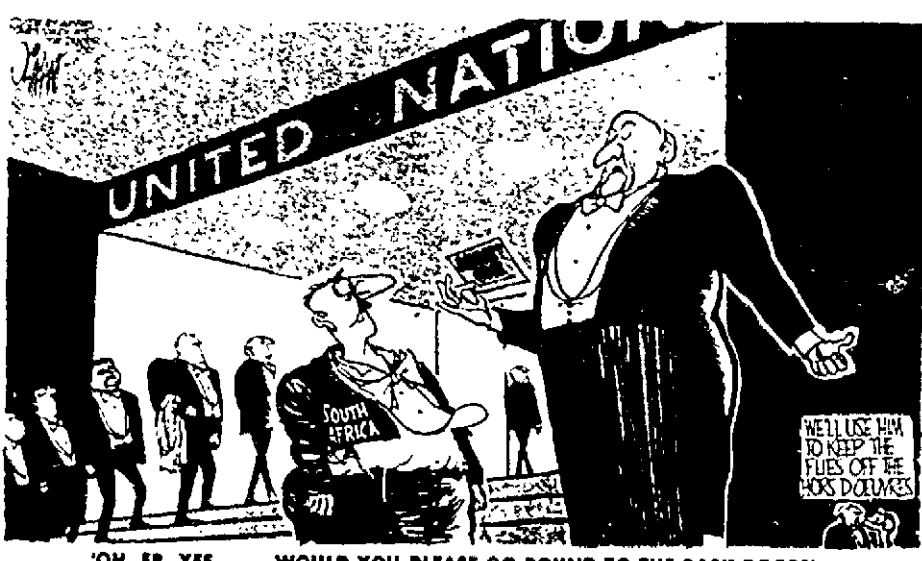

Infectious rhythms and the obvious enthusiasm of the performers contributed to a memorable evening.

The timely demise of the Variety

Theater series of a few years ago has left a cultural gap in the Fox Cities world of entertainment. This has been filled in part by the excellent Attic Theater, Lawrence University presentations and Fox Valley Extension musical shows, but there is still room for stimulating entertainment like the "Fiesta."

Thank you again, La Raza, for a pleasant evening, and my best wishes as you continue your excellent program for Mexican-Americans of our area.

Conservation urged for businessmen

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen aren't conservative enough, said David Brower. "They have to learn to live on their income rather than on their capital. Otherwise they're too radical."

The capital, as he views it, is the earth's resources. Use these resources wisely, replenish them and avoid wasting them, and they provide an income. Destroy them and you destroy yourself.

Such advice might be accepted if it comes from one businessman to another. Coming from Brower, however, it is likely to be accepted by some businessmen as fuzzy, liberal, even radical thinking.

Brower is a conservationist, an ecologist. A former executive director of the Sierra Club, he is now president of Friends of the Earth. And he doesn't list businessmen among the earth's best friends.

Business often takes its sustenance from the earth without returning a dividend; it depletes soil and energy; it wastes and despoils. It lives on the earth's capital and doesn't seem to realize the capital is running out. All these are Brower views.

"I'm not attacking the profit system or the capitalist system or the Communist system," he said. "I'm attacking the disrespect for the earth, but I'm against shutting down the system."

In fact, he suggests, his ideas could be interpreted as prosystem. "We can't afford to continue tearing up the earth. You don't solve shortages by speeding up the rate of usage. If such ideas persist in practice we'll have an economic collapse."

To avoid this fate he maintains the world's economies must slow growth. "That is, the kind of growth that depends upon using up resources." We must, he adds, "slow down the kinds of games we've played for the past century."

Business and the environment are in real rather than superficial conflict, Brower insists, and business must compromise some of its goals and techniques. Otherwise, he forecasts, disaster will be the outcome.

"If I were in an industry I'd like to be in one that lasts," he said, straining through his frustration to convince business that thoughtless consumption of energy eventually is self-defeating.

The conflict, he states, "will continue until business leaders who already haven't taken the situation seriously turn the problem over to their engineers, technologists and ecologists, instead of to ad agencies."

Brower believes the world now must enter a transition period during which it must make numerous compromises in the interest of self-survival, the most important of these being to slow population.

"Increased production is a dead-end road," Brower said. "We must seek our money in greater efficiency than in greater production."

The transition period he envisions would be no worse, he claims, than the period of dislocations that accompanied the entry into World War II and the eventual readjustment.

The alternative, he insists, is disaster.

West High student wins annual award

This award recognizes outstanding teachers of geography or administrators-supervisors involved in geographic education.

She will be listed as a merit award teacher for 1974 in the January, 1975, issue of the "Journal of Geography."

Roosevelt Junior High — An open house has been set for 7 p.m. Nov. 18. Parents and friends may visit the classrooms, see student demonstrations and talk to the teachers during an informal refreshment period.

Members of the Service Club, under the direction of Carol Fischer, will serve as guides. Fran Conrad and Nancy Tebo are in charge of the evening. Committee members are Barbara Alstad, Dave Schini and Lois Snell.

Dorothy Koller, secondary communicative arts consultant for the Appleton Public Schools, will serve as associate chairman for the symposium, "Intermedia: Culture Fairs and the Exploded Curriculum," at the annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English. The convention is slated during the Thanksgiving weekend in New Orleans.

AHS-East and West — Students from the two high schools have been selected to participate in the Wisconsin Honors Band, Orchestra and Chorus and will perform for the Wisconsin Music Teachers convention Friday in Madison.

The young musicians are Julie Kemmerer and Sue Wolff, cello; Becky Weis, violin; and Denise Maurice, soprano.

Israel oversupplied with overeducated immigrants

BY DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer

REHOVOT, Israel (AP) — Three years ago Dr. Zeev Zaretskii was one of Moscow's leading chemists, secretly teaching Hebrew at an underground Jewish school. Now he is building a mass spectrometry center at Israel's Weizmann Institute of Science.

Three years ago Dr. Lev Diamant was doing research in pure physics in Siberia. Now he is helping Israel form one of the world's few teams to explore the mysteries of plasma physics.

The Weizmann Institute scientists are part of the brainpower that has poured into Israel since Jews began a mass departure from the Soviet Union in 1971. So many Soviet engineers, scientists, doctors and academics have settled in Israel that the nation is having trouble absorbing them all.

Now, under the new American-Soviet trade bill reached by Moscow, President Ford and the U.S. Congress, Jews may start pouring out of Russia at an even greater rate, and Israel is preparing to take most of them.

The Ministry of Immigrant Absorption, labor and housing officials and the Jewish Agency are planning crash programs to find the Russian newcomers places to live, places to learn Hebrew and places to work.

Soviet immigrants like Zaretskii and Diamant as well as Israeli officials say the biggest problem is creating work for thousands of academic professionals. About 40 of every 100 Russians reaching Israel carry diplomas, and many are overqualified for the labor market, which needs technicians and production workers.

"There aren't enough places for scientists. The system of finding jobs is very inefficient," says Diamant. "When the immigration gets bigger, this will be a terrible problem."

The 34-year-old physicist tells of a group of Russian friends who formed a pioneer settlement two years ago on the Adan Heights — near the Syrian war front — to work on applied science projects. Now, just as the projects are materializing, the group is splitting up in frustration.

"It's very simple to get money in Israel to make a kibbutz for growing tomatoes, but very difficult for applied science," says Diamant in his laboratory.

"Absorbing workers and technicians is no problem because the economy can take them quickly," says Zaretskii, 47, a bespectacled, frizzy-haired man. "But it is difficult to find employment for the highly skilled people."

"Still, I don't know of any scientists who are driving taxis or anything like that," he adds. Zaretskii thinks that mastering Hebrew is 80 per cent of the problem for newcomers to fit into Israeli life.

He spoke it fluently before he arrived three years ago and within a few months of quitting the Soviet Academy of Sciences, he was installed at the Weizmann Institute.

In the past four years, more than 80,000 Soviet Jews have settled in Israel. With emigration eased by the trade bill pressure from Washington, the flow might almost double, and Jewish Agency chairman Pinhas Sapir says Israel will need $1.2 billion to absorb the first 60,000 or so.

The Israelis count on getting much of the money from American Jewish donations. The talent the Russians bring with them makes the absorption cost of $20,000 a head a solid investment.

More than a year ago, the Institute of Technology in Haifa reported it had more than 550 Russian immigrants.

Russian musicians have joined the Israeli Philharmonic and are helping revive a symphony orchestra in the desert city of Beersheba. The conductor of the Israel Broadcasting Orchestra is Yuri Aharonovitch, former director of the U.S.S.R. Radio and Television Symphony in Moscow.

Valery and Galina Panov are the best-known Soviet ballet dancers to come to Israel, but not the only ones. Among others is Enessa Alexandrovitch, a Bolshoi graduate and veteran teacher who has been training Israeli ballerinas since 1972.

The immigrant airplanes flying in from Vienna, Austria, carry mostly blue collar settlers, but among them are doctors, lawyers and teachers, and one veteran animal trainer from Moscow hopes to create an Israeli circus, with bears riding bicycles in Tel Aviv.

Zaretskii says "the contributions of the Soviet engineers and scientists could be very great," but their impact has not yet been felt. "I expect the real results in a year or two, when they are fully absorbed."

Diamant doesn't know if his own pure research is useful to the country —

"academic science is really just satisfying your own curiosity" — but he says that Soviet scientists could improve the efficiency of Israeli industry.

"It is underdeveloped and it does not yet know how to use the experience of people from industrial countries," he says.

Despite the drawbacks, Zaretskii thinks few qualified Jews who quit the Soviet Union will go to countries other than Israel.

"Some will leave after they get here, of course, but some who went to places like the United States and Canada are already writing letters saying they want to come to Israel," he says. "Jews going to the United States are immigrants and they can only ask for help — here they can demand it."

"Things in Israel may be bad or good, but there is a program to take us in. There is no such program in America. And here, we are immediately full citizens, with equal rights. That makes a big difference."

OSHKOSH — Five charges of issuing worthless checks were dismissed here Thursday against a Neenah businessman when he agreed to make restitution to a former employee who initiated the complaint.

Winnebago County Judge William H. Carver dismissed the case against James R. Brownson, 709 Manchester Road, Neenah, which had been scheduled for a jury trial on Thursday. Brownson, owner of Lil' Giant Excavators Inc., was charged with issuing five worthless payroll checks to Richard Heath, 205 Sherry St., Neenah, Health, who worked for Brownson's firm earlier this year, charged that the checks, which were issued between Jan. 25 and Mar. 15, totaled $362 and were all returned from the bank due to insufficient funds.

A second Appleton girl involved in burning a large vacant house in Appleton last July 23 has been sent to Lincoln State School.

The 15-year-old girl, who appeared Monday in Outagamie County Juvenile Court, had been found delinquent in September and was placed under custody of the county Department of Social Services after being found guilty of arson, running away from a foster home and two counts of beer possession.

She was scheduled for a Nov. 20 jury trial on a charge of being party to issuing a forged $93 check belonging to Karen Eiting on Aug. 22.

However, Judge R. Thomas Cane revised his earlier custody disposition and ordered the girl sent to Lincoln. He ordered the family to pay $10 a week toward her support at the school.

Four juveniles and two adults were charged in connection with the fire that destroyed a vacant house at 224 W. Prospect Avenue.

An 18-year-old man is serving a jail term and another 15-year-old Appleton girl last week was sent to Lincoln.

Mustangs reach summit in poll

The Greeks put great store in the fates of the gods, meaning things will work out the way they are meant to. Little Chute football fans are using that principle today after their unbeaten Mustangs gained the No. 1 medium school rating in the final Associated Press poll.

Many area fans were surprised three weeks ago when the No. 1 team lost and the Chutes remained ranked third. But, that was only the second surprise as the Mustangs earlier had dumped No. 2 ranked Omro and failed to move up in the poll.

Two weeks ago No. 1 rated Wisconsin Dells was beaten and No. 2 Jefferson moved to the lead and Little Chute advanced to No. 2. Last week, in the season finale, Jefferson was trounced 27-7 to open the door for Little Chute.

Little Chute Coach Bill Fitzpatrick was a little surprised to hear of the No. 1 rating. "When Jefferson lost, I thought we might have a chance but Colby is 10-0 and I thought maybe the extra games would get consideration.

"It's pretty nice. This kind of makes my day," Fitz said, after thinking about the No. 1 rating awhile. "It's a real tribute to these kids. They deserve it. We didn't have a big team, but when you get 140 and 150 pound kids hitting like they did it really makes you feel good. They did a fantastic job."

Fitzpatrick had praise for quarterback Rick Vander Wyst, the receivers and his defense. "Our quarterback didn't always throw the best, but he knew our system and exploited the other team's weaknesses. Our skill positions were as good as anyone. And, our defense was pretty solid.

"I told the kids all along that it didn't

Van Brocklin is sacked by Falcons

ATLANTA (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, generally regarded as a technical football genius with a volatile personality, was fired as head coach and general manager of the Atlanta Falcons Tuesday.

Van Brocklin, 48, had built the expansion team into a legitimate playoff contender last year but was forced out of his job by public pressure after the Falcons staggered to a 2-6 start.

The clamor for change reached its peak Sunday when the Miami Dolphins gave Atlanta its worst defeat in 40 games, 42-7.

The announcement of the firing came in a terse statement from club owner Rankin Smith at the dinner hour Tuesday night. Smith said Marion Campbell, 45, will assume the coaching duties immediately.

Campbell had served as Van Brocklin's defensive coordinator since 1969, building a unit that was respected throughout the National Football League.

"I had no inkling of anything like this," said Campbell. "I've just been trying to get the defense going...That's all that has concerned me.

"I appreciate Rankin's faith in me, but my heart goes out to Norm Van Brocklin. We were together for nine years. He let me coach the defense and never second-guessed me. We talked today at the stadium after the change was made," Campbell said.

"When Norm left, he wished me well. I didn't solicit the job and he knows it."

Campbell said Smith told him there would be no discussion of whether he would be the coach next year until after the season is over.

"But I'm not concerned about that," he said. "I just want to do the job for Rankin, the Falcons and the assistants. As for next year, we didn't sit down and talk about promises."

The downfall of Van Brocklin, known as the Dutchman, began late last season after the Falcons put together a seven-game winning streak and needed only victories over Buffalo, St. Louis and New Orleans to reach the playoffs for the first time in their eight-year history.

Buffalo and St. Louis whipped the Falcons in Atlanta, ending all playoff hopes.

Then 1974 arrived and Van Brocklin was optimistic, calling this the best Falcons team in history.

The strike of the NFL Players' Association kept more than 20 veterans out of training camp, but such was the case at most other NFL sites.

When Atlanta lost its first three games this year, the Dutchman blamed it on the strike. He began spicing every weekly news conference with expletives. And it reached the boiling point Mon-

Devine won't tolerate any more player-coach fights

BY DICK KARBON
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Packer Assistant Coach Hank Kuhlman and player Al Matthews said Tuesday their clash of mind and body last week was spawned by a personality conflict and there is no mass dissension on the team . . . even though Coach Dan Devine acknowledged that this was round two of a player-coach war.

Kuhlman, special teams coach, and Matthews were involved in a scuffle last Friday night at the Left Guard on Green Bay's West Side.

Devine said the first round involved another coach and a group of players in a bar earlier in the season. He said that the first one had been treated as an "internal matter" and that the latest fight would be handled the same way. Devine added that he would "not tolerate" any more such occurrences.

"It was a personality conflict more than anything else," said Kuhlmann.

First Jabbar start slated for Nov. 16

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Tuesday had a cast removed from his right hand, broken Oct. 5, but a Milwaukee Bucks' spokesman said the 7-foot-2 superstar may not be ready for fulltime duty until Nov. 16.

Dr. George Korkos, physician for the National Basketball Association team, said Abdul-Jabbar will undergo therapy, mainly whirlpool treatments and exercise, for five or six days to strengthen the hand.

Korkos said the hand remained swollen but that the fourth metacarpal bone had healed. Abdul-Jabbar broke the hand when he punched a backboard support in a fit of anger in a preseason exhibition and has not played since.

He was expected to begin light workouts with the Bucks late this week.

The Bucks, beaten by Boston in the NBA championship series last spring, have lost eight of their first nine games, including their last six in a row, one short of the team record. They are to play four more games before meeting Cleveland Nov. 16.

DiGregorio will be out 6 to 8 weeks

BUFFALO (AP) — Ernie DiGregorio, a guard for the Buffalo Braves, underwent surgery Tuesday for removal of torn cartilage in his left knee.

The Braves said DiGregorio would be hospitalized five to seven days and would be out of action six to eight weeks.

"When you're winning games, I guess things like this don't come up. You're thinking about other things."

Matthews said, "it was a combination of personality and team matters. We had a disagreement."

Neither denied there was an altercation.

Kuhlmann and Matthews reportedly bumped into each other in a hallway at the Left Guard. After a verbal exchange, they decided to step outside and settle their differences.

Kuhlmann denies having hit Matthews, but Matthews said "there were some punches thrown."

Kuhlmann said he was restrained by other players, linebacker Larry Hefner and rookie Bart Purvis, currently on the injured reserve list.

Little Chute, Omro, New London top All-ECC voting

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent staff writer

Little Chute, Omro and New London continued their domination of the East Central Conference today as those teams had all but two of 23 players named to

Klinzing

Sexton

Hermesen

Schweitzer

Schommer

DeBruin

Vander Sanden

Broyles

Hammen

Kaepernick

Harrington

the all-conference football team.

Little Chute, which took the No. 1 medium school rating and finished with an 8-0 record, placed four players each on offense and defense. Omro, 7-1 for the season, also placed four players on the offense and a like number on the defensive teams.

New London, which won its last five games, placed five players on the honor squad. Surprisingly, the league's leading defense, had fewer members gain recognition for that unit than on offense.

The East Central All-Conference team is selected by league coaches on an all-opponent basis.

Five players were unanimous selections and three made both the offensive and defensive team.

Heading the offensive team were unanimous picks Rick VanderWyst, Little Chute quarterback; Curt Harrington, New London running back and Mark Block, Winneconne wide receiver.

The unanimous selections on defense were Charles Schweitzer, New London middle guard and Kim Broyles, Little Chute tackle. Both are juniors.

Making both teams were Judd Schommer, Little Chute running back and linebacker; Ron Thums, Omro lineman and Ed Egan, offensive guard-linebacker, also of Omro.

Breaking the domination by the ECC's big three were Block and Waupaca linebacker Terry Larson, a junior.

Other Little Chute members were Dave Hermesen, tight end; Lee VanderSanden, guard; Nick Hammen, defensive end and Bill DeBruin, defensive back.

Completing New London's contingent were Paul Klinzing, offensive tackle; Jerry Sexton, defensive end and Rand Kaepernick, defensive back.

Steve Allen, running back; Tom Weber, center; Stu Beiber, defensive end and Neil Retzlaff, defensive back, completed Omro's representation.

Omro finished the season with the top offensive club averaging 342.2 yards a game and scoring 248 points. Little Chute average 319.8 yards and scored 190 points, while New London averaged 263.1 yards and tallied 192 points.

New London came from sixth place, after two games, to become the top defensive club averaging 146.1 yards a game. Little Chute was a close second with a 146.5 average.

Harrington was the league's leading rusher and scorer with 1,013 yards for a 6.57 average and 116 points. VanderWyst led all passers with 40 completions in 83 attempts for 756 yards and nine touchdowns. Teammate Hermesen led receivers with 19 catches for 299 yards, while Block also caught 19 for 291 yards.

"I was in the wrong by going after him," said Kuhlmann, "but he said something I didn't like."

Matthews claimed he and Kuhlmann had a disagreement over a special teams strategy earlier. "I think he was stewing over it for a few days," Matthews said. "It just came out."

"I should have held my cool, but I didn't," said Kuhlmann, who said the disagreement may have stemmed from something which happened in practice.

"I had to correct him one day on the field . . . and I had to do it vocally," Kuhlmann said. "It probably embarrassed him and I shouldn't have done it."

"But we talked afterwards and I thought it was all settled, but I guess different things came up," he said.

Matthews, although admitting the two haven't talked to one another since the incident, said the altercation did not and would not affect his play.

"It didn't affect me Sunday," he said. Matthews, a safety, had 10 tackles and an interception before being sidelined with a shoulder separation late in the third quarter of Sunday's 17-6 loss to the Washington Redskins.

Matthews currently is listed as doubtful for Sunday's game at Milwaukee against the Chicago Bears, but he said, "it was only a slight separation and I think I'll be listed as probable before the end of the week."

Kuhlmann said the scuffle, "didn't affect the special teams either."

Kuhlmann, at first, was reluctant to talk about the incident, but he agreed later in order to air the matter.

"Look, I've got to think about the team," he said. "I was boiling for a while and it came out. But it's all over with now."

Matthews, who is enjoying one of his best seasons, said the disagreement will not be a factor in team morale.

"You don't get down on one part of the team," he said. "You have offense, defense and special teams. They all have to complement each other."

Bowl rumors rampant

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer
Secrets are flying faster than rumors as the nation's college football bowls rush to line up post-season opponents. Notre Dame reportedly will meet Alabama in the Orange Bowl in a rematch of last year's national championship battle. Nebraska and Florida will face each other in a Sugar Bowl clash while Penn State will take on the Southwestern Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl.

Miami of Ohio, which has a bid to the Tangerine Bowl, says it wants to meet Miami of Florida in the Dec. 21 clash.

And Oklahoma State will meet Pittsburgh and Tony Dorsett in the Sun Bowl Dec. 28.

Until this year, the first day a bowl invitation could be extended was the third Saturday in November. But the National Collegiate Athletic Association rescinded its rule when it found it impossible to enforce.

The bowls then agreed among themselves to wait until Nov. 16. But, as usual, early bids have apparently been offered and leaked.

The Orange Bowl collision between Notre Dame and Alabama will match the two teams that fought for the national championship in the Sugar Bowl last New Year's Eve when the Irish edged the Crimson Tide 24-23.

Notre Dame is ranked eighth with a 7-1 record while Alabama, 8-0, is third behind Ohio State and Oklahoma. A Notre Dame spokesman said "no decision would be made before Nov. 16," although Frank Rentz, president of the Orange Bowl Committee, said official announcement of the Notre Dame-Alabama matchup could come Saturday following the Alabama-Louisiana State game. Penn State Coach Joe Paterno said his team has voted to go to the Cotton Bowl against the winner of the Southwest Conference—either Texas, Texas A&M or Baylor—but qualified his statement by saying the Nittany Lions would go "if" they are invited. Cotton Bowl officials in Dallas declined to confirm the reports that Penn State, ranked seventh with a 7-1 record, would be invited. But one official said Penn State "is under very strong consideration."

Coach Tom Osborne confirmed his Nebraska Cornhuskers will face Florida in the Sugar Bowl. Osborne said the president of the Sugar Bowl Committee, Cliff Kern, assured him that New Year's Eve in New Orleans would pit Nebraska against Florida. Florida, ranked sixth nationally, is 7-1 while the ninth-ranked Cornhuskers are 6-2 with games against Iowa State, Kansas State and second-ranked Oklahoma to go. Unbeaten Oklahoma is banned from postseason play because of recruiting violations.

Islanders tie Flyers after fight erupts

By The Associated Press
Philadelphia's Bobby Clarke and New York's Garry Howatt exchanged blows on the ice and excuses afterwards Tuesday night following a raucous penalty-filled 4-4 tie. "I got an elbow from him (Clarke) after the whistle," complained Howatt. "They always give cheap shots and the referees don't call it. I just tore into Clarke and I landed a couple of shots to the head." "(Andre) Dupont and (Dave) Shultz are just goons," added Howatt. "Do you think I'd elbow him at that stage of the game," retorted Clarke. "I've been around long enough not to take a penalty at that time with us leading. He grabbed me by the hair." The Flyers held a 4-3 advantage with 1:13 to go when Howatt and Clarke tangled in front of the Flyers' net. Both benches emptied, both goalies left their nets and when officials finally cleared the gloves and sticks and mopped up the blood from the ice, five players—Clarke, Howatt, Philadelphia's Andre Dupont and goalie Bernie Parent and New York goalie Billy Smith—were assessed penalties. Thus inspired, the Islanders sent a capacity crowd of 14,865 into a frenzy when Billy Harris took a pass from Ralph Stewart and rifled a 25-foot shot past Parent to tie it up. "I guess Parent blew it," said Harris with a smile. Elsewhere in the NHL, Buffalo and Boston tied 2-2, Pittsburgh beat Kansas City 5-3, Los Angeles edged St. Louis 4-3 and Vancouver shaded the New York Rangers 2-1. The Islanders kept the Flyers one point behind first-place Philadelphia in Division I. Barber and Rick McLeish scored first-period goals for Philadelphia and Ed Westfall got one for New York. The Islanders went on top 3-2 after the second stanza on scores by Dave Lewis and Bob Nystrom but Terry Crisp and Leach connected in the final period to set the stage for Harris' goal. Flyers' Coach Fred Shero was impressed with the third-year Islanders. "They have a lot of confidence in themselves," said Shero. "I'll take the hungry guys any time. There are too many fat guys in pro sports." Johnny Bucyk's 40-footer late in the final period lifted Boston into a tie with Buffalo. Gil Perreault and Craig Ramsay connected for the Sabres and Al Sims got the other Bruin goal. Ron Schock's 25-footer snapped a third-period tie and carried Pittsburgh past Kansas City. Bob Nevin scored his ninth goal of the season with just under five minutes to go to lead Los Angeles past St. Louis, spoiling the coaching debut of the Blues' Garry Young. And Leon Rochefort and Andre Boudrias scored a goal apiece to carry Vancouver past the Rangers.

Tuesday's WHA results: Houston 9, San Diego 3; Phoenix 3, Indianapolis 0; Toronto 5, Michigan 2; Vancouver 5, Chicago 4; and Winnipeg 6, Minnesota 4.

Dodgers' Marshall is NL Cy Young winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Marshall, the tireless relief pitcher who helped the Los Angeles Dodgers win their first pennant in eight years, was named the National League's Cy Young Award winner today. Marshall collected 17 of 24 possible first-place votes to outscore teammate Andy Messersmith, 96 points to 66, and become the first relief pitcher in history to win the coveted prize. The only other reliever to win a major award from the Baseball Writers Association of America was Jim Konstanty, who was the National League's Most Valuable Player during the "Whiz Kid" days of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950. The Dodgers took three of the first four places as Atlanta's Phil Niekro finished third with 15 points and Los Angeles' Don Sutton was fourth with 12. Messersmith, along with Niekro the only 20-game winners in the National League this year, received five first-place votes. Niekro and Sutton had one each. Pitchers from the National League champion Dodgers thus gained 23 of the 24 first-place votes. The remainder of the field included Al Hrabosky of St. Louis with nine points; Cincinnati's Jack Billingham, eight; Cincinnati's Don Gullett, five; Clay Carroll of Cincinnati, two, and Pittsburgh's Dave Giusti, Buzz Capra of Atlanta, and Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis, all one. A total of 24 writers voted, two from each National League city, and the point total was decided on a basis of five for first place, three for second and one for third. Marshall appeared in a record-breaking 106 games this past season, an achievement that bettered his own National League standard of 92 set the year before with the Montreal Expos. He became the first relief pitcher in National League history to qualify for the earned run title with 208 innings. Marshall finished fourth in that category with a 2.42 mark. The squarely-built right-hander, a controversial figure who is considered somewhat of an intellectual snob, had a 15-12 won-lost record and 21 saves for Los Angeles this year. Indefatigable, Marshall pitched batting practice in between assignments so as not to rust his talents. "I can pitch as long as I want to, as much as I want to, and as many years as I want to," Marshall once said. Marshall, now studying for a doctorate in psychology at Michigan State University and teaching at the same school, was given a landslide victory in the Cy Young election from the very people he had disdained—the sports writers. During the World Series against the Oakland A's last October, Marshall refused to talk to writers because, as one reporter put it, "He believes that sports writers are below his station." Marshall teaches kinesiology, the study of the anatomy in relation to body movements. Before Marshall made it, the closest any relief pitcher came to winning the Cy Young Award was last year—when Marshall himself finished second to Tom Seaver of the New York Mets. Seaver did not receive one vote this time.

New Kaukauna coach has new theory about starters

KAUKAUNA — "I'm going to use our five best athletes. If a 6-3 kid plays better at guard than the guy who's 5-9, then the bigger man will play. Use the five best men and forget about positions. That's my philosophy."

These ideas were made known by first-year Kaukauna High School basketball coach Jim Meyers, who directed Darlington High School to a 12-7 record last season.

Meyers, who "has never seen a regular season Fox Valley Association game in his life," thinks Kaukauna will have a much better overall team this season.

The Ghosts ended up third in the FVA last year with a 9-5 slate. Two productive scorers, Reed Giordana and Scott Lunda, have graduated.

While at Darlington, Meyers earned the reputation for winning the big games and the close contests.

"We won six or seven games by one or two points last season at Darlington," he said. "I like to have as much control of the game as possible. If we win the close ones, the other teams are going to start to think that we're going to do something in the late stages."

Kaukauna's three returning lettermen are Tom Vaubel (6-3), Frank Bouressa (6-3) and Jerry Schumacher (6-4). Vaubel was the FVA's third-leading rebounder last season and was 15th in scoring. Bouressa was the seventh-leading board man and Schumacher finished eighth.

Top prospects include: Greg Helf (6-4), Ric Huss (6-1), Tim Roberts (5-9), Keith Kuehl (6-5) and Dennis Kramer (6-1).

Meyers has conducted two-a-day practice sessions so far this week. "I saw some impressive performances," he said. "Nobody was outstanding but everyone went home at night with their tongues hanging out."

"Everybody told me we'd be slow this season," he added. "But I think our kids are quick enough to play this game. When you press on defense, you don't have to be that quick if you know what to do and are mentally prepared."

When the subject of a winning basketball tradition was mentioned, Meyers said, "I think we need a new basketball cohesiveness between the Catholic grade school coaches, those in the junior high program and myself. I've met with these coaches already. We don't want kids to think basketball is over for them after eighth grade."

The first-year FVA mentor said that in the past, kids knew who the starters would be before the season even started. "This has been a problem," he pondered. "Kids have been discouraged from coming out. I expected 100 players to try out this year and we had only about 25."

Following a three-way scrimmage with Bayport and Two Rivers (Nov. 16), the Ghosts will play two home games, (Winneconne, Nov. 22, non-conference) and (Appleton East, Nov. 27, FVA opener). Kaukauna's third test will be a non-conference encounter at Eau Claire Regis Nov. 30.

Meyers will be assisted by Ron Margelofsky, Harold Kohn and John Dill.

"I consider the Fox Valley Association to be the best basketball league in the entire state," Meyers said. "People associate basketball with Neenah and Kimberly because they win the most. We have an indoctrination period to go through here. But everything good takes some time."

Valders has pair of returning lettermen

VALDERS — First-year Valders coach Richard Nelson has two returning lettermen as a nucleus for this season's Olympian Conference basketball campaign.

The two award winners are Pete Reinerton, a 5-10 senior, and Jeff Schweitzer, a 5-9 senior. Other seniors on the squad are Tom Koerner (5-10), Jack Bushman (6-2), Dick Silbernagel (5-10), Dale Berg (5-10), and Tom Kiel (5-10).

guard Mike Rickert returning. Harke will have a lot of height to go with Van Camp as Bill Poehls is 6-7, Tim Smith 6-3, Rick VanEperen 6-4 and Mark Poehls 6-2.

He also expects to get help from Dan Banek, a 6-1 senior; 6-6 Jim Stephani, Paul Hermes and Rick Konkle.

Van Camp, Buelow and Rickert accounted for 750 points last year.

Irish hope to repeat

FEDOM — Three key members of the Freedom Olympian Conference championship basketball team will be counted on early in the year as the Irish hope to keep their winning streak alive.

Last year, Freedom swept 14 games against loop opponents in logging a 17-3 seasonal mark. The Irish hope to be in the thick of the Olympian race again this year. Expected challengers for the crown are Denmark, Mishicot, Brillion and Reedsville.

Veteran Coach Jim Harke has all conference forward Jim Van Camp, 6-4; second team selection Tony Buelow, a 5-10 guard and honorable mention 5-9

No seniors on Amherst team

Coach Bob Abbott will have no seniors on his basketball team this season.

Last year, the Falcons finished with a 1-12 Central States Conference record and Abbott hopes to finish at the .500 mark this year.

The three letter winners returning are, Dale Lutz (5-8 guard), Dan Maves (6-1 center) and Gary Packer (5-9 forward).

"We can only go up this year," Abbott said. "We will have a group of boys who have lots of hustle, desire and who should get plenty of playing time this year. Actually, this will be a rebuilding year with our eye on next season."

The Amherst coach sees Granton and Swift suffered the injury in the first quarter of Sunday's 427 rout of the Atlanta Falcons at the Orange Bowl.

The Houston Rockets misfired. The New York Knicks just fired.

The result was a 106-93 victory for New York in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night.

"We had a great effort tonight and we had to have it to win," said New York Coach Red Holzman. "The Rockets have a very talented team."

Bill Bradley scored 30 points and Earl Monroe clicked for 28, including 20 in the second half that gave the Knicks enough fuel to burn up the Rockets.

"We're trying to prepare some new guys," said Holzman, whose team has lost some starters from last year, "but until then, we're fortunate that we have some veterans who can help us."

In the night's only other NBA game, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings ripped the New Orleans Jazz 115-97. In the only American Basketball Association game, the Denver Rockets buried the Utah Stars 145-101.

The Knicks led from the start and allowed the Rockets only a brief lead early in the second quarter. Bradley's two jump shots and a free throw at the end of the period gave the Knicks a 25-45 edge at intermission and then Monroe's hot shooting stopped the Rockets in the second half.

Henry Bibby, who has been playing for injured Walt Frazier, added 21 points to the New York attack. He played 48 minutes for the first time in his NBA career.

Nate Archibald scored 30 points and

Green, right tackle of Bills has appendectomy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Starting right tackle Donnie Green of the Buffalo Bills underwent an appendectomy Tuesday evening and could be lost for the season.

A spokesman for the National Football League club said Green complained of stomach pains during the Bills' 29-28 victory over New England on Sunday. He finished the game and complained of pain in the lower abdomen again Monday. A medical examination revealed he had appendicitis.

Green was operated on at Mercy Hospital in Buffalo, and a spokesman said it normally takes from six to eight weeks to recover completely from an appendectomy. The NFL season has six weeks remaining.

Hirsch suggests outside foe for UW spring grid game

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The conducting of a study into the possibility of bringing in an outside opponent for a University of Wisconsin spring football game was suggested Tuesday by Athletic Director Elroy Hirsch.

Such games are now banned by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Hirsch said his suggestion was an alternative to adding a 12th football game to the fall football schedule, which he said would be proposed by the Pacific Eight Conference at the NCAA meeting in January.

Jimmy Walker hit for 25 to pace Kansas City-Omaha past hapless New Orleans, which lost for the ninth straight time this year without a victory. The Kings led only 46-45 at the half, but then Archibald scored 16 points to push the Kings into an insurmountable lead.

Pete Maravich led New Orleans with 26 points, while Neal Walk scored 23

Oklahoma coach upset about recruiting charge

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said Monday he was upset by national articles he said inferred his powerful Sooners were built through illegal recruiting practices.

Switzer said he was weary of the controversy surrounding the Sooner team, which is in the second year of a two-year National Collegiate Athletic Association probation.

In a free-wheeling press luncheon, Switzer also discussed publicly for the first time a polygraph test he submitted to and passed in which he denied ever offering a recruit a material inducement in his 15 years as a coach.

He said he had been contacted by Big Eight officials during the summer of 1973 after a Southwest Conference coach asked for an investigation into an allegation that Switzer had offered a recruit an automobile to come to Oklahoma.

In order to dispell the allegation, he said he contacted the Oklahoma attorney general's office and arranged for State Crime Bureau agents to give him a lie detector test.

"They asked me one question: Have you ever offered any material things to any recruit," Switzer said. He said he answered, "No."

He said he answered specific questions about the allegation, denying that

The suggestion was made at a meeting of the UW Athletic Board at which he said the school's athletic program (financial situation was not good despite an increase in revenue of between $75,000 and $85,000 in revenue from the Badgers' four games this year.

Hirsch said increased costs and low crowds expected at road games against Iowa and Northwestern would hurt Wisconsin. He also said the school would hurt a smaller share of receipts from televised Big Ten football games because fewer conference games were being telecast.

points and collected 22 rebounds

Ralph Simpson connected on 14 straight field goals and finished with 32 points to pace Denver over Utah. Simpson also had seven assists to help the Rockets solidify their lead in the ABA's Western Division.

The 44-point victory set a Denver team record and also was the worst defeat in the history of the Utah Stars' franchise.

he had ever even been in the family's home. He said the results were sent to the Big Eight Conference and the matter was subsequently dropped.

Asked why the allegations were made, Switzer surmised the the player wanted to go to Oklahoma, but his parents did not and he fabricated the story to sway them. He said when the player was asked to sign an affidavit, he refused.

Switzer declined to name the player or the coach who asked for the probe. But he said the player had not played against Oklahoma this year.

"The ironic thing is that the kid eventually wound up with a car provided by an alumnus. The coach at the school was not involved. The NCAA knows about it, but I guarantee you nothing has ever happened about it."

Switzer said he was especially chagrined about a recent Sports Illustrated article in which he said he was quoted inaccurately several times. He said he also was irritated over the use of a quote attributed to Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who was quoted as saying that he resented playing Oklahoma "when they develop a monster team with illegal tactics."

He said the quote was a year old and he doubted its accuracy. "I've got to feel that if I have been misquoted, then he could have, too."

Switzer said Oklahoma was put on probation because a player's high school transcript was changed "and we didn't change it."

"We don't buy players, as has been implicated in articles all over the country," he added. "We don't have to...We may lose some kids, but we're going to get enough to win."

HELP-MATE

HELP-MATE is a reader-action service to help all persons with consumer problems similar to those published in the column.

It is designed as a last resort for people who have exhausted other available means to obtain suitable action or information.

Letters of potentially broad interest are selected and edited from those received by this newspaper and other sources.

If you need information or assistance involving a widely used product or service, write to HELP-MATE, in care of The Post-Crescent.

The Post-Crescent will forward the letters to Consumer News, Inc., Washington, D. C. which will attempt to secure an answer to the problem.

Please provide all pertinent information, including COPIES (not originals) of key documents such as sales slips, warranties and letters.

HELP-MATE cannot return any material submitted, so please do not include stamps or return envelopes. But each letter will be considered in determining topics for investigation and action.

REFUND ORDERS FOR TERRARIUMS

I sent $3.49 to Clairol Inc. for a terrarium, and the check was cashed in May. I wrote twice in July to find out about the order, but I have not had a reply to either letter nor have I received the terrarium. Can you help me get my money back or the terrarium?

O.J.
Clairol has stopped the manufacture and shipment of terrariums because they could not be packaged in a way that would prevent damage during shipment.

Consequently, Clairol is making refunds to all who ordered them, along with a bottle of Herbal Essence shampoo. You should receive your refund and shampoo in about three weeks, according to Lorraine Paterno, of Clairol's customer relations.

Others who do not receive refunds should write Paterno, enclosing copies of their cancelled checks. The address is 345 Park Ave., New York, N.Y., 10022.

THE DOPE ON HORSEMEAT

Is it legal for a grocer to sell horsemeat and call it ground chuck? Is horsemeat darker red in color than beef, and does it have a different smell?

J.H.

Horsemeat must be labeled as such under law. According to C.H. Pals, staff officer of the Federal Meat Inspection Program in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, it is impossible to distinguish definitely between beef and horsemeat through sight, taste or smell, although horsemeat is said to have a slightly sweeter taste. The only sure determination is through laboratory testing, he says.

If consumers have any evidence that horsemeat is being substituted for beef, they should notify their board of health and/or state meat inspection agency.

In 1973, 88,000 horses were slaughtered for meat in the U.S., mostly for export, says Pals. Horsemeat can be sold for human consumption in this country if labeled as horsemeat. The appropriate inspection sticker is colored green. Almost all horsemeat sold in the U.S., however, is for pet food.

Hospitalized Nixon casts absentee ballot

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Confinement to a hospital bed did not keep former President Richard M. Nixon from doing what most eligible voters did on election day. He voted.

"As soon as he was strong enough to hold a pencil in his hand he marked up the ballot," the former chief executive's aide, Ronald L. Ziegler, said at Memorial Hospital Medical Center, where Nixon is recovering from surgery for phlebitis.

Ziegler said the ballot was mailed to the Orange County registrar of voters, but he did not say how Nixon voted or whether the former president's wife, Pat, or daughters, Julie and Tricia, voted.

Waukesha man faces third shooting charge

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ted Medina, 19, of Waukesha, free on bond on two attempted murder charges, was charged with a third such count Tuesday.

He was accused of shooting David Varsos, 17, of Milwaukee, in the back from a car early Friday on the city's South Side.

Medina was free after posting $1,000 bond in connection with the Aug. 16 shooting of Luis Ibarra and policeman Wayne Dussault in Waukesha. Ibarra told police he was wounded after driving Medina home. Dussault said he was could give the "letter of the law" on the matter.

Can a retail store charge a higher price than the amount marked on the item, if all items are marked the same, but are incorrect? Or are they obligated to sell each item for the marked price?

Unfortunately, there seems to be no "letter of the law" governing the increasingly common situation you describe. Stores are under no specific legal obligation to sell an item only at the price marked. Many stores have been taking advantage of this legal gap to change prices frequently, sometimes two or three times a day on some items.

An official of the Federal Trade Commission says the customer "in general has no recourse" unless state law prohibits such changes or there is evidence of habitual deception or bait-and-switch. However, if a store fails to stock items at prices advertised, it may be subjected to a formal complaint for unfair practices.

The key is whether the practice is misleading. If a customer is given an opportunity even at the cash register to buy or reject an item after learning that the true price is different from the marked price, there would be no grounds for legal action. Such a practice, however, obviously is not good for customer relations.

Greg Hovendon, chief of consumer affairs in the Justice Department, says a merchant is not obligated by federal law to sell an item as marked. Canada has a new law banning repricing, but there are no local or state laws of the same kind. But several food chains, including Safeway and First National, have announced they will not change prices of items already marked.

If you think it is difficult to monitor prices now at the check out counter, wait till the computerized Universal Product Code is adopted as promised by many chains. A coded section of a product's label, when passed under a mechanical seeing eye, will automatically and instantly be recorded and tallied in detail, including a price which may not be the same as that on the package or shelf.

GUARANTEE FOR 1973 PLANTS HASN'T SPROUTED YET

On April 1, 1973, I ordered $4.50 worth of plants from the House of Wesley, Nursery Division. They acknowledged my order and returned a dollar for a portion of the order they could not ship to California.

When the rest of the order arrived, I planted and cared for the plants, but they never grew. I wrote to the company and requested a refund in line with its money-back guarantee. My last letter was Sept. 22, 1973. I have never received an answer. Please look into this matter.

M.C.
The manager of customer service for the House of Wesley, Carol Tarbox, asked that you return the shipping label from the package. She promised that the problem will be solved in accordance with the guarantee.

The U.S. Postal Service (USPS) has a new service for consumers who are unable to resolve matters with mail-order firms. USPS will forward complaints directly to the company. To obtain this service, send complaints to your local postmaster or nearest office of the Postal Inspection Service. A pilot program resolved 80 per cent of complaints in this way.

St. Regis to close

Milwaukee plant

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Plans to close the St. Regis Paper Co. paperboard and folding carton plant here, which employs about 400 persons, were announced Tuesday.

And officials of the Ozite Corp., which produces hair felt carpet pads, said their plant here, which employs more than 100 persons, would also be shut down.

St. Regis officials said the plant here, which will close Nov. 22, had a poor profit record despite efforts to improve its product.

Ozite executives said that facility would close by the end of the month because of a lack of demand for carpet cushioning.

The more holes in the page, the less holes in your budget.

He's got a very sharp wife. Always saving dimes and dollars by clipping away at the introductory offers and cents-off coupons.

For consumers it's a smart way to save money. For advertisers it's a very effective method of introducing their products.

Of course, just seeing or hearing about a coupon doesn't do you much good. It's got to be someplace you can tear into it.

That's one reason why sharp consumers and sharp advertisers usually meet each other—in print.

Egypt ready for talks on Sinai

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat today indicated Egypt is ready to go ahead with negotiations through Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for another Israeli withdrawal in the Sinai Desert.

"We shall in Egypt always be ready to regain whatever land we can," Sadat said when asked if such negotiations depended on parallel talks being held concerning Israel's withdrawal from the west bank of the Jordan River.

Sadat met newsmen after a two-hour meeting with Kissinger at the president's residence in Cairo's Giza district.

"As you know," Sadat said, "I have fullest confidence in Dr. Kissinger, and we support his continuing efforts to achieve a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

Kissinger told newsmen earlier he hoped "to make a break-through" that would open the way to new negotiations, but "the situation is complicated."

Kissinger's previous idea was a pair of simultaneous negotiations — between Israel and Egypt for a Sinai withdrawal, and between Israel and Jordan for a west bank withdrawal. But the Arab summit conference last week torpedoed that with its recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization as the future government of an independent Palestinian state on the west bank.

King Hussein of Jordan said because of that action, he could no longer negotiate for the future of the west bank. And Israel reiterated that it will never deal with the guerrillas of the PLO because of the terrorist war they are still waging against the Jewish state.

State Department spokesman Robert Anderson said Kissinger would not meet with Yasir Arafat, the head of the PLO, despite reports by Cairo newspapers that the guerrilla leader is in the Egyptian capital.

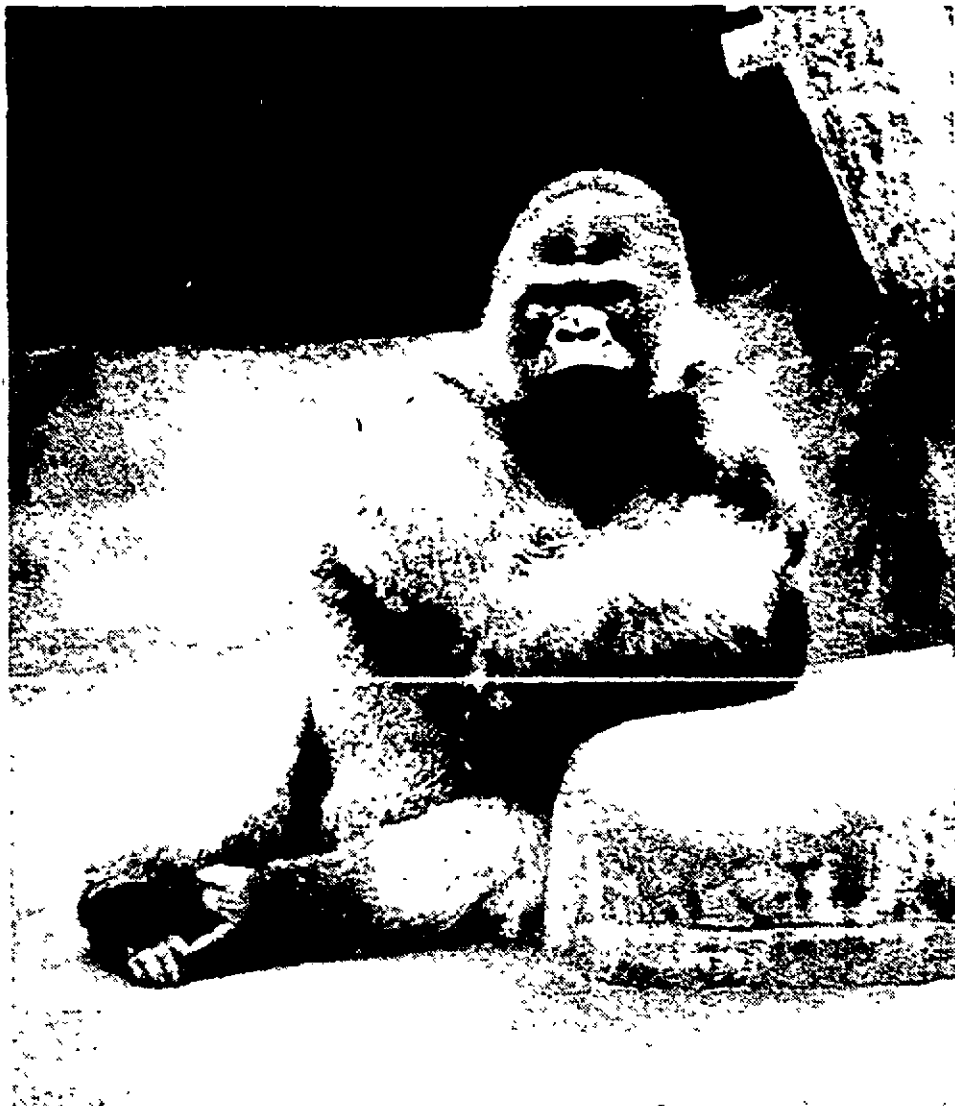

After months of militant opposition to Kissinger's mediation, Arafat was reported willing to meet with him.

Kissinger arrived Tuesday night from the World Food Conference in Rome and found Sadat in bed with the flu. They talked for an hour and a half in Sadat's bedroom.

The secretary scheduled stops later today in Saudi Arabia and Jordan. He concludes his eighth Middle East peace mission since the October 1973 war on Thursday with visits to Syria and Israel, then goes to Turkey Friday for talks on the Cyprus dispute.

Kissinger said on his arrival in Cairo that he came to get the views of Sadat and Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy, "in the light of the Rabat summit, as to how further progress can be made toward a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

Kissinger was reported hopeful that Sadat was still interested in negotiations for another withdrawal of Israeli troops in the Sinai desert without waiting for resumption of the Geneva peace conference.

U.S. accepts Lithuanian sailor as new citizen

NEW YORK (AP) — Simas Kudirka, who once vainly tried to defect to America from the Soviet Union, has returned as a United States citizen. He said that after he gets some rest he'd like to see an American prison and perhaps go sailing.

It was almost four years ago that Kudirka, 44, a radio operator on a Russian fishing trawler, climbed aboard a Coast Guard cutter and asked for asylum, only to be dragged back aboard the trawler by the Russians. On Tuesday he arrived in New York from Moscow with his wife, two children and mother.

Simas Kudirka

A few hours later — and after getting his first trip through New York rush-hour traffic — he told The Associated Press he wants to rest and, weather permitting, to go sailing.

Asked what he would like to see in the United States, Kudirka said "prisons." He said he would like to compare life in American prisons with his experience in a Soviet prison. At one point during his incarceration he was held incommunicado, unable to communicate with his family or friends. At the time, sources from Communist countries said they feared he was dead or seriously ill.

"I do not want to rest too long," said Kudirka. He added that he got only an hour's sleep in the last 37. He said he is anxious to get settled and enter his 8-year-old son and 14-year-old daughter in school.

He also said he wanted to find a job and to get "things" settled. Kudirka said that in his first few hours in his new country he was most impressed by highways. Speaking through an interpreter, he said that he was amazed at the number of cars.

When Kudirka arrived in New York he walked slowly through the U.S. customs door. But when he saw a small group of Lithuanian-Americans at the airport to greet him, he broke into a smile and quickened his pace. He and his family were surrounded, amid hugging, kissing and handshaking. Kudirka wore a heavy cloth coat and had a scarf around his neck. A hardy-looking man with closely cropped hair, he appears younger than his age. He is about 5-foot-5 and of medium build.

Kudirka paused briefly to talk with his greeters before driving away with one of the families who had worked for his release.

Kudirka was declared a U.S. citizen by the State Department July 17 while he was serving a 10-year prison sentence in the Ural Mountains for his attempted defection. The Soviets released him from prison Aug. 23, and several weeks later paperwork started for an exit visa from Lithuania.

Two months earlier his mother received the same citizenship status based on proof that she was born in Brooklyn. She was taken to Lithuania, now part of the Soviet Union, prior to World War II by her parents.

On Nov. 23, 1970, Kudirka left a Soviet fishing trawler and boarded the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Vigilant off Martha's Vineyard, Mass. The two ships were anchored together for fishing talks. Kudirka asked for asylum, but the Americans permitted the Soviets to force him back to the Russian ship.

Prosecution must now verify White House tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate prosecutors have begun the time-consuming process of establishing the authenticity of former President Richard M. Nixon's White House tapes.

For strictly legal reasons, the prosecutors must establish that the White House taping system was installed in 1969, how the recordings came to be delivered to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's courtroom and that the voices on them are the voices of the people the prosecutors say they are.

Associate special prosecutor James F. Neal said at the cover-up trial Tuesday he is anxious to clear up the preliminaries and begin playing the tapes for the jury.

"The recordings are what I consider this case to be all about," he said.

Most of the 26 tapes, which the jury will hear starting next week, record conversations in April 1973 when the cover-up was coming apart. Two of the defendants, former senior White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman, resigned April 30, 1973.

Besides Ehrlichman and Haldeman, the tapes include the voices of Nixon, former special White House counsel Charles W. Colson and former White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

The jury heard eight other tapes during the early days of the trial. All of those were played in connection with the testimony of former White House counsel John W. Dean III, who was a participant in most of those recorded conversations.

The prosecutors believe that the tapes to be heard next week are more damaging to the defendants than the earlier batch.

The prosecutors say they will call neither Colson nor Zeigler to verify the tapes. Colson is serving a jail term for a Watergate-related crime, although he was at one time indicted in the cover-up case.

The pain-staking verification process is necessary because the defendants cannot be required to testify against themselves and Nixon remains hospitalized in California.

Lawyers for Haldeman had argued that without testimony from participants in the conversation, there was no way to prove that the tapes had not been tampered with or indeed, that the conversations ever took place.

Sirica responded by allowing the prosecutors to prove the authenticity of the tapes and said he would make a final ruling later on whether they would be admitted as evidence.

To verify the tapes, the prosecutors called to the stand former White House assistant Alexander P. Butterfield, who dramatically disclosed the existence of the White House taping system before the Senate Watergate committee in the summer of 1973.

Butterfield was scheduled to return to the stand today, to be followed by Secret Service agents and other White House aides who have handled the taping system or the tapes.

Butterfield, now the administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration, said Monday the system was installed by the Secret Service in 1969 on the direct orders of Nixon.

The one-time Air Force colonel said Nixon ordered the taping in the White House Oval Office, the Executive Office Building and the Cabinet Room accomplished with extreme secrecy.

Butterfield said Nixon wanted the system installed "to record all conversations, presumably for history...."

Journalist defeated, but still loses libel suit

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australian journalist Wilfred Burchett was defamed by a former senator, but he still lost his libel suit.

Burchett, known for his writings from Communist countries, lost his libel suit Friday against John Thomas Kane, former secretary-general of the conservative Democratic Labor party.

A 12-man jury found a 1971 article in the party's magazine was defamatory but held that it came under the privilege attached to statements made in the Australian Parliament since it was based on proceedings of the Senate.

Burchett was ordered to pay the costs of the trial.

Future of Family Court topic of hearing Monday

The future of Outagamie County's Family Court will be discussed Monday at a public hearing called by Circuit Court Judge Gordon Myse.

The hearing will be at 4 p.m. in Circuit Court.

The county's first Family Court began operation Jan. 1, 1973, as a pilot program under County Judge R. Thomas Cane.

"Under terms of this program, the courts and all interested citizens were to evaluate the Family Court prior to Jan. 1, 1975, and any changes or modifications in the pilot program, as well as the continuation of the Family Court, were to be considered based on this two-year experience," Myse said.

"Any date, statistics or proposals for modification will be welcome and given serious consideration by the courts prior to a final decision being made as to whether the Family Court will be continued and what the distribution of the workload between the county courts should properly be," Myse said.

Among organizations to which specific hearing invitations were sent by Myse were Concerned Outagamie Mothers, Outagamie County Bar Association, League of Women Voters and the county board's judiciary and enforcement committee.

At present, Cane handles most divorce and juvenile matters, along with some small claims actions.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer handles most criminal and traffic matters and Judge Urban P. Van Susteren has small claims and probate work. Cane and Van Susteren also get some criminal court cases because of the heavy workload in Schaefer's court.

Eugene Pierce, 21, of Tomahawk died Tuesday of injuries suffered in an apparent traffic accident during the weekend. He was found injured along U.S. 51 north of Tomahawk by a game warden Sunday, but authorities said they don't know how he was hurt.

John Van Acker, 16, of rural Janesville, died Monday night when he was struck by a car as he walked along a country road near his home.

Unity of Arab nations puts pressure on Israel, U.S.

WASHINGTON—One deep irony of the Arab summit conference in Rabat recently is that, from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on down, no one here was slipped even a clue that the entire Arab world would unite behind the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), including that long-time, steadfast ally of the U.S., King Hussein of Jordan.

Indeed, the pledge from Saudi Arabia's King Faisal of an annual $300 million subsidy to Hussein from his pyramiding oil treasures, plus military and other aid, was not considered a practical possibility. Its effect is to drastically reduce the already waning American influence over Jordan at a worsening time.

There was, moreover, a strong implication in the Rabat communique that Hussein's sovereignty over the east bank of the Jordan River—the half of his kingdom not in Palestine proper—has been given some sort of guarantee by the major Arab powers, a guarantee he needs.

Negotiations — or war

The implications of this, together with the PLO's emergence as uncontested claimant to the historic Arab territory of the west bank, are stupendous: either Israel finally decides to run the risk of serious west bank negotiations with the PLO and its three bargaining partners (Jordan, Egypt and Syria) or a war infinitely more dangerous than 1967 or 1973 will become unavoidable within six months.

Ever since it seized the west bank in the six-day war of 1967 Israel has filibustered all efforts by Washington to push it into negotiations with Hussein over returning the territory (which is packed with Palestinian Arabs Israel could never absorb). Now the bitter fruit of that policy has ripened.

Israel's refusal to engage in good faith bargaining with Hussein became the underlying reason by itself for Hussein's backdown—under pressure from major Arab states—from his long proclaimed insistence that only he could attain territorial concessions from Israel. After seven and a half long years, he got nothing.

Decision up to United States

Now, Kissinger faces particularly ugly choices. Unless the U.S. agrees that the PLO does indeed represent the west bank, and compels a similar, radical policy switch in Israel, the deadlock on Kissinger's efforts to negotiate piece-meal settlements of the Egyptian Sinai and the Syrian Golan Heights will continue indefinitely.

But continuing diplomatic progress at this stage can lead only to military conflict, and this time all American experts agree that it would take a miracle to prevent involvement by the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

"We have begged and implored and warned the Israelis for years to negotiate a return of the west bank with Hussein," one of these policymakers told us. Indeed, some diplomats even considered exacting a price from Israel for the airlift of American weapons during the first week of last October's war: a commitment by Israel to return most of the Arab territory conquered in 1967.

Now, however, Kissinger's area for diplomatic maneuver has been dangerously shrunk by the new unity of the whole Arab world on the west bank question. Now there seems no possible way to avoid putting the issue to Israel in stronger terms than ever before.

Israel must recognize reality

That issue, as perceived by specialists here, has nothing to do with selling out Israel, as Western Europe sold out Czechoslovakia in 1938 to Hitler's Germany. Rather, the issue is whether Israel, by acknowledging the new reality on the west bank, will make it possible for Kissinger to continue to negotiate a return of the Arab lands still under Israeli military occupation.

Israeli politicians are now proclaiming that they will never deal with "murderers" and "terrorists"—their definition of Arafat's PLO. They recognize only Hussein as a suitable bargaining partner on the west bank. That is the same Hussein who has now been driven out of the west bank precisely because he could never pin Israel down to any territorial concessions.

For the U.S., the cost of the long, intimate Israeli connection is growing a bit higher every day. There is no reason to doubt that the connection will remain intimate, even though some of President Ford's policymakers say privately it involves ever-graver risks to other American interest far beyond Israel.

St. Norbert plans activities for parents' day

DE PERE — A typical campus week-end, enabling parents to sample undergraduate life at St. Norbert College, will highlight annual parents' day activities which begin Saturday.

In addition to the traditional recognition of fathers of football players during the St. Norbert vs. Northwood Institute game, some routine activities will enable parents to know campus life as their sons or daughters live it.

Reserve Officer Training Corps demonstrations are set for early morning and late afternoon in Van Dyke Gymnasium. A parent rifle range target practice is a feature of the activities.

A mass for students and parents will be celebrated at 4:30 p.m. at St. Joseph Chapel on the campus, followed by a traditional parents' day dinner in the Sensenbrenner Memorial Union cafeteria.

The music department will present piano, instrumental and individual vocal performances in an evening program. The Swinging Knights, the college's pop choral group under the direction of Dudley Birder, also will perform.

Other evening activities include a coffeehouse performance by college guitarist Bob Hardy and the annual parent-student dance in the union cafeteria.

Early filing for Social Security speeds payment

The year is coming to an end, and with it will be many voluntary retirements from employment and self-employment operations. Frank Donnack, manager of the Appleton Social Security office, suggests that persons 62 or older file applications for Social Security payment now rather than waiting for the actual retirement date. Applications can be filed as much as three months before retirement age is reached.

The early filing of applications enables the district office to do the necessary work involved, and insures prompt delivery of the first check shortly after the month for which the first payment is due. This reduces the length of time that elapses between the last paycheck and the first Social Security check.

Persons within three months of reaching 65 are encouraged to file application even though the applicant has no intention of retiring. Such applicants can then establish entitlement to Medicare benefits. Medicare helps offset doctor and hospital expenditures even though the applicant continues to work, regardless of how much is earned.

Further information can be obtained from the Social Security office, 720 W. Parkway, Blvd., Appleton.

Martha Mitchell says she feared for her life

CHICAGO (AP) — Martha Mitchell says that she feared for her life when Richard M. Nixon was president.

"I was afraid of being killed," said the estranged wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Mitchell is now standing trial on charges stemming from the Watergate cover-up.

"Since Mr. Nixon cleared out of the White House, I don't have as much fear," Mrs. Mitchell said Thursday. But she claims that the Ford administration has her telephone tapped, checks her mail and assigns agents to follow her. She did not elaborate on the belief.

Mrs. Mitchell talked with reporters after an appearance on a Chicago television program.

Mrs. Mitchell emerged from the show in tears because of a question about her drinking habits.

Rumors that she had been drinking before she made some of her celebrated telephone calls were "part of the (Nixon) administration's policy to discredit women," she said.

Plastic products firm to locate in Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — Evco, a plastic products company, has announced it will locate an injection molding facility in a 23,000-square-foot building at the corner of Murdock Avenue and Bowen Street here.

The firm expects to initially employ 40 people on a three-shift basis and will start operations with five molding machines. As new equipment is added, employment will continue to increase. The company has design engineering, tooling, manufacturing and secondary operations for a wide variety of thermoplastics.

Sales of new cars plummet

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto makers, saying they can't even get people into showrooms to look at new cars, have reported that domestic auto sales in October plummeted to a 10-year low for the month. Chrysler announced new layoffs.

October sales were down 26.8 per cent from October of last year.

"The problem is consumer concern and confusion about the economy," said a dejected industry spokesman. "People worried as well about what's happening tomorrow. We can't even get them into the showrooms just to look."

With sales during the last 11 days of the month down 35 per cent from 1973, the four auto companies said October deliveries totaled just 627,521 units, compared with 857,070 the year before.

It was the worst October performance since 1964, when sales were 566,000 units. General Motors reported a 32 per cent decline from October 1973. Ford was off 17.1 per cent. Chrysler dropped 16.6 per cent and American Motors was down 52.5 per cent.

Shortly after reporting its sales drop Tuesday, Chrysler said it is eliminating second shifts at four car assembly plants later this month and laying off 7,100 hourly workers indefinitely.

Affected by the shift cutbacks are the Jefferson Avenue and Hamtramck assembly plants in Detroit; the Newark, Del., plant and the St. Louis facility.

The company also said it is closing the Hamtramck plant for two weeks starting Nov. 11, temporarily idling 8,800 workers.

The firm already had laid off 7,750 workers indefinitely.

Chrysler, whose sales fell more than 27 per cent during Oct. 21-31, said it was cutting fourth-quarter auto production by 46,500 units.

One Big Three spokesman said the gloomy economic outlook and consumer resistance to high car prices have driven off potential car buyers.

The Big Three each tacked on record model-introduction price increases in September that averaged $450 a car.

October was disastrous for GM, whose Oct. 21-31 sales were off 39.4 per cent from last year. Monthly GM sales of 327,146 were off more than 150,000 units from October 1973.

Ford sales totaled 195,156. Chrysler came in at 87,811 — a 12-year low for October — and AMC said it sold 17,408 cars.

Including import sales, which were up an estimated 4.3 per cent to 128,000, industry deliveries during the month totaled about 755,500, compared to some 980,000 in October 1973.

Analysts say imports made gains last month because foreign companies still are selling 1974 models at 1974-model prices.

In late summer, when consumers rushed to cash in on 1974 cars at the old prices, the Big Three reported an upsurge in sales compared to other months this year. But with the new prices taking effect, September sales fell 21 per cent from the year before.

Year-to-date domestic sales were 6,514,212, down 22 per cent from

GM year-to-date car sales were down 27 per cent from the same 1973 span. Ford sales were off 15.5 per cent. Chrysler was down 19 per cent and AMC's 1974 sales were off 9 per cent from last year.

Find hidden word; try for a prize

BY CAPPY DICK
A six-letter word is the answer to the puzzle in the adjoining picture.
Clues to the letters are given in the jingle. If you can figure out what the word is, you have a chance to win a local qualifying prize consisting of a packet of 100 world-wide postage stamps and a national grand prize consisting of the exciting "Rebound" game manufactured by Ideal Toy Corporation.

Clues to letters
"Rebound" is a table game 34 inches long, 12 1/2 inches wide and 2 1/2 inches deep. It is played by sliding a puck on the surface of the game, careening it off rubber cushions to rebound and land in a scoring area. There can be various types of shots—bank shots, angle shots, straightaway shots, etc. All in all, the game is equally exciting for boys and girls and adult members of the family.

Five of the games will be awarded as the national grand prizes in this contest, one to each boy or girl who sends in one of the five correct, neatest and most original contest entries from the cities where this column is published.

There also will be five winners of local qualifying prizes in each city. These awards will be the packets of 100 world-wide stamps, enough to give any winner a start in the fascinating hobby of stamp collecting. Entries winning these local prizes will be reviewed by the contest judges to find the five neatest and most original or all these will win the "Rebound" games.

To enter the contest, study the jingle in the picture above until you know the name of a flower that is represented by the clues. Next, clip out the picture and paste it on a piece of paper. Print the deciphered flower name beneath it, along with your name, age, address and zip code number.
Decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts. Finally, address it to Cappy Dick's Midwest Rebound Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of the day after tomorrow.
Prize winners' names will be published here. Their prizes will be sent to them by mail. Judges' decisions will be final.

Hike medical expenses to cut '74 income taxes

(Third of five columns)

Millions of you save on taxes each year by taking the standard deduction, for the simple reason that your itemized deductions don't come up to the "automatic" figure given to you by the standard deduction. But you can come out even more ahead of the tax collector by accelerating your medical costs and itemizing them in 1974, then switching back to the standard deduction in 1975.

For instance, say you earn about $16,000 a year. If you itemize, you can come up with about $1,900 a year in deductions (including $100 for medical expenses). But since your income entitles you to a standard deduction of $2,000, you generally do not itemize. This year, though, the picture is different; you need $300 of dental work, which you have tentatively scheduled for early January 1975.

Example of early dental work

Instead, say you have the dental work done in December 1974 (only a few weeks earlier) and pay for it before yearend. You qualify for a medical deduction covering the full amount. Since this lifts your itemized deductions to $2,200, you itemize in 1974. The extra $200 deduction is "pure profit" because you can take the standard deduction again in 1975.

What's more, this can become even

Florida leads in drug smuggling, official says

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) — The head of narcotics investigations for the state Marine Patrol says Florida is the No. 1 drug smuggling state. He said authorities seize only a tiny fraction of the illegal drugs brought into state ports.

Maj. Lavelle Pitts said policing agencies seized more than $41 million in illegal drugs during the past 14 months. But he estimated that was only about 5 to 6 per cent of the drugs smuggled in.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

'Tapering off' no way to put end to drinking

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend of mine is sincerely motivated toward solving his drinking problem. It seems to me (and to him) that he has two choices: Either to "taper off" or to stop suddenly and completely.

With the latter course he has a serious problem with "the shakes," and that makes it impossible for him to work.

Another friend who had a similar problem claims he took large doses of vitamin B during the drying out period and it helped him tremendously. Can you give me any idea of the approximate time it should take for my friend to feel halfway human again? — A.J.S.

An estimate of the time? No, because it is variable and depends on each individual's response.

Substantial dosage of vitamin B-complex is important, and is used in such cases, but it isn't the whole answer.

It is my advice that he (or anyone with this problem) should quit cold turkey. The tapering-off method is too uncertain, too likely just to revert back into the old drinking problem.

I do strongly urge that he should be under the supervision of a physician during the drying-out process because the physician can give him tranquilizers or other sedatives to suppress the shakes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told I am a borderline diabetic. Kindly let me know what my diet should be. I am overweight — 198 pounds. — Mrs. A.A.L.

Didn't your doctor give you diet instructions? In brief, you should avoid sugar entirely, be careful about carbohydrate foods in general, and cut down on fatty foods and the amount you eat because you must lose some of that excess weight. My booklet, "Diabetes, the Sneaky Disease," will help you. For a copy, send a long, stamped, self-ad-seven minutes, but since this is the only exercise I get all day, I am not sure if it is enough. — T.F.

Run as much as your endurance, feet and legs tolerate. But I suspect that you are getting ample exercise. However, some bending exercises and similar calisthenics will help your abdominal and back muscles.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a bad case of arthritis in the cervical area. Recently it has been spreading down the spine. After examination and X ray, my doctor has suggested that I be in traction every day, approximately six pounds of weight.

I want to follow my doctor's instructions but my husband is concerned that putting that much pressure on the head and spine could be injurious. We would appreciate your comments. — S.M.

You might appreciate my comments; I'm not so sure about your husband. Traction isn't "putting pressure" on your head and spine. The weight, on a pulley, has quite the opposite aim: To lift a bit of weight off the spine temporarily. In other words, to draw the bones of the spine slightly apart instead of letting your natural weight press them gradually closer together. Six pounds is not much compared to the weight of your skull and upper body pressing downward.

Anyway, what's the point of going to the doctor and having him run tests, and then second-guessing him?

Lucey, Nelson sweep to easy victories

By DENNIS KOIS
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey captured the greatest gubernatorial plurality in 22 years, and U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson swamped his opponent, leading Wisconsin Democrats to a powerful showing in Tuesday's election.

Lucey crushed Republican William Dyke, becoming the first Democratic governor to win re-election in Wisconsin since Nelson did it in 1960.

And Nelson easily captured his third term in the Senate, burying freshman state Sen. Thomas Petri.

Democrats swept other top state offices, took control of the Senate for the first time this century, and widened their margin in the Assembly.

With 94 per cent of the vote tabulated, Lucey had 592,732 to 466,037 for Dyke, while Nelson led Petri 695,085-404,330.

Lucey's 56 to 44 per cent margin over Dyke represented the greatest gubernatorial election edge since Walter Kohler collected 62 per cent in defeating William Proxmire, now a U.S. senator, in 1952.

The governor called it a mandate for "the continuation of the policies I've been for during the past four years."

"I want to assure the people of this state that not for one moment during this renewed lease will we ever take any citizen for granted," Lucey said at a Milwaukee victory party with re-elected Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber.

"I feel this is a mandate to hold down taxes, to meet the challenges of transportation, education, social services and the environment."

Dyke, the former Madison mayor who harped on decentralization of state government during his campaign, said his effort "was short of money and faced many frustrations."

"There was a reasonable amount of frustration during the campaign, but we feel we did the best we could with what we were given," he said. "If we didn't prove it to the fat cats, experts or big-money boys, we proved some things to ourselves."

Dyke had complained that GOP funding of his campaign fell short of needs. Party officials responded that they gave what was available, and Dyke said early today he "was not in any position to speculate about support from the party."

Dyke won 28 of Wisconsin's 72 counties, but fell far behind in urban Democratic strongholds. Lucey outpolled him by nearly 2-1 margins in Milwaukee and Dane counties.

With 66 per cent of the wards tabulated, American party contender William Upham led five other candidates for governor with 21,372.

Independent Crazy Jim of Milwaukee had 9,477; Socialist William O. Hart 4,498; Communist Fred Blair 1,791, and Socialist-Labor Georgia Cozzini 1,156.

Nelson lost only seven counties to Petri, 34, a Harvard lawyer and former Peace Corps worker who figured to gain stature in the state GOP for his effort.

Petri, who walked across much of the state in his campaign, ran independently of the White House to avoid the taint of Watergate, and blamed deficit government spending for encouraging inflation.

"I would especially like to congratulate my worthy opponent on a fine victory," he said in an election-night appearance at the Democrat's victory party. "I look forward, as I'm sure all citizens do, to their doing the job of running the country during the next two, four and six years."

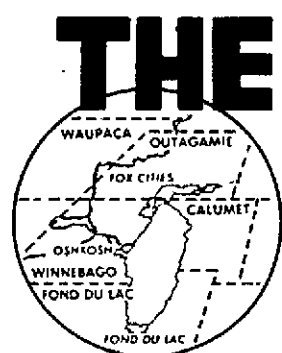

Nelson, a senator for 12 years, made his support of legislation to protect land resources a major item in his campaign.

The senator, 58, said the nation has been getting warnings that abuse of environment and resources would lead to energy shortages and inflation.

He tried to avoid any campaign criticisms that might have linked his voting record to that of excessive spending, and pointed to the Senate records on spending measures of he and Democratic Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin.

With 54 per cent of the wards tabulated, Gerald McFarren, the American party contender for the Senate, had 11,054 votes and independent Roman Blenski 800.

Cornell ousts Froehlich from 8th District seat

BY CLIFF MILLER

Post-Crescent staff writer

The same political upheaval that was sweeping Democrats in and Republicans out nationwide reached into the 8th Congressional District of Wisconsin Tuesday, sending to Congress a Catholic priest who wore a blue donkey pin on his clerical suit.

The Rev. Robert Cornell of De Pere, making his third consecutive bid for the House seat, defeated Rep. Harold V. Froehlich of Appleton, one of the Republicans who voted for impeachment of his party's President, Richard Nixon, on the House Judiciary Committee.

The outcome was evident within less than two hours of the 8 p.m. closing of the polls Tuesday. But a grim-faced Froehlich never made a concession statement and put off until today the traditional phone call of congratulations to the victor. Cornell didn't climb on a chair to make his victory speech until the night had slipped more than halfway into the first hour of morning.

Unofficial returns this morning from the district's 13 courthouses showed the Democratic priest with 74,070 votes to Froehlich's 67,007, a 52.5 per cent edge for Cornell.

Both candidates described the district — which Froehlich carried by less than 51 per cent two years ago — as marginal in its party alignment under normal circumstances, implying the results Tuesday reflected the peculiarities of 1974. In short, Cornell has two years of hard work ahead of him if he is to hold onto the district as its first Democratic representative since 1942.

The results in Wisconsin and elsewhere in the nation were reminiscent of 1964 when Democrats rode into Congress on Lyndon Johnson's coattails. Two years later, some of the same Democrats who had captured formerly Republican districts lost them to the other side.

One of those was Wisconsin's 6th District, which was represented from 1964 to 1966 by John Race of Fond du Lac. An ironic twist of Tuesday's voting, which replaced two of the state's four House Republicans with Democrats, was the election of Race as Fond du Lac county treasurer, his first public office since losing his House seat to Republican Rep. William Steiger eight years ago. He again unseated a GOP incumbent.

Cornell carried all but the most heavily Republican counties in the district, Shawano, Vilas and Waupaca. He even added Froehlich's home county, Outagamie, to the string of nine that he carried. Unofficial returns showed a 525-525 tie in Florence County.

Cornell also cut into Froehlich's margin, compared with the returns two years ago, in those counties and precincts where Froehlich led. Froehlich's home-town margin in Appleton was down by four percentage points from 1972, from 59 per cent to 55. He outpolled Cornell this year 8,988 to 8,906.

Two years ago, Cornell carried his home Brown County by a wide margin and repeated that performance Tuesday. He had carried Kewaunee, Langlade and Menominee counties two years ago. This year he added Door, Forest, Marinette, Oconto and Outagamie. The rural Town of Enterprise in Oneida County is also in the district. Froehlich carried the tiny community again but by 53-41 compared with 93-46 over Cornell two years ago.

Though small, the little town is typical of the rural returns throughout the district, with Froehlich losing support heavily.

He attributed the rural losses to current farm problems and said he had not expected farmers to turn against him. Neither he nor Cornell had placed much emphasis on farm problems except in a general way. The rural vote was never openly mentioned as a possibly significant factor in the election.

Froehlich saw organized labor as a major factor in his urban losses. He claimed professional labor representatives toured the district in the late days of the election, giving assistance to Cor-

Democrats make big gains nationwide

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nation unsettled by Republican scandal and burgeoning prices handed Democrats a much tighter grip on Congress and a near-record total of governorships in the mid-term election of 1974.

The majority party picked up at least four Senate seats, for a total of 62, and captured two-thirds control of the House.

As of midday, the Democrats had 291 Representatives — one vote more than the so-called veto-proof margin — and were leading in several other races that were still to close to call.

Tabulations were also incomplete in some governors' races, but the likely outcome would give the Democrats four more state mansions for a total of 36 — the greatest number since their 1958 landslide.

But the GOP scored a major upset in populous Ohio, with 65-year-old James A. Rhodes barely squeaking by incumbent Gov. John J. Gilligan — who was regarded as many as a rising national star for the Democrats.

Rhodes, a former governor, had conceded defeat during the night, and the final margin was so tight that a recount was almost certain.

At the White House, press secretary Ron Nessen declared today that "No one thinks this was a referendum on the President. . . . It will not affect the President's decision that he probably will run for election in 1976."

The Democrats got several new faces to watch as potential candidates in the presidential campaign two years away: Govs.-elect Hugh L. Carey of New York and Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, and Sens.-elect John H. Glenn Jr. of Ohio and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas.

And the losers included a half-dozen Republicans who had been among the loudest and longest defenders of former President Richard M. Nixon: four members of the House Judiciary Committee who stood by Nixon during last summer's hearings and Reps. Dan H. Rostenkowski of Illinois and Earl F. Landgrebe of Indiana.

Though the Democratic gains Tuesday were a bit below some pre-election forecasts and in line with the normal off-year pattern of opposition party success, Democratic spokesmen hailed their victory as a signal to supplant

Ford's economic policies with measures of their own.

"This is not just a victory, this is a mandate," declared Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, scheduled to preside over the first House in a decade with a two-thirds Democratic margin, theoretically the "veto-proof" body Ford warned might block his programs.

Other Democrats cocked their eyes towards 1976 and the presidential contest they hope will restore them to White House control.

If Ford doesn't change his economic programs "we will win the White House in 1976," declared Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas, a likely Democratic presidential contender. And Sen. Henry M.

Jackson of Washington said he might unveil his White House bid before year's end.

"We're seeing the rebuilding of the old Democratic coalition which served the Democratic party and the nation so well for so many years," declared Democratic Chairman Robert S. Strauss, adding that the result was more than a victory, but also an opportunity to tackle "break and butter" issues.

At the White House, President Ford watched the returns on television and conceded his party had lost.

"I have accepted the verdict," he said. "Those who lose often come back to win another day."

Lopsided Congress doesn't bode well for Ford

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — That good marriage President Ford proposed to Congress may be headed for a quick divorce. The election returns point to incompatibility as the likely grounds.

The voters have confronted the Republican President with the most heavily Democratic Congress since Lyndon B. Johnson's landslide election a decade ago.

And while Ford said he is confident he can work with the new Congress to deal with inflation and the economic slump,

An AP News Analysis

all the signs signal a heightened struggle over economic measures.

Against the background of Tuesday's election outcome, it is likely to begin almost immediately, when the current 93rd Congress returns for its lame duck session beginning Nov. 18.

For one thing, any slim prospect that Congress would act this year to give Ford the middle and upper income tax surcharge he proposed as an anti-inflation measure appears to be gone now.

And given the shape of the new Congress that will convene in January, if Ford ever gets the surtax through, it likely will be altered so as to apply only to high income brackets.

The new Congress will be more aggressively liberal, more likely to challenge Ford on foreign and defense spending, more attuned to domestic programs.

House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, an old friend of Ford's, but a Democrat first, said his party had a mandate, not just a victory.

Albert said the Democrats now can move with more confidence on such programs as national health insurance, tax reform and public service employment.

He also said the White House had focused on inflation while neglecting the problem of recession. "We believe we can meet both problems simultaneously," Albert said.

Ford said there was no argument that inflation was the No. 1 issue.

"The mandate of the electorate places upon the next Congress a full measure of responsibility for resolving this problem," he said. "I will work with them wholeheartedly in this urgent task which is certainly beyond partisanship."

But other politicians put inflation squarely in the partisan arena. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who is virtually certain to seek the White House in 1976, and who said the election outcome will push up his timetable for an announcement, argued that the voters are fed up and want action now.

"We're all going to have to move sooner and faster and much more effectively," Jackson said. "They're fed up with high prices, obscene profits. They want something more than WIN buttons."

Another Democratic prospect, Sen.

Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas, said Ford had better change some of his economic policies. "If he doesn't we will win the White House in 1976," Bentsen said.

The economic argument can only escalate as the maneuvering begins for presidential campaign position in 1976.

If the economy was the overt issue, Watergate was the undertow for Republicans in the Tuesday balloting. Republican National Chairman Mary Louise Smith said the backlash of scandal led to GOP defeats.

"I think this election is probably a final chapter of those difficult times," she said.

It also was a final chapter for Republicans who had, until the waning days of his presidency, defended Richard M. Nixon. Charles W. Sandman Jr. of New Jersey, Earl F. Landgrebe of Indiana, Dan H. Rostenkowski of Illinois, those congressman and many more will be missing when the new Congress assembles.

Lorge defeated by La Follette

Undoubtedly assisted by the magic of the family name, Bronson C. La Follette Tuesday engineered a return to the Wisconsin attorney general's office with an easy victory over State Sen. Gerald D. Lorge of Bear Creek.

La Follette, 38, two-term attorney general in the 1960s then an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1968, carried most of the urban areas and cut deep into rural votes that Lorge had counted on.

Incomplete and unofficial returns show La Follette with 571,796 votes and Lorge with 407,308.

Two of four Fox Valley area counties gave Lorge the vote edge. Outagamie County went for Lorge 17,251 to 14,360, and Lorge outdistanced La Follette 6,539 to 3,269 in Waupaca County. Calumet County gave La Follette the edge 4,211 to 3,912 and incomplete returns from Winnebago County showed La Follette with 8,766 and Lorge with 7,729.

Lorge's home town of Bear Creek lies in Outagamie and Waupaca counties.

Victories by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, Bronson La Follette and his shirttail relative, Douglas LaFollette of Kewaunee, who had no trouble defeating two opponents for secretary of state, helped propel Wisconsin Democrats to their most resounding election triumph in this century.

State Senate Democrats captured control of the upper chamber for the first time since 1963.

Lorge, 52, has spent 23 years in the Senate and the Assembly, but he conceded during his vigorous personal contact campaign for the state's top law enforcement job that he faced difficulty because of the familiarity of the La Follette name.

"I'm running against a ghost," Lorge once commented.

Bronson, a Madison attorney, is the grandson of Robert (Fighting Bob) La Follette Sr., the son of Robert (Young Bob) La Follette, a former governor and senator, and a nephew of Phil, also a governor.

Lorge urged voters not to ballot for a name. At the same time, he had to make his name more familiar across the state.

He repeatedly tried to publicly debate La Follette but rarely succeeded.

Lorge capitalized on comments by La Follette at a La Crosse news conference, where the Democrat said he was inaccurately quoted as favoring legalized prostitution. Other remarks by La Follette were interpreted to mean he wanted less severe penalties for some drug offenses. La Follette later clarified his statements, stating that he would be tough on any commercialized vice, including prostitution, but that the legislature probably should take another look at laws prohibiting sexual conduct between consenting adults. He saw some of those laws as archaic. La Follette, who was quoted as saying he had tried marijuana, said more emphasis should be given by law enforcement to the drug pusher instead of the user.

As La Follette was trying to undo damage resulting from his initial remarks, Lorge was seizing the opportunity to harvest support from the law enforcement community. His most significant single show of support from that quarter came from Milwaukee policemen.

Lorge also insisted that La Follette was trying to reduce the size and power of the state Department of Justice's Criminal Investigation Division, which was greatly expanded under former Atty. Gen. Robert Warren. La Follette stopped short of saying he favored cut-

Nixon has collapsed lung

LONG BEACH, California (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's personal physician describes Nixon's condition as "terribly physically weak," after revealing Nixon's right lung has collapsed.

Hospital spokesman Norman Nager said Dr. John C. Lungren's report Tuesday meant there was "an inactive area of living tissue" involving a small portion of the organ, but the condition is more commonly defined as a lung collapse.

"It is something which could be serious or could even clear up tomorrow," Nager said. "Tests are being run, and we'll know more when the results come in."

Doctors not connected with the case said that the condition, called atelectasis, is not necessarily a cause for concern, especially since Lungren said the atelectasis was detected last week. It wasn't revealed until Tuesday.

A pulmonary specialist said atelectasis is caused by blood clots or, recent surgery; Nixon has phlebitis surgery last week. He said it also can be an early sign of pneumonia.

Economic woes traced to corporate losses

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent staff writer

The nation's economic woes can be traced to a long-term decline in profits within corporations, and until this is recognized and reversed, the troubles will get much worse, Charles H. Smith Jr., president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, warned Tuesday night.

2 hospitals won't combine on obstetrics

Obstetrical services will continue to be provided by both city hospitals, a joint planning committee of Appleton Memorial and St. Elizabeth hospitals has decided.

The decision to retain the services was made public this morning after the group had weighed the possibility of consolidation. Discussions have been going on since 1972.

The joint committee, an advisory group of 12, includes the presidents of both hospital boards, two physicians from each of the medical staffs and the two hospital administrators.

"We have discussed the question for some time but we do not believe it is feasible to consolidate," the statement read.

The joint study approach is not new to the two hospitals. In the past two years the hospitals jointly engaged a management consulting firm to make long-range studies of total hospital services with special emphasis on overlapping or duplicated service. Obstetrics was one area which the consultants said the hospitals should study for possible consolidation.

Apparently, the agreement of the joint committee at its most recent meeting a few days ago was to retain the individual obstetrics departments, but no specific reasons were given in the official statement.

Cooperative ventures which have emerged from the joint planning group include the 24-hour emergency department at St. Elizabeth.

Agreement also has been reached on limiting a number of special capabilities at one hospital or the other. The cardiovascular diagnostic laboratory and open heart surgery program at Appleton Memorial is an example.

The meetings also led to the establishment of a transportation system between the two hospitals at no cost to the patient, if such a necessity arises.

The committee was set up a few years ago to routinely study patient care programs at each hospital in an effort to eliminate duplication of community resources.

Speaking to about 470 people at the 100th anniversary banquet of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, Smith attributed the misunderstanding of the need for profits on some politicians who "will increase the barrage of economic nonsense designed to obscure the realities of the world we live in... (and) help them avoid responsibility for the economic chaos" that is largely the result of government action.

If America is ever to break away from the "spend and spend, elect and elect" syndrome, its electors will have to start recognizing and rejecting such half-truths and misleading promises, he said.

Smith said America has worked itself into a dangerous economic situation which profits and subsequent massive investment in expansion can change.

"As a nation, we are now in the same position as the playboy who has inherited a fortune from his father and is living high off the principal," he said. "If this playboy continues to spend principal, he will exhaust it and wind up with nothing. If he changes his ways, lives within his income and makes new investments, he will be better off in the long run."

Smith said "it is time for the political leadership of America to recognize that profit is a key ingredient in achieving progress and prosperity."

The remedy is not easy or likeable, he said, and in today's political climate, it may be impossible.

America must encourage consumer saving and discourage spending, probably through tax law changes, and simultaneously create incentives to stimulate capital spending by industry.

Smith was the main speaker at the 100th anniversary commemorating dinner which also served as the delayed annual meeting. The meeting was delayed until the new chamber building was expected to be completed, as the chamber employees moved into the new building.

At the banquet, Robert Buchanan took over officially as president, with outgoing president Howard Crabb being honored for his year as chamber leader. And the Appleton chamber was honored as a charter member of the 45-year-old state chamber.

Clyde Schluter, Wausau, past state chamber president, praised the local chamber as among the best in the state. Smith had the same praise for the chamber on a nationwide basis.

Smith, also chairman of SIFCO Industries, Cleveland, Ohio, sought to warn the gathering that the nation was heading into a serious economic decline, and that a misunderstanding of "profits" was one of the key reasons for it. He pointed to the energy shortage and the shortage of raw materials, and said they are threatening the nation's standard of living.

The reasons for the shortages, he said, were the wage-price controls over the short term and the sudden worldwide demand for products that has outpaced the supply over the long term. He attributed the latter mainly to the new affluence of other nations.

He blamed America's failure to increase its productive capacity for its declining position in relation to other nations.

"The real need in America today is to find ways to increase the production of goods and services, ways to create more materials and supplies, ways to find more sources of energy, ways to open up new and more productive factories, ways to find new sources of raw materials, even ways to find completely new materials that can be substituted for those in short supply," he said.

If government leaders are sincere in wanting solutions, they must work to bring about more expansion capital, Smith added.

He said that on the average it takes $25,000 in capital investment to create one job. Using the example of spending $5 million to create 200 jobs, he said there are four ways to create capital, but all four require reasonable profits to be possible.

Quoting a speech by Gerald Ford before he was President, Smith said profit is required because it is needed for research and development, exploring for new raw materials, expanding and rewarding investors.

But, Smith said, still quoting Ford,

"profit is pictured as a rip-off. It's denounced as exploitation. It's held up as something the bad guys steal from the good guys."

"In my view," Smith quoted, "the people who are hammering these notions into the national consciousness are playing a dangerous game."

"Amen, Brother Ford, Amen," Smith added.

Smith said there are "imaginary" profits which arouse the public. He cited examples of, in one case, the company which was forced to take funds from profits because the depreciation of equipment didn't keep up with inflated equipment costs and, second, another company which was forced to use profits to buy raw materials because a combination of inflation and corporate income tax on inventory increases ate up raw material capital.

In both cases, the companies are headed for trouble, he said.

"Scale that situation up from the level of one company to the level of the national economy and you have a frightening picture but, alas, a relatively accurate one," he said.

Clintonville considers contracting for joint private ambulance service

CLINTONVILLE — After reviewing recent actions of the ambulance committee, the City Council Tuesday agreed to consider contracting a private ambulance service jointly with other municipalities.

Ald. Robert Kitzman (2nd), chairman of the ambulance committee, told the council that Clintonville has been without ambulance service since April, 1973, when the local funeral homes discontinued offering the service. The volunteer rescue squad has been responding to many "ambulance-type" calls since that time.

Officials from the areas currently served by the rescue squad met with the ambulance committee in September, at which time Kitzman told them that after July, 1975, because of state law, the rescue squad cannot be used as an ambulance. Its staff cannot meet the training requirements and the vehicle cannot meet the truck specifications included in the law.

Kitzman stressed at that time that the rescue squad still will function as a rescue vehicle but it will not be able to transport the people it rescues.

The volunteer rescue squad serves the cities of Clintonville and Marion; villages of Embarrass, Bear Creek and Big Falls; towns of Bear Creek, Belle Plaine, Deer Creek, Dupont, Grant (Caroline is unincorporated and is a part of the Town of Grant), Larrabee, Matteson, Navarino (community of Navarino is unincorporated and is part of the Town of Navarino) and Pella.

The committee is discovering that the only feasible plan may be to have a private business operate the ambulance service with a government subsidy. This is the case in New London and Waupaca.

An ambulance board composed of representatives from every municipality served would oversee the operation.

Officials at the September meeting were asked to discuss the matter with their respective boards and determine whether there is an interest in joining Clintonville in an ambulance subsidy program.

Kitzman reported that the committee has heard from four municipalities and that another meeting has been tentatively scheduled for next week.

He also said that, from information available, the city is still eligible for a grant. The city submitted an application to the state for a grant for an ambulance. If approved, the state will give Clintonville up to $7,500 toward the purchase.

City Atty. Ralph Lauer wrote to the mayor and council that he had been unable to find any clear authority but it was his opinion that a city can subsidize private ambulance service.

"There are two warning points that should be mentioned," he noted. "Section 62.12 states that a city has no authority to pay in advance for services to be performed; and, 62.15 provides that contracts in excess of $1,000 must be given to the lowest bidder unless there is a three-fourths vote of the council."

"I have considered the legality of the city joining with towns and under Section 60.29 (17) towns are specifically authorized to contract for ambulance service."

Several persons have indicated an interest in operating an ambulance service, but it was noted that up to this time, the council hadn't decided whether the city will participate.

A resolution was adopted that the city would enter into joint agreements with surrounding towns to:

- Obtain a grant from the federal government to acquire ambulance equipment.

- Contract with and lease such equipment to qualified ambulance operators who would operate for the benefit of the inhabitants of the city and towns who are parties to the agreement.

- Enter into a subsidization agreement with the operator based upon population.

In other business, the council agreed to temporarily borrow funds to complete city projects and to cover current expenses until state shared taxes are received.

To pay the balance of construction costs of rebuilding Main Street, sanitary and storm sewers, the city will borrow $100,000 from the Dairyman's State Bank, Clintonville.

To pay current expenditures until revenue is made available from revenue sharing, state aids and unpaid taxes, the city will borrow $100,000 from the First National Bank of Clintonville.

Martens is new Calumet sheriff

CHILTON — Newly appointed Calumet County Sheriff Garnett Peterson, running on a Democratic ticket, was defeated, 4,660 to 3,772, here in Tuesday's election by Fredrick Martens, a former Calumet County traffic patrolman.

Peterson had been appointed Oct. 1 by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey after former sheriff Theodore Pagel resigned to take a position as New Holstein chief of police.

Martens had been a county traffic officer for 26 years. Peterson was a former Chilton traffic officer for 4½ years and Winnebago chief of police for 7½ years.

Martens's strength was solidly distributed throughout the county with an especially powerful block in New Holstein, his home town, where voters favored him by a 520-278 margin. In the Town of New Holstein, a traditionally Democratic area, voters selected him by a 229-189 margin.

Fredrick Martens

Martens piled up 594 votes in the City of Brillion to carry the area. Peterson had 347 votes. Town of Brillion voters favored Martens, 311-105. In the Town of Charlestown he received 260 votes to Peterson's 152 and in the Town of Harrison he had 436 to Peterson's 366 tally. Rantoul voters favored him by 276-83. He carried Stockbridge by a vote of 163-140.

Martens carried 11 of the 19 precincts in Calumet County, according to County Clerk Donald Schwobe.

Peterson's major strength was in the City of Chilton and the City of Appleton. He received 534 votes to Martens's 344 in Appleton polling and at Chilton had a margin of 790 over Martens's 459. Peterson also solidly carried Brothertown by a vote of 228-194.

Martens, 54, served for seven years with the New Holstein Police Department as a policeman and radio operator before becoming a county traffic officer in 1955.

He is a veteran of World War II. He has conducted safety schools and bicycle programs in Calumet County and has attended seminars on alcoholism and drugs.

Brillion school board to draw from reserves

BY JANICE JOHNSON
Post-Crescent correspondent

BRILLION — The board of education, after reviewing the budget Monday, voted to maintain the original budget figures as approved by electors at the July annual meeting and to take additional funds needed for operation from cash reserves.

Some of the items not reflected in the budget are: Additional teacher salaries due to the fact that one person could not be hired to fill a combination vacancy; an error in teacher aide salary calculations of $2,920; the installation of a new furnace at Forest Junction School at $7,800; additional salaries for driver education instructors for after school and weekend time; and the addition of a part-time speech therapist at approximately $4,000.

Supt. Gaylord Unbehaun also pointed out that inflation is taking its toll on items approved for purchase in departmental budgets. Virtually every invoice received is higher than anticipated, and for September alone, invoices overran budget costs by $467.

The board had the option of adding to the levy to raise the additional funds or to take the balance from cash reserves, now amounting to $88,000.

Unbehaun cautioned against constant depletion of cash reserve, noting that the district had a "paper deficit" of $24,000 at the end of the fiscal year in June. This was because payroll checks were written and posted, but not yet distributed. The other factor to be considered when tapping the reserves is that the district will incur additional interest expense on operational funds needed prior to receipt of tax revenues.

In voting to maintain the original figures, the district will levy $708,013 for current operation and $216,513 for debt service and building fund, including purchase of property.

Unbehaun was authorized to calculate the tax rate when equalized value figures are received from the state and to notify each municipality of its applicable portion.

In other business, the board authorized hiring another speech clinician on a three-day basis. Part of the reason for the additional staff is because James Larson, former full-time speech therapist, is working half time in speech and half time in the administrative posts of elementary coordinator and program designee for Chapter 89.

Larson reported that at present, 2 per cent of the student population or 21 students, have been identified as having exceptional educational needs in language disability. Larson anticipates the figures will rise to state projections of 3.5 per cent soon due to new referrals, pre-school referrals and those from the parochial schools.

Children identified for placement in this program are not those with simple articulation problems, but rather those with more severe disorders directly related to academic needs. Program costs for work with these children are reimbursable at the rate of 70 per cent.

Larson estimated that with his additional duties he can handle a maximum of 12 therapy slots per week. In addition to more therapy time needed, additional time is required for evaluations. Larson recommended that a person be hired for four days now with a full-time schedule in January.

A motion was passed to hire a teacher for three days per week, with the only negative vote cast by board president Donald VandeYacht.

A related issue raised, but not decided, was whether the board would be willing to hire additional therapy time for work with students who have the simpler articulation problems. Costs incurred would not be reimbursable with state funds and would be totally a local cost.

Robert Behnke, representing the Brillion Athletic Association, was present to get board permission to use the new gymnasium for the Eastern Wisconsin Basketball League play-offs on March 9 and 16. Board member Robert Stanelle opposed the request on the grounds that it violated an informal board policy on holding fund-raising events at the school on Sunday. The balance of the board approved the request, but withheld a determination on fees until costs associated with custodial services can be evaluated. Unbehaun noted there is a problem in getting persons to handle custodial work on Sundays.

Contracts were signed with Brant and Leick transportation services for transporting students to parochial schools in Sherwood, Wayside and Morrison. Costs average close to $80 per year for transporting each of these 17 students.

Committee threatens Woehler

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

A court action was threatened Tuesday by the Outagamie Finance Committee unless County Executive Alan Woehler furnished the committee with background information it wanted on the 1975 executive budget.

The committee had requested a list of personnel in each department, along with the individual salaries, to be used to justify the salary requests in the executive budget.

Woehler sent word to the committee that he would not release the information.

The executive was to meet with the finance committee this afternoon on other questions on the budget and committee members indicated that unless he changes his mind and provides the information, a court order will be sought to force him to comply.

County Board Chairman Eugene Higgins, who just returned from vacation and had not sat in on previous finance committee meetings on the budget, concurred with the threatened action.

Supv. John Schreiter, finance committee chairman, had requested the county clerk to send a memorandum to each department asking for the information after a request to Woehler to include it in his budget had been ignored. Some department heads did comply with the committee's request, but others indicated they had never received the memorandum from the clerk.

Higgins called Supv. Sylvester Lenz, chairman of the personnel committee, who indicated he would have the information supplied to the committee. After a short time, when the information did not arrive, another call to Lenz revealed that Woehler had refused to release the data.

This is the latest in a long-standing battle between Woehler and the finance committee over budget information. The committee has contended for several years that it has not been provided sufficient information to make informed recommendations on Woehler's budget requests.

This is the first year, however, that the finance committee has attempted to enforce its demands and has called in most department heads for budget explanations, rather than relying on Woehler.

Higgins and some of the committee members indicated that unless a better explanation is provided, they may vote to reject the executive budget.

There also were indications that the finance committee may bring in a recommendation for the creation of the position of finance director for the county.

A recommendation on the corporation counsel's budget also was held up until a final decision is made on whether to continue the office full time or if it should be made part time.

Higgins said his recommendation would depend somewhat on what happens in today's election for county clerk. Depending on who is elected, he said, the proposal for a legislative secretary for the county board could possibly be incorporated into the clerk's office. Then, he said, the board could look at combining the corporation counsel's office and the office of family court commissioner, which is already part time.

About 51% go to polls

WAUPACA — Prompted by interest in contested state offices, about 51 per cent of Waupaca County voters went to the polls Tuesday and returned an unopposed slate of Republicans to county posts.

Elected were Eleanor Dretzke, county clerk, with 7,725 votes; John DeVaud, county treasurer, 7,631; Lawrence Schmies Sr., sheriff, 7,611; Dr. Sam Salan, coroner, 7,552; Orin Stevenson, clerk of courts, 7,618; Gerald K. Anderson, district attorney, 7,571; and Lester Breier, register of deeds, 7,745.

Schmies, who had won the Republican primary in September, is the only new officeholder.

Rottier triumphs

Outagamie County's district attorney-elect, Kenneth Rottier, was jubilant Tuesday night at a victory party in Little Chute. Rottier de-

Rottier whips Ensley for DA

Armed with public endorsements from most police agencies, Democrat Kenneth Rottier, in his first bid for elected public office, easily unseated Outagamie County Dist. Atty. John Ensley Tuesday.

Rottier, 30, who last June was fired as assistant district attorney after he told Ensley he intended to run against him, carried all but three precincts in whipping Ensley 20,230 to 11,800.

Ensley carried only the towns of Dale and Maine and tied Rottier in the Town of Maple Creek.

In the only other county contest, Republican County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan, 60, had little trouble winning a fourth two-year term by turning back Democrat John M. Dollevoet, 27, of Kaukauna, and George Schroeder, 55, a county board member from Freedom, who ran a distant third as an independent.

Unofficial totals showed Hoolihan

with 16,789 votes, Dollevoet with 11,805 and Schroeder with 2,983.

Dollevoet outdistanced his opponents in Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Combined Locks and the towns of Buchanan, Vandenbroek and Oneida. Dollevoet works at a Combined Locks paper firm.

Schroeder carried only the Town of Freedom, where he farmed for about 25 years.

Rottier will be the first Democratic district attorney in recent Outagamie County history.

He has lived in the county less than two years, having come here in April 1973 to become Ensley's top assistant.

Rottier had been an assistant district attorney in Racine County.

He had staunch support from policemen in all parts of the county. Police, for much of Ensley's two years in office, have voiced loud dissatisfaction with his performance. They have charged that Ensley has overdone plea bargaining and has generally been soft on crime.

About a year ago some of his harshest critics were instrumental in getting the state Department of Justice to investigate Ensley's office. Gov. Patrick Lucey and former Atty. Gen. Robert Warren reported that state agents had found nothing to warrant taking action against Ensley. However, the investigation report was not made public.

Rottier emphasized his court conviction record as assistant district attorney and his police backing during his campaign. Ensley countered that he did not want police support during the campaign. Everyone should be treated equally, with no preference shown policemen, he said.

It was the first time police departments had openly endorsed a candidate for public office.

Rottier, who defeated attorney Paul Horvath in the September Democratic

Antishoplifting plan working in New London

NEW LONDON — Police Chief Jack Algiers has reported that local merchants and employees have been cooperating in the campaign against shoplifting and because of this, he had had fewer apprehensions about controlling this crime.

Algiers made his report at the North East Chamber of Commerce Crime Control Council meeting last week at the Fox Valley Technical Institute.

A 12-point bulletin to aid in store security for employees will be available for merchants from the chamber of commerce office in the continuing effort to control shoplifting and other crimes.

primary election, joined a Seymour law firm after being fired by Ensley. Rottier is a native of De Pere. He graduated from St. Norbert College and the University of Wisconsin Law School. He served two years in the Army.

He and his wife and child live at 1009 W. Marquette St. in Appleton.

Joining Rottier as a new office holder was Ruth Janssen, 27, who was unopposed in her Republican bid for clerk of courts to succeed the retiring Elizabeth Davis.

Miss Janssen's unofficial vote total was 21,627.

Incumbents returned to office without opposition and their unofficial vote totals were: Sheriff Calvin L. Spice, 23,326; Treasurer Peter Berg, 20,356; Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, 22,557; and Register of Deeds D. P. Peeters, 21,913.

Spice is a Democrat. The others are Republicans.

CLINTONVILLE — The City Council Tuesday night voted to purchase two Ford Torino cars for the police department at $3,739 each from Clintonville Motors, Inc.

Action was taken after considerable discussion on bids received from Clintonville Motors, Tripod Chevrolet and Klein Chrysler-Plymouth, all of Clintonville. Bids were made according to the city's specifications, which asked for either a minimum wheelbase of 110 inches and 300-cubic-inch engine, among other requirements. Bids are also specified either on a lease or purchase basis.

The two squad cars now in use are on a lease contract which expires at the end of December.

The only bid received on a lease basis was from Clintonville Motors. The police and fire commission had recommended accepting the lease bid of $320.66 per month for each of two Ford Torinos, including a maintenance agreement plus four new tires in addition to those on the cars. It was pointed out that the city employs a full-time mechanic and a half-time mechanic at the garage who should be able to handle maintenance of the new squad cars.

Noting that the cost for leasing each car would be $3,849 — which included the maintenance agreement and tires — and the purchase price would be $3,739, the council approved a motion to purchase the two vehicles.

The council also accepted a police and fire commission recommendation that the city run an advertisement seeking a location and care of a dog pound on a contract basis. The cost could be paid in whole or in part by owners of the dogs impounded.

Chuck Krueger of Krueger's Hardware appeared before the council about a letter he had sent two months ago asking permission to use part of the parking lot at the rear of his store for testing snowmobiles.

Ald. Cal Waite (3rd) said the matter had been tabled at a previous meeting. He said there had been a misunderstanding, and it was thought Krueger was asking for a snowmobile route.

Krueger said the request was only for testing and not demonstrating and the testing would be done during mostly daylight hours from 9 a.m.-4 or 5 p.m.

A motion was approved granting a permit for testing snowmobiles to Krueger's Hardware, to be renewed on a 30-day basis upon approval of the police department, and upon proof of necessary liability insurance. There was one dissenting vote.

On the recommendation of the board of public works, the council accepted the low bid of Maass Roofing Co., Seymour, of $2,484 to repair the city garage roof and the bid of $1,093 of Grant & Son Sheet Metal Co., Clintonville, for the sewage treatment plant roof.

A letter from the public library about needed repairs to the roof was referred to the board of public works with permission to advertise for bids.

The council adopted a resolution authorizing the mayor to sign necessary documents relating to development of the industrial park. The resolution was requested by Foth & Van Dyke, consulting engineers.

The council also:

- Accepted the planning commission's recommendation to adopt the updated city master plan as prepared by Max Anderson Associates, Madison.

- Declared a parcel of city-owned land on 16th Street as surplus and authorized that it be advertised for sale.

- Reconsidered purchase of parking lot property behind Krueger's Hardware from Rueben Lendved and considered purchase of adjacent property offered for sale by Schultz Brothers store. A motion was approved with one dissenting vote to purchase the Lendved property, which is 46 by 120 feet, for the appraised value of $2,300, and the Schultz Brothers property, which is 46 by 60 feet, for the appraised value of $1,150. Ald. Howard Cross (4th), who is manager of the Schultz store, abstained from voting on the motion.

- Heard that no request had been received to continue the mobile home permit on the Nu-Craft property. The council had voted to have the permit terminated.

Overnight walk ends in happy homecoming

WEYAUWEGA — A long walk ended happily Monday for Paul, a 54-year-old patient at Lakeview Manor, thanks to the cooperative efforts of the local police and the sheriff's departments of Waupaca and Portage counties.

Paul, a former resident of Iron County, has been institutionalized for 23 years with an illness that has made him uncommunicative. He chooses not to talk and has little interest in what is going on about him.

On Sunday he had taken a short walk around the grounds and had supper. However, he failed to report for his medication about 5 p.m. and a search was made of the grounds.

When he could not be found, the administrator reported the man's absence to Police Chief Larry Schmies and Sheriff Loran Frazier. They searched until midnight — but there was no trace of the missing man.

Early Monday morning Robert Skeels aided in the search from an aircraft and a bloodhound team was called in from Wausau. En route to Weyauwega, the bloodhounds' master saw a man sitting along the roadway and mentioned this to Lakeview Manor staff while the bloodhounds were making the search.

Portage County officers went to the Amherst Junction area to check out the man seen sitting along side U.S. 10.

It was Paul, dressed in shirt, pants and a light sweater. He apparently had walked the 21 miles through the night. Meanwhile, the bloodhounds had traced a part of his journey from Lakeview Manor to County Trunk AA.

When returning to the nursing home early Monday afternoon, according to the staff, he ran happily through the doorway "with a look of I'm home" written plainly on his face.

Coal appears sufficient in valley

Fox Valley area residents shouldn't suffer much, if any, from a possible coal miners' strike because the major power utilities serving them have several months supply of the fuel.

If there were an extended strike, the first to feel it would be the few industries in the valley which rely partially or fully on coal for fuel, and some of them have rather large supplies also.

One municipality, the City of Menasha, relies completely on coal for its utilities providing power for all small industries, commercial establishments and residences. A spokesman said the utility had over a month's supply in on-hand coal and commitments.

The possibility of a strike became strong today as negotiations between the United Mine Workers and the coal producers broke down, with no new plans for bargaining. There was talk of a shutdown Saturday or Sunday.

A spokesman for Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., the major utility for the Fox Cities area, said the firm's customers might be affected by an extended strike, like over 30 days, but "I don't think that we're going to have that much of a problem. It depends, of course, on the severity of the winter and the length of the strike, if we have one."

Wisconsin Michigan uses no coal for power, but would be required to share its power with its parent firm, Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Milwaukee, a partial coal-user, if there was a strike. That firm has a 60-day supply of coal at its Oak Creek plant and 120-day supplies each at its Port Washington and Valley plant near Milwaukee.

Wisconsin Michigan's energy sources are 85 per cent nuclear and about 15 per cent hydro, while Wisconsin Electric's are 57.5 per cent coal.

The company spokesman said that since the coal for the firms comes via the Great Lakes, most is shipped during the warm season.

However, Wisconsin Electric is preparing for a possible shortage with a priority plan that it will ask the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin to approve. This would include several options, the first being industries voluntarily cutting back and the ultimate step, "only if necessary, being cutting off certain residential areas for short periods, the maximum being two hours, the Wisconsin Michigan spokesman said.

As always, residential users are top priority, or the last to be curtailed, he added.

Wisconsin Public Service Corp., Green Bay, is in a "reasonably comfortable position," according to E.W. James, vice president of power generation and engineering. It has a 150-day supply at Green Bay and 65-70 at Weston near Wausau.

Only Weston might have problems because it ships its coal by rail, he added.

The firm is shifting from about 82 per cent reliance on coal to about 66 per cent by the end of next year, as its Kewaunee Nuclear Power Plant use expands.

Wisconsin Power and Light Co., Madison, which serves part of Waupaca County, has about a 70-day supply of coal. If the strike lasts four or five weeks, the firm would seek to maximize its use of the available supply, said Donald Piepenburg, director of public relations.

He also noted that other effects of a coal strike would be a shortage of steel and other products produced by coal-burning industries in the United States.

Parking restricted at Marion

MAKION — An ordinance prohibiting parking on city streets being cleared of snow drew no opposition at a public hearing Monday and was adopted by the City Council.

The ordinance prohibits parking on streets being cleared of snow and requires the owner to pay the cost of having the vehicle removed.

A police committee proposal to allow restricted rabbit hunting with guns in the city limits was accepted. Permits will be issued by the police department.

The council also agreed to put studded snow tires on the police car and voted to purchase police clothing for Eugene Stuhler, who is attending police school at Wauwatosa.

Ald. James Beyer (3rd) was authorized to negotiate with Marion Body Works for the installation of a dump box on the new city truck which recently arrived.

Ald. Hollis Sether (2nd) and the police committee were instructed to review the bicycle ordinance and licensing and present recommendations at the next meeting.

A new pay schedule for city employees was adopted by the council. A special meeting at 7 p.m. Nov. 18 has been scheduled for the budget hearing.

Programming trophy won at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Tim Brandt, a junior at the senior high school, has won the student programmer of the month award offered by the Northeastern Educational Processing Lab (NEPL).

Clintonville is one of 23 schools with computer terminals connected by special telephone lines to the computer at Cooperative Educational Service Agency No. 9, Green Bay.

At each school the local computer coordinator selects the best programs written by students and sends them to Green Bay where they are judged by a three-member committee. Each program submitted is evaluated on originality, applicability and performance.

The programs are evaluated each month and a traveling trophy is awarded to the student who has written the best program. The trophy is displayed at the winning student's school for one month.

Brandt's winning program selects the proper revolutions per minute to cut seven different metals using any one of the following machines: A drill press, lathe, plain mill or vertical mill. He also wrote a program which measures the extrasensory perception potential of an individual and that program finished second in the October competition.

There also will be an award for the best student program of the year with

New London planners will make three requests of City Council

NEW LONDON — Recommendations on voting by ballot, organizing a bicentennial committee and preparing a 10-year comprehensive plan will be sent to the City Council by the planning commission when the council meets at 7:30 p.m. today.

Approving a motion by Duane Brown, the commission Monday voted to recommend that the council vote by secret ballot whenever the mayor or an alderman requests it on "major or controversial issues" and post the results on a voting board in the council chambers.

Brown, who also represents the city on the Waupaca County Board, favored the idea used by the county board on major votes.

The proposal is seen as a solution to "follow the leader" voting which has been criticized privately by some officials and residents. The officials say that often on major issues, some aldermen, uncertain about their feelings, vote the way aldermen voting before them do, obscuring or even changing the outcome of close votes.

Secret ballots are prohibited under state law only if the results are posted immediately where spectators can see them.

The planning commission, after requests from officials, will ask Mayor Herman Gagnow to have all boards, committees and commissions to submit proposed 10-year capital improvement plans so the planners can draw up a comprehensive plan for capital expenditures.

The city previously had a 10-year plan that became out-dated after attempts to revise it failed.

The commission, in an attempt to organize the plan that will be used as a guideline for annual budgets, has asked for proposed street, curb and gutters, sidewalk, building, parking lot and land improvements over the 10-year period.

The commission also will send aldermen a recommendation asking the council to appoint a bicentennial committee to make plans for local observances during the national celebration in 1976.

Parent-teacher talks in Brillion

BRILLION — Parent-teacher conferences have been scheduled from 6:30-9 p.m. Nov. 14 and 15 for the public schools here.

Conferences will take place in the library and the open area on the second floor of the north wing. Parents have been assigned a specific conference time. However, if they are unable to keep the appointment, they can come at a time suitable to them. It is not necessary to call the school.

Boat ramp requested

The city of Appleton has applied to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for authority to build a boat launch ramp on the bed of the Fox River near Peabody Park. The purpose of the ramp will be to aid rescue and recovery efforts for river victims.

The DNR may grant the application without a public hearing if no objection to the request is filed before Dec. 1.

The concrete ramp, to be used by the fire department's rescue boat, has been estimated to cost $10,000.

Fire Chief Fred Selig said his department has been looking into the feasibility of the ramp for more than a year, and that his department worked with the Department of Public Works in obtaining permission to build the ramp at the site.

Selig said the ramp is needed because there are no present facilities for easy access to the river near the College Avenue bridge.

The nearest access to the bridge is from the sewage disposal plant, located nearly a mile downriver from the bridge and off Newberry Street. The steep river bank and presence of rocks prevent launching from other areas closer to the bridge, Selig said.

Access for the city's other bridges is at Lutz Park, which Selig termed adequate.

He said the need for the ramp off Peabody Park was illustrated about two years ago when a woman jumped off the College Avenue bridge. Although she was rescued later, Selig pointed out that such operations would have been speeded up by the presence of the ramp off Peabody Park.
